SUNDAY AT THE THEATERS

Miss Pochontas Charms Large Audience at the Boyd. GOOD BILL AT THE ORPHEUM. Wizard of Oz Opens Engagement of a Week with Standing Room Crowd at the Krug. R. L. Giffin, presenting the Comedy Opera company of New York in 'Miss Pochontas,' a comic opera in two acts. The cast: Captain John Smith, Walter Jones; Pow-Ha-Tan (big chief), George LeBois; Mighty medicine man, Neil McNeil; Juan-De-Isa (strong heart), George Fox; John Rolfe, J. J. Patton; John Swaney, Fredrick; John J. Patton; John Swaney; Splinter-in-the-foot, Bill Miller; Deep-Voice, Harry Miller; Contractor McLaughlin, Daniel Hall; Not-Around-a-Lunch, Henry Hunter; Painter-Painter, Vandiver; Jane, Boice; Sister, Blanche Deyo; Kee-See, Kee-Wan-Dee, Anna McNabb; Snow-White, Emilie Wellington; Ne-Nee-Moo-Sha (sweetheart), Gladys Egan; Nesmeyer (Robin), Loraine Bernard; Questonia Plum, Marie Terry; Messenger boy, Loraine Bernard; Bride, Mollie Hall; Lester Allen Pochontas, Marie Dupuis. There may be a search of opinion as to how to class this bit of 'foolery,' which was again heard by a good sized audience at the Boyd last night, but there could be no debate as to its entertaining qualities. Messrs. Barnett and Baker have furnished a liberal supply of bright and breezy fun in the book and play, which has added a second interest by providing Walter Jones, Blanche Deyo and a score of others who make up an unusually strong cast. The two acts are brimful of catchy songs and the lines abound in witty repartee and a reasonably good supply of humor. The setting of the play is in Virginia at the time the Smith family came within an ace of losing a popular ancestor via the block. This interesting bit of history does not have a great deal to do with what happens on the stage, but it gives a very pretty background for the dancing and madrigal to be sung by the girls. The charm to the scenes. The opening chorus in the forest is only the beginning of a series and each one of the group drew heavy encores. Walter Jones gets into the game every little while and every time he was called back repeatedly. Dan J. Sullivan hits are too numerous to mention and his tramp specialty in the second act was pronounced worth the price of admission by many of those who saw it. Miss Deyo was slightly hoarse, but she captivated the audience in her song numbers and was seen in three dances of her own. Her introduction in the song from the branches of the tree, 'Oh, come up here and sweet with me,' was only one of her successes. She was ably seconded in both song and dance numbers by Miss Dupuis, Neil McNeil, George LeBois, Gladys Egan, Blanche Crane and Miss McNabb add good voices and cleverness to the cast. Our old friend, Neil McNeil, is just as good as ever, which is saying a plenty. And his old friends were delighted to see him.

Miss Pochontas' will be at the Boyd today and Tuesday, with a special Tuesday matinee. The chorus was generally of a high order, both as to voice and beauty. The staging was skillfully effected and the costumes in all that could be demanded. 'Miss Pochontas' will be at the Boyd today and Tuesday, with a special Tuesday matinee. With the merit of brevity to commend it, the bill at the Orpheum is a strong one, a great improvement over the one of last week that opened the season. There isn't a dull moment in the present bill; it is filled with action and possesses an unusual amount of rich fun. Each part is brief, and the whole much more than ordinary, but in point of numbers the bill is no briefer than any other. The bill holds some favorites, some peculiar favorites to Omaha. Chief of these are Marie Glazier, an Omaha girl, and Arthur Dunn, a Chicagoan. They are both with them and there would have been no run on the box office. Dunn is the same irrepressible, irresistible incarnation of joy that he has been for all these decades, and Miss Glazier will certainly satisfy her admirers. She is a beautiful creature, with her eyes transfixed in bewildered awe upon the brilliant, bejeweled necklace planted against the beautiful white throat of his stage 'adored.' He just misses the fortune that goes with the hand of this beautiful heiress by precisely two feet for her papa has decreed she must wed a man six feet tall. Another favorite is Elsie Fay, whose work as an eccentric comedienne in character songs sent her to an upper berth in the affection of the patrons last year. She is immensely entertaining. Bowers, Walters and Crocker, the three babes, wind up the ball of amusement so fast that it never kicks. They are three very funny ones and do some things that get well and well along. The bill starts off with the 'Four Arcades,' European athletes, who do some fine work in their line. Then Murphy and Francis, a colored couple, touch off the real comedy. They are particularly good in their real comic habits. A sparkling, youthful juggler, gives variety to the bill. She is quite clever. Scott and Wilson, comedy acrobats, are the next who entertain the merry millions. They get away with some fine plays. 'Wizard of Oz' at the Krug. 'The Wizard of Oz,' musical extravaganza, drew capacity houses at the Krug theater Sunday afternoon, and was heard and was heartily enjoyed by all who saw it. The company is an exceptionally strong one and the stage settings and scenery are most elaborate. The comedy is one of the plotless kind; pretty chorus girls figure largely in the action and the scenery. The 'Poppy Flowers' was a pleasing feature and the transformation of the poppy field in winter was quite magical. The piece will continue all the week with the usual matinees.

A small beginning. But the greatest men and the greatest businesses have small beginnings. You may intend to start, or you may have started a business on a small scale. That's usually the safest way, and the safest way is always the best way. No business is too small to advertise. The Bee's want columns afford exactly the kind of service for small advertisers. Try it. The start may lead to great things. Vaudiville at the Orpheum. REDICKS ALSO FILE SUIT

Begin Action in County Court to Evict Tenant from Farnam Street Property. Judge William A. Redick of the district court and his brother, O. C. Redick, who were arrested for violation of the sanitary laws last week, had their hearing before Judge Altstadt in police court Monday morning and the judge took the matter under advisement until Wednesday morning. Their wrongful action, according to the testimony of City Health Commissioner Connell, is in refusing to turn on the water on the premises at 1321 Farnam street, now occupied by the Elite Cloak company. Judge Redick maintained the store was originally leased to Mrs. Lizzie B. Evans, and it was provided as usual in leases that no third party should be allowed possession without the written consent of the owner. Mrs. Evans turned over her lease to the Elite Cloak company. The Redicks also stated that while the building was vacant after the Berger Suit company, under Mrs. Evans' lease, left it, the sewer connection was destroyed by the excavating for the new building adjoining. When Dr. Conner, turned in the water forcibly, it ran into the back yard instead of the sewer and seriously threatened to undermine the building itself. The Elite Cloak company has absolutely no right in the building, according to Judge Redick, more than any common trespasser, and a suit was started in county court Monday morning to be compelled by the Redicks to believe they can be forced to reconstruct the sewer. Judge Altstadt, in giving his opinion Wednesday, will decide whether or not an owner can rightfully force out an undesirable tenant by making things unpleasant, but he will be guided by the attention of the court to go to any expense necessary to provide for his ordinary comfort.

ANDY PATTULO TO MARRY

Pride of Police Force is Charmed by Love Song Over 'The Phone.' Cupid moves in mysterious ways his wonders to perform, (apologies to the friends of Mr. Poe), but gets there just the same. As much as people berate the telephone that some instrument of communication has ever been employed by the greatest of human emotions-love-to do its greatest bidding-the making of a matrimonial match. So Andy Pattulo, pride of the police force, will be a bachelor but a little while longer. His betrothed, Anna D. Askwild, twenty-sixth and Dodge, will be the sixth police operator for the telephone company for some time. It was the music of her voice playing upon the chords of Pattulo's heart over the 'phone that struck the keynote and produced the song of love. The wedding, which has not been completely planned as yet, will take place Wednesday, and after the ceremony the bride and groom will leave on a trip to Scotland. When they return they will reside at Mr. Pattulo's present address, 229 Burdette street. Miss Askwild will be the third girl who has found the police operator's position a fine chance to get an officer for a husband. Officer Sargent, now resigned from the force, married Miss Maude Emm while she held that position, and George Horan, who has also left the department, married Miss Wynne. The girls of the matrons have found the station a happy hunting ground for cupid. Sergeant Sigwalt, still on the force, married his present wife while she was a matron, and Officer Cummings and Officer Madison, now deceased, also found their spouses there.

