IDENTITY OF DESPERADO

Man Who Shot Policeman Thought to Be Wanted in New Mexico.

DEATH SENTENCE OVER HIM

Escaped After Being Convicted of Murder—Picture Identified by Parties Who Saw Him in Council Bluffs.

The police now think it possible that the desperado who shot Officers Wilson and Richardson, killing the former, may have been Rosano Emilio, who escaped April 27 from the officers at Lincoln, N. M., after he had been sentenced to death for the murder of a Mexican woman with whom he had been living.
 The police have a picture and description of the fugitive, Rosano Emilio, and the likeness to the man wanted here was noticed. Yesterday Chief Richmond sent for E. Aspinwall and J. Berry, proprietors of the cigar store on Broadway, where the man who shot the officers offered a $250 pocketknife for 25 cents, and a man named Callaghan, who was stopping at the Kial hotel, to whom the fellow did sell the knife after offering it to Messrs. Aspinwall and Berry. The three were separately shown pictures of various criminals wanted in different parts of the country contained in the "rogues' gallery" at police headquarters, and each picked out the picture of Emilio as answering the description of the man who had offered him the pocketknife for sale. Emilio is said to speak Spanish and Italian in addition to English, and Aspinwall, Berry and Callaghan stated that they each noted the soft accent of the stranger who offered them the knife.
 It will be remembered that when Aspinwall, Sunday night, saw the man he notified Patrolman Richardson and confided to him his suspicions that the man was a crook. Richardson followed the man pointed out to him by Aspinwall, and the shooting followed.
 Chief Richmond, after the identification of the picture of Emilio by the three men, wrote to Lincoln, N. M., for further particulars. There is little doubt but that the man who shot the officers is a desperate character, who is wanted somewhere for a serious crime.
 Late Friday night Sheriff Canning and a posse of officers went into the country about nine miles east of the city, having received a tip that a man crippled as if from a wound in the foot and answering the description of the fugitive had been seen near the S. G. Underwood farm. The officers succeeded in locating the fellow, but he proved not to be the man wanted and the posse reached home about 3 o'clock yesterday morning.

 Open Air Water Works Meeting.
 G. H. Scott and Councilman Wallace spoke from a wagon at the intersection of Broadway and Fourth street Saturday night in opposition to the proposed water franchise. Their oratory attracted a big crowd and both speakers were accorded liberal applause.
 An open air meeting is announced for Monday night at Bayless park, when G. H. Scott, Thomas G. Harrison and others prominent in the ranks of the opposition to the franchise will speak.
 The registration for the election next Tuesday closed last night. While but incomplete returns were received from the several precincts, it is believed that about 50 registered. Fifty registered in the First precinct of the Second ward, sixty in the First precinct of the Fifth ward, and sixty-five in the First precinct of the Sixth ward. This was said to be about the average in the other precincts.

Boys Break Windows.

Frederick Agnew, Emanuel Lee and Hubert Fry, three boys, will have a hearing Monday morning in the juvenile division of the district court before Judge Wheeler on the charge of wantonly breaking sixty-two panes of glass in the Second Avenue school building Saturday afternoon. Residents in the vicinity, hearing the noise of the breaking glass, went to investigate and found the three lads. It is alleged, busily engaged in the act of vandalism. They succeeded in capturing two of the boys and held them until the arrival of an officer. The third boy made his escape, but his parents were notified to bring him into court Monday morning. The two boys who were caught were later released in custody of their parents.

friends erected on the college campus almost as soon as the survivors had returned. This monument is a square shaft of white marble on a base of native Niagara limestone, the whole structure being twenty feet in height. It is buried among the trees that have grown since its erection in November, 1865. On the north side, below the names of the soldiers, is the following inscription:
 ERECTED BY THE FRIENDS OF THE SOLDIERS FROM THIS COLLEGE AND VICINITY WHO FELL DURING THE GREAT REBELLION
 In the corresponding position on the east stands the following record regarding the president:
 REV. JAS. W. M'KEAN, PRES. OF BOWEN COLL. INST. & CAPT. OF CO. 4 IOWA VOL., BORN APRIL 30, 1833, DIED FEBRUARY 18, 1865, AT MEMPHIS, TENN.
 All four sides upon this upper shaft are closely covered with the list of the dead. Forty-two in number, all but sixteen students. The ages are significant, some of them in the teens and all the others in the early twenties. In all sixty-two students enlisted. The one boy who was too young was W. A. Robinson of Chicago. He was 12 years old. He was a visitor at the celebration and vividly described the scene in the chapel when the recruiting officer was present. President McKean made the appeal, after the unusually fervent and solemn religious service, and the boys marched up one after another and signed the roll. He says he has never since so fervently wished himself older. He at once proceeded to organize and drill a com-

Boy Attempts Suicide.
 CORNING, Ia., Aug. 4.—(Special).—Fred Cromer, a boy of 15, shot himself Thursday with suicidal intent. Before he could get in a second shot he was interfered with by a friend. He inflicted only a flesh wound, the ball of a .22-caliber going through and out just below the ribs. He is getting along all right.

Burlington's Home-Coming.

BURLINGTON, Ia., Aug. 4.—(Special).—Burlington, Ia., the first territorial capital, will observe the seventy-fifth anniversary of the settlement of the town with a splendid celebration, September 9 to 15. The event has been designated "Home Coming Week" and thousands of invitations have been sent to former residents of the city, welcoming them back to the old home town for a week of pleasure. The general public is also cordially invited to come to Burlington and take part in the great celebration. A splendid series of striking features has been arranged for the entertainment of the thousands of people who will be attracted to Burlington for the Old Home Week. The Mississippi river will be the scene of water carnivals, there will be parades, a large number of bands, gatherings at Crapo park and other events. The week will open with Old Settlers' day, Tuesday will be Fraternal and Military day, Wednesday Des Moines County day, Thursday Mississippi River day, Friday Industrial and Commercial Travelers' day, Saturday School Children's day, Sunday Church day.

