In the Byways.

I walked with you where the byways led, Till the glosming came and the stars hung near; Then we stood while the boughs met overhead, And I spoke my heart that your heart

And mute you listened, ah, mute and still!
No word of my lover's tale to miss,
And neither "I will not" nor "I will"
You said, but you gave me your lips to kiss.

You made no answer, the burning rose
Of your mouth you gave where the dark boughs lessn.
But the angels know, or the devil knows
How much, how little a kiss may mean.

The last of August practically closes the season of '06 and '07 and marks, although almost imperceptibly, the beginning of the new social year. It has been a gay summer-the gayest that Omaha has ever known-and while there still remain several weeks in which the clubs will continue the centers of attraction, from now on their informality will no longer meet all the requirements of the advancing season and the drawing rooms, closed and covered since early last spring, must be opened preliminary to the inevitable round of formal functions that attend the late fall and early winter. The "Kindergarten" as their elders pat- and Mr. L. Drishaus two. ronizingly call the college set which has monopolized so much time and attention this summer, will soon be off to school again and, by the way, will be greatly missed. #### WHAT CLUB WOMEN ARE DOING

Local and County Woman's Christian Temperance Union Active.

STATE PROGRAM ABOUT READY

Art, Literature, Domestic Science and Pleasanter Lines of Club Work to Predominate at Hastings Meeting.

No matter what frivollty the summer vacation may have brought the club woman nor how far afield she may have wandered, September is sure to bring her thoughts back to clubdom again, and October find her ready for whatever the winter's program may include. Local club women have begun to realize that the vacation days are about over and the middle of the month will see most of the program committees well at work on the "outline" for the coming year. Few of the clubs however will resume their meetings before the first or second week of October. While the majority of the clubs of the state elect their delegates to the state federation convention in the spring, there are a few that neglect this business until fall and these constitute the majority of the clubs that will meet before the state convention convenes the second week of October at Hastings.

The program for the Hastings convenion is about complete and will probably be given publicity next week. Mrs. F. H. Cole of Omaha, chairman of the program committee has spent the summer in conference with other workers and correspondence with desirable talent with the result that a treat awaits those who will attend the Hastings meeting this fall. While the who has been spending the summer with program is to be educational in every sense it is to be entertaining as well and than that of the last two conventions Owing to the state legislation in which the women have been interested during the last two years, their meetings have partaken largely of the subjects being agitated. It is no secret that child labor, pure food, property rights and increased state appropriations, no matter how great their need nor how energetically they have been women because recognized as needing their support rather than through any natural choice, and it will be with sincere relief that the women will again give their attention to art, literature, domestic science. and the pleasanter lines of club work. The program of the Hastings meeting promises to emphasize decidedly, this side of club work and with several prominent speakers brought to the state for the occasion and their offerings supplemented by discussion from many of the brightest and most cultured women of the state the prospect is most inviting. To the program will be added several other treats to be supplied by the women of Hastings.

Douglas County Convention. The annual convention of the Douglas County Women's Christian Temperance union, held at Elk City Thursday, proved altogether successful from every standpoint. The attendance was large, good results were reported and plans made for another year, while a promising corps of officers and superintendents were elected to direct their successful carrying out. The following officers and superintendents were elected: President, Mrs. George Covell of Omaha; vice president, Mrs. W. G. Whitmore, Valley; recording secretary, Mrs. G. P. Almost an entirely new set of officers was elected at the annual meeting last month and at the last meeting the following women were elected superintendents of Mrs. Charles Hungate, china decorator; the various departments of the union's work: Mrs. Fred Patterson, superintendent of franchise; flower mission, Mrs. Nellie Patton; jail and prison work, Mrs. Shinrock; Demorest medal contest work, Mrs. W.