TEL JED SOKOL'S NATAL DAY

Bohemian Turners' Society Celebrates Its Thirtieth Anniversary with Much Ceremony. The thirtieth anniversary of the organization of the Omaha Tel Jed Sokol, or Bohemian Turner society, was celebrated Sunday by Sherman & McConnell Drug Co. at Thirtieth and Dorcas streets. The principal speaker for the large hall was Dr. Rudis Jachinsky of Cedar Rapids, Ia., editor of the official organ of the Turner societies. He stated that there are fifty organizations in the United States now and the first was organized only forty years ago. Most of these have their own halls. He paid a high tribute to the work of the Omaha society and reviewed its organization thirty years ago with only twelve members under the leadership of Frank Jelen, sr. Only one of these is still living. He is Frank W. Boukal who attended the celebration Sunday and was accorded a place of honor. Gilbert M. Hitchcock also addressed the audience. An open air exhibition was given following the meeting by a team of twelve men led by Frank Rila, who returned recently from the international exhibit in Prague, Bohemia. In the evening there was a dance. President Schneider of the Omaha society presided at the speaking. AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Police Force Looking Forward to Completion of the New Jail. STEEL FOR CELLS IS ALL HERE. With the Occupancy of the New Quarters Comes the Patrol Wagon, Which Will Be a Great Convenience. With the completion of the new city jail, which is now a near prospect, the long standing nuisance of the old quarters will be abated. The inconvenience of the basement quarters at present occupied have been of such long standing that the public has grown weary of the references to it. The public is not half as weary as the officers who have been compelled to endure the cramping and the filthy conditions which have almost constantly existed. There has always been a defect in the sewerage of the old jail which has made the quarters positively unhealthy. All summer the officers have anxiously waited the completion of the new and modern building on Twenty-fourth and O streets. The consignments of steel for the cells have been the cause of the long delays, but now all the cell work has arrived and is on the ground. The work of putting the same in place will begin this week. As soon as possible after that the removal will be made. Along with the prospect of the new quarters comes the institution of a patrol system and the police think their good luck comes in 'bunches.' The wagon has already been purchased, but the patrol system will not be inaugurated until the new building shall have become ready for occupancy. The duty of the council will be to erect a stable at the rear of the lot to accommodate the patrol wagon and the driver. This matter is likely to occupy the attention of the council in its meeting tonight. The purchase of a team and the election of a day and night patrol conductor will be necessary.

ROGUE AND POWERS. SCORNED IN PARIS. The Paris correspondent for a metropolitan paper writes that the wave of reform has struck French society ladies in the matter of using face powders, cosmetics, etc. They now want the real thing when it comes to complexion, and ladies that continue to use artificial beautifiers are scoffed and scorned. Prof. DeVallier, the noted skin specialist, has given out the following formula, which is said to work wonders on sallow complexions, and if used persistently will fill out sunken and hollow parts. Two ounces of Rose Water; one ounce Spirits of Cologne; four ounces crystallized Borax. Put the Borax into a pint of hot water (not boiling), and after it is dissolved and cooled, strain through a fine cloth and add the Rose Water and Cologne Spirits. Any large bottle will serve as a receptacle, but it must be kept well corked. This quantity will last for a long time. In using this mixture it should always be well massaged into the skin at least twice a day. It is an inexpensive mixture, the ingredients being obtainable from any well stocked drug store.