Sneakthieves Rob Tents.

CHARLES CITY, Ia., Aug. 4.—(Special).—Sneakthieves entered fifteen of the Chautauque tents last night and stole watches, jewelry and pocketbooks from under pillows, ripped open grips and took the contents. No arrests were made as the parties were not found. Sheriff Schermerhorn has offered a reward of $50 for the apprehension of the thief. The thief chose a secluded spot on the river bank where there are no electric lights for his work and entered the tents from the rear. The heaviest loser was Andrew Houser, assistant cashier of the Commercial National bank, who was robbed of a suit of clothes, his shoes and $15 in money.

SCHOOL AND COLLEGE WORK

Department of the Interior has appointed Dr. Luther H. Gullick, professor of physical training and hygiene in New York university, and physical director of the New York public schools, a delegate to the international congress on school hygiene to be held in London, August 26 to 30th.
 Mrs. Smith, principal of the Shortland department of the Omaha Commercial college, was made the recipient of a beautiful piece of china by some of her students a few days ago. She prizes it very highly because of the motive which prompted its giving.

Omaha Commercial College.

In anticipation of a heavy enrollment during the coming fall term the various departments of the Omaha Commercial college are being overhauled and put in splendid shape.
 In a recent issue of the Penman's Art Journal, the official organ of the Business Educators' association of the United States, published in New York City, is a large half-tone picture of the Omaha Commercial college. In connection with this picture the following statement is made: "The new building recently erected by Rohrbaugh Bros., proprietors of the Omaha Commercial college, is undoubtedly the finest business college building in America today." This certainly speaks well for business education in the west and is something of which Omaha should indeed be proud.
 Mr. Charles Hafke, a court reporter in the Philippines for three years, has been engaged by the Omaha Commercial college for the coming year, the purpose being to organize a class for students desiring to fill high grade positions in business houses of the present year. A special effort is being made to turn out the highest grade of stenographers. Mr. Hafke will give services to the shorthand department of this institution beginning at the opening of the fall term, September 2.

Educational Notes.

Prof. Edgar W. Stanton, who has been in the faculty of the Iowa State Agricultural college since his graduation in 1872, is the first person ever graduated from the institution.
 According to the report of the comptroller of the currency, there are 5,512 school savings banks in the country, with a cash balance of $744,456 on the first of the present year.
 Dr. Oscar Loew, since 1901 professor of agricultural chemistry in the University of Tokio, has accepted the position of chemist in the Puerto Rico Agricultural Experiment station.
 The increase in the salaries of women teachers in the public schools of Greater New York will require an additional $2,000,000 for the coming school year. The total school budget is estimated at $20,000,000.
 Theodor W. Richards, professor of chemistry at Harvard university, who is one of the exchange professors who will visit the Omaha Commercial college, have just issued a 10,000 edition of a pocket catalogue, printed in two colors, which is now ready for distribution. A copy will be sent to any address.

During the past week the Omaha Commercial college received ten calls for bookkeepers and stenographers from the business houses of Omaha, a number of these positions were filled by students. The demand for competent young men and women is simply beyond the supply.

Prof. Warner and his wife of the Sioux City Business college spent Friday evening looking over the various departments of the Omaha Commercial college and was greatly pleased with the new building, commodious rooms and the system of book-keeping now taught in that institution. They made a very pleasant call and left for home Friday evening.
 President Eliot of Harvard, is spending most of his days at Northeast Harbor, out of doors and a large part of each day in more or less strenuous physical exercise. He keeps in as good training physically as the average undergraduate. He rows a stroke which sends a boat faster through the water than the average vacationer could hope ever to attain.
 Dr. Adolph Wagner, for thirty-seven years professor of jurisprudence and political economy in Berlin university, has just celebrated his fiftieth anniversary as doctor of philosophy. Many noted men of science from all parts of Europe and America attended the celebration, and they have been so well received in France that with the order of the Red Eagle.
 At a special meeting of the trustees of Union college, in the University Place Presbyterian church of New York, Dr. George Alexander, pastor of the University Place Presbyterian church of New York, was elected temporary president in his place. Dr. Alexander is a trustee of Union college, from which he graduated in 1866.
 The trustees of Colorado college have selected Dr. George Maxwell Howe to fill the chair of German, made vacant by the death of Prof. L. A. E. Ahlers. Dr. Howe is an alumnus of the University of Indiana. His graduate work was done at Cornell university and the universities of Berlin and Göttingen. After four years in Germany and a year of teaching at Dartmouth college, he went to the department of modern languages in Cornell university, and has held that place for six years.
 Dr. Joseph Dunn, professor of Gaelic at Cornell university, has received word from the French government that he has been appointed an officer of the French academy because of his researches in Breton folklore and his interest in Breton literature. For the past six years Dr. Dunn has been contributing numerous articles to the best magazines on this subject, and they have been so well received in France that it was resolved by the academy to confer this honor on him. He is only 30 years of age.
 The teachers of Somerville, Mass., a suburb of Boston, whose salaries have not increased in twenty years, though the cost of living has grown ever higher, lately presented twenty-seven yards of petition for better pay, the signatures being citizens of the town, but the city fathers made no reply that they had no money in the treasury, and the ill-paid teachers were given leave to withdraw. Later the city fathers voted $20,000 from the funds of the city treasury for a monument to the soldiers who fell during the civil war. That, indeed, should be done, but a proper increase of salary to underpaid teachers is just as vital a duty.
