Columbus Wins-A genuine novelty in so ciety affairs-the stork party-was introduced in Columbus last Friday afternoon Mrs. William Schroeder, who entertained for her daughter. Mrs. Frank Rudat. In purpose and design does the stork party share in novelty. It is a pleasant privilege for the guest at a stork party to bestow upon the honored guest such articles of riothing as may be of future usefulness in the nursery. In another respect the stork party is made novel and interesting by having numbered among the guests, in person or by proxy. Mr. Stork himselfthat rare and beautiful bird to whom is ascribed the tireless duty of bearing sweet babies to homes throughout the world. At the party given by Mrs. Schroeder thirtyfive married women were present. The much decoration was the refreshment table, mid of roses, mounted by a large snow-white stork, from whose bill ribbons were draped to each plate. Attached to the ribbons at the plates were large peanut shells of papier mache, each shell containing one or more buby dolls. Each guest was permitted to select her own place and no matter whether or not it bore significance. Much merriment was caused when one of the recent brides in Columbus found in her shell a choice assortment of three little dolls. After the refreshments Mrs. Rudat was showered with the gifts of baby clothes.-Columbus Telegram.
