Trading in corn was active and the market was strong all day because of strong cables, small primary receipts, the advance in wheat and unfavorable news regarding the progress of the crop. During the progress of the crop. During the greater part of the day prices were more than one cent above the close of Wednesday, but the late break in wheat wiped a large part of the gain. The close was strong. September opened 15% c. higher at 65% c. higher at 65% c. dvanced to 15% c. and then declined to 54% c. higher at 60 c. Local receipts were 25 cars with 35 of contract grade.

Cais were active and strong. Reports of serious damage to the growing crop in Wisconsin and Illinois by green bugs were the chief source of strength. The market was affected by the decline in wheat and lost much of its early strength. September opened 15% higher at 25 c. Store the chief source of strength. dends and rates were easy Discounts were quiet.

On the stock exchange the amount of business transacted was small. The release of dividends did not bring in any outside demand, but the markets were cheerful and prices were firm. Americans ruled steady at yesterday's improvements. The New York quotations came good and New York bought well, especially Union Pacific and Bouthern Pacific. The whole list improved and prices closed firm. Foreigners generally improved under Paris support. Japanese imperial sixes of 1904 closed at 18th. Kaffirs were cheerful. PARIS. BEEF STEERS

SHEEP-Receipts of sheep were very moderate, only seven cars being reported in. They were all Idaho ransers, wethers, ewes and yearlings, excepting only one load of fed western ewes. There was a fair demand, considering that the week is so near at close, and practically everything changed hands in very fair season in the morning. As to prices, there was no material change, both buyers and sellers generally quoting it as a good, steady market.

LION'S CALL OF THE WILD Animal Born in Captivity Severely Wounds on Incautions

"Dewey," the African lion in Central park, New York, hearkened to the call of the wild. Althours born in captivity, the blood-thirsi inherited from the jungle forbears seized him as he lurked in the gloom of his cage, toward which James Coyle, an experienced keeper, made his way on his final rounds shortly before $ o'clock at night. Dewey has always been a favorite with he keepers and they relax somewhat their vigilance when they deal with him. Se Coyle took little heed as he grasped a har of the cage. He dropped a cloth on the floor, and still grasping the tron bar, A roar shook the lion house, and Coyle screamed with pain as Dewey's teeth gripped his hand. Coyle drew back with all his strength but the tion held him as in tack was unmistakably recognized by all the other beasts in the house. Six lions, right leopards, two wild cats, two hyenas Coyle knew that unless he could prevent being drawn within striking distance of dening, but he held his ground for a time. Then his strength began to fall, and inch nearly to the elbow Dewey struck. were torn loose when Coyle flung himsel backward with desperate energy. Dewey' teeth still held the hand and again Coyle was drawn pittlessly forward. His cries for help were heard by Policeman Poley. slashed hie victim's hand several times be fore Foley, at risk of serious injury, reached inside the cage and brought his club down over the lion's nose. Dewey snarled victously and his jaws snapped to gether.

Coyle, weak from pain and loss of blood fainted at that moment. The weight of his falling body dragged his hand from the lion's mouth, but the small finger of the right hand had been severed at the second joint.

The roaring of the captives brought th reserves from the arsenal on the double quick. They encountred men and women who, believing that one or more of the beasts had escaped, were fleeing from the

Dun's Report on Bank Clearings

Sank clearings in June, as reported by R. O. Dun & Co., show further development trade, total exchanges for the month, at all cities in the United States, outside of New York, being $4,767,306,664, an increase of 7.7 per cent. over last year and 16.6 per cent. over Juna 1905. The increase is mainly in the West. There is still a loss in bank exchanges at New York City, due to the much smaller volume of security trading and the much lower security values this year than in either of the two preceding years, and to some extent this condition affects the Boston and Philadelphia figures unfavorably, and this causes a small decrease in the New England and Middle States. The increase at Pittaburg reflects the continued the New England and Middle States. The increase at Pittaburg reflects the continuous activity in the tron trade, and the large gain at Chicago and other leading Western cities reflect the greater activity in grain and higher grain values, though trade in all lines is very active at the West and payments prompt. There is an increase at Baltimore, Cincinnati and St. Louis, but a small loss at New Oriesns and Louisville. San Francisco and other Pacific coast points report a large increase in sx-changes. The average daily figures include New York City bank exchanges, and the amount at New York is so large and the loss so heavy, that a decrease in the average daily figures appears in the comparison with last year for every month but March, that month being the only mouth this year in which New York reports a gain, and the only mouth this year in which stock trading was more active than in the preceding year. Compared with 1906 average daily blink exchanges for the year to date show normal conditions. Comparison is made below of bank exchanges by sections covering three years; also the average dally figures for the year to date:

At Western cities bank clearings still show very large gains at many points, indicating a very wide distribution of merchandise and a large volume of payments through the banks. much in excess of preceding years. There are notable gains at most centers, especially at Minneapolis, St. Paul, Kansas City, Topeka, Cedar Rapide and Denver. The detail are printed below:
