The county attorney, sheriff and coroner viewed the remains, but refused an inquest, the letter declared.

The governor will order the body exhumed and an inquest neid.

CENTRAL CITY, Neb., Sept. 5-(Special Telegram.)-James McGirr, a man not known here, on July 16 was at the town of Chapman when a saloon had an opening there, drawing a large crowd from the surrounding ferritory, among them a crowd of Greek laborers employed on the Union Pacific road. The Greeks gained the impression that McGirr was trying to rob them and they took him about four miles. from Chapman on a handcar and let him go. It is said, heading him toward Central City. When he was found McGirr was on the right of way and his body was mangled Coroner U. S. Adams of Clark investigated and decided that he came to his death by accident, probably being run down by the train while intoxicated, as it was shown that he had been drinking. No inquest was held and no official report was made of the circumstances. A. L. Stiers is a physician at Chapman, recently arrived
