Rev. H. W. Starr Has Call. Rev. H. W. Starr, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, has received a call to the rectorate of Christ church, Winnetka, Ill. Rev. Mr. Starr has the offer under consideration and stated yesterday that he would announce his decision in a short time.

Winnetka in a suburb of Chicago on the shore of Lake Michigan, and Christ church, while relatively small in point of membership, has on its communicant roll the names of many leading Chicago business and professional men. The parish is a wealthy one and the chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew is very strong.

The parish owns a handsome church edifice besides a well equipped parish home and rectory. The call is a most flattering one from a financial standpoint, the rectorship paying double what St. Paul's church does.

The call, it is understood, comes largely in recognition of the work Rev. Mr. Starr has done in building up the parish here during the three and a half years of his rectorate. During this period St. Paul's church has increased in membership from 300 to 250, while the Sunday school has grown from less than 100 to more than 200.

CLUE TO BROWN MURDER

Evidence that Crime Was Committed by Three Men, One Disguised as Woman.

BAKER CITY, Ore., Oct. 5.—The newspaper representatives here have established what they believe to be incontrovertible evidence that three men were implicated in the assassination of Harvey K. Brown, and that one was attired in a woman's kimono.

It is believed the one who posed as a woman pulled the wire which exploded the bomb. It is known that a woman was seen near the scene a short time before the tragedy.

Three men visited a store in town to purchase a kimono and had a discussion regarding the size of the garment, one declaring he could not wear it as it was too small. Noting the look of surprise on the clerk's face, he said it was for a lady.

He purchased a large garment. Shortly before the purchase was made, it is said, a man visited another store and was shown some mother-lamb wrappers. He bought a "Teddy Bear" instead of divert attention. A witness has been found who saw two men and a supposed woman near the scene shortly before the explosion.

Both men asked for matches and tobacco. One of the men bore a striking resemblance to the man who purchased the kimono. The authorities believe the murderers are still in the city.

PREACHER RECOVERS HIS RIG

Rev. Charles W. Savage Gets Horse and Buggy, but Not His Bible.

"Thanks to the newspaper men who interceded in my behalf, I have found my horse and buggy," said Rev. Charles W. Savage last night. "But my Bible is still missing."

It was suggested to him that perhaps if the thieves who stole his rig had the Bible it was doing good work. "Yes, a Bible is a good thing to steal, isn't it?" he replied.

The horse was found near Twenty-fifth and Ninth streets by drivers employed by the C. W. Hull company, who were attending to their horses that are kept in the building on Cummins street, about at Twenty-fifth, formerly used for a temporary fire engine house. The horse had been tied up and broke its rein to get something to eat and drink when the Hull drivers were feeding it and the buggy were all right. They were stolen when Rev. Mr. Savage was performing a marriage Thursday night and it is supposed the thieves got cold feet.

MAKES YOU SEE THINGS

Mexican Mescal Produces Wonderful Vision, Also a Great Head.

Gorgeous colors, glowing visions—these are the effects of mescal, to which many natives of Mexico and New Mexico are addicted. Mescal is a brown, brittle drug, concocted from the dried leaves of a small cactus which grows along the Rio Grande.

Its properties were first discovered by the Kiowa Indians, who became so enslaved to it that its use was prohibited by law. As usual, though, the prohibition was ineffective. The Indians used it in their religious rites.

Experimenting with the drug Havelock Ellis was rewarded by many varied and vivid visions in his rooms in London. Indescent but very forms of the most glowing colors fitted before him. Myriads of them formed living arabesques of superhuman design and hues beyond description. Then he seemed to see a hollow, revolving vessel, upon whose mother-of-pearl surface played the most strange and brilliant colorings.

He tried to make notes with a pen, but was unable to use it. Then he picked up a pencil, which gave him no trouble. As he wrote his paper was covered with a soft glowing light and his hands glowed and flushed with reds. The same glowing light seemed to emanate from his limbs when he addressed to retire. He tired of his visions and in the gas, which filled the room with glowing radiance, while brightly colored shadows fitted before him.

Seemingly less pleasant was the experience of a medical experimenter of Kentucky, who undertook to fathom the effects of hashish, by which the Orientals try to turn earth into heaven.

Eizure ideas took possession of his mind. His ideas ran riot and he seemed to have lost all sense of fatigue. But time became an eternity. He could not bear to watch the minute hand of his watch make one revolution.

Afterward he was seized by an intense fear of impending death. Horrible, grotesque monsters menaced him. Then he felt himself expanding into space, as he climbed steep precipices, overhanging dreadful abysses, and was overwhelmed by a not a very pleasant prospect for any man who might think of taking up the hashish habit.—New York Telegram.

PENNY FOR YOUR THOUGHTS

How a Poor Mortal Felt After Running a Few Blocks to See His Train Moving Out.

"Alfred," she asked, cuddling up to him, "do you tell me all your thoughts?" "Why do you ask that, you foolish little girl?" "Because I love you so. You promised that you would tell me everything. Do you?" "Oh, you wouldn't want me to tell you everything, would you?"

She drew away from him in sudden fright. Her worst suspicions were verified. "You are deceiving me!" she exclaimed. "You—"

"No, no, my dear, don't think that. I wouldn't deceive you for the world." "You have just admitted that you don't tell me all your thoughts." "Well, there are some that—"

"You are going to lie. I hate lies the worst of all things!" Her feelings overcame her and she covered her face with her hands. "Don't be silly," he begged. "Silly!" she tragically replied. "Do you call it silly for me to refuse to be deceived?"

"You are not deceived, I never—"

"You have just admitted that you have thoughts which you cannot tell me!" "Oh, I could tell them to you, but I don't think you would care to have me do so." "Then what are they?" "They are the thoughts I think when I have run four blocks and seen the train moving out of the station."—Chicago Record-Herald.

COTTON HANDLERS STRIKE

Eight Thousand Men Quit Work at New Orleans and Shipping Is Tied Up.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 5.—The imminent cotton shipping business of this port was tied up at 6 o'clock tonight by the strike of 8,000 members of the Dock and Cotton Handlers' union. The cotton handlers have arrayed against them all the business exchanges of New Orleans, which have declared that the commercial life of the port depends upon the outcome of the strike. From 10,000 to 12,000 men probably will be involved, because the railroad freight handlers have served notice that they will not work with nonunion men at the docks.

The immediate cause of the strike was the refusal of 1,200 screwmen to load more than 100 bales per day, working in gangs of five. Steamship agents demand that 500 bales be stowed.
