English Shopkeepers Have Learned to Boost Prices During Summer Season.

LONDON, Sept. 21 - (Special.) - With the exodus of the American tourists from Lonion, the prices in the various stores that cater to their wants are beginning to fall. It may not be generally known, but it is nevertheless a fact, that with the inrush of the American visitors to the British metropolis prices are watered to an extent that would make an up-to-date American trust magnate blush, and with their departure the bottom drops out, so to speak, TALKS ON LIBERTY AS A RIGHT and the price marks once more assume League of American Municipalities yesterday to hear Governor Folk address and participate in the joint celebration of 'Municipal day.'

The Exercises began in the forenoon, when Governor Folk and party, escorted by the Twelfth United States cavalry, left the Missouri building for the auditorium Henry T. Kent of St. Louis, president of the Missouri Jamestown commission, presided.

An address of welcome by Lleutenant Governor Ellyson of Virginia, in which suggestive reference to Governor Folk as a presidential possibility received tumultuous effect upon the English storekeeper and applause, preceded the oration by Governor feeling against them is intense. The inquest Americans act upon London prices like Folk, who took for his subject "Liberty of the Individual a Right, Not a Privilege. Governor Folk said in part:

Our civilization differs from those that have gone before, in that it is a civilization of the individual, a civilization that de-mands the education of all, not of a few; a civilization of equal rights instead of privilege. Our material prosperity and a civilization of equal had prosperity a privilege. Our material prosperity a progress in invention are the outgrowth privilege. Our material prosperity and progress in invention are the outgrowth of the principles of liberty and individual rights. When we depart from these moral principles our nation will go as others have gone during the flight of time through the ages. The nations that have tottered off the stage of the world into oblivion did not die for lack of wealth, for many of them were richer when they fell than ever before, but they ceased to exist for lack of men. They died not for lack of monzy, but for lack of morals wealth. The many had no rights; the few had all. Vice followed, then decay. The perpetuity of this government rests not on the great wealth of the few, but upon the morality and integrity of the average individual.

There are some who see danger to our institutions in the agitation resulting from the exposures of wrongdoing in official and business life. To my mind the hope for the perpetuity of this government by the has been that the product of the works is increasing appreciably.

Grand Crowning Event. And then, after the parades are over, will come the grand crowning event of all the year, the coronation of the king and queen and the grand ball. The scene of this great occasion will be the "den," which will have been converted into a veritable palace, fitting for so great an event. The 100 maids of honor, the 150 ladies in waiting and the 150 ladies of the court have been chosen and will be instructed in court etiquette on the day of the ball. Who are the king and queen? If anyone knows this it is three men, and no one knows who those three men are but they themselves. Cryptic and sibylline is the selecting of the king and queen. The secret committee of three to whom this work is given is chosen from the board of governors. When they meet, where they meet, what they do, whom they choose, these are things utterly hidden from human ken. Maybe the king and queen have been will be there on the coronation night.
