here has its special features. At all times, in every department, we aim to give as good, if not better values, than anyone can get elsewhere. But there's a daily changing of exceptional opportunities, of special values, of new arrivals, of offerings too great to be continued long. The best way to know these special items is to watch our ad every day or, better still, come to our story as often. There are many specials which are not advertised.

LIBRARIANS OF TWO STATES

Associations of Iowa and Nebraska in been sharpened to a razor-edge by Ames. Annual Session.

Dr. Jewett of State University is Chosen President by Nebraskans-Joint Meetings Planned Today and Tomorrow.

The Nebraska Library association held its ing Tuesday afternoon. Wednesday morning. in joint segalon with the lowa Library association, a meeting will open at the Omaha Public Library building, and, after a ride through the city, will be continued at South Omaha in the afternoon. A riight session will be held at the Omaha library. Thursday morning, afternoon and evening the sessions will be held in Council Bluffs, and Friday morning in Omaha.

The Tuesday afternoon session was de voted to business and reports from librarians. G. H. Thomas of McCook presided. After the appointment of committees, Mrs. Minnle Knott told of the work being done by the librarian of the State Historical soclety. When she was made librarian there were about 27,000 books and pamphlets in the library, and there was no catalogue nor index by which the contents of the library could be found. This year, with the assistance of an expert from Illinois. about 22,000 books and pamphlets have been arranged and catalogued, while all of them have been washed with damp cloths. The library suffers from lack of funds and the speaker said she had been compelled to do carpenter's work in arranging the shelves. Mrs. Pauline Frank of Kearney told of the success of the "children's hour" idea at the library of that place. One hour each Suturday is set aside for the children and some speaker tells of the works and life of some author who has written things children like. As a result of this the children are attracted to good books. In discussion following this paper it was brought out that in Omaha the children's hour has been so successful that two hours may be devoted to it hereafter, Miss Kate Schwartzlander saving that the additional hour would be devoted to children in the grammar schools, the present one being given to Exhibit of Apparatus.

Miss Joanna Hagey of Lincoln then gave demonstration and lecture on the subject of library apparatus. She had on display a large exhibit, which will become part of the state library exhibit. She recommended many of the devices and condemned others, saying that simplicity ing. Then Howard was sent in to bat for and thoroughness are both essential to good library work and records, while price of apparatus is of great importance in this part of the country.

Miss Charlotte Templeton displayed

map of Nebraska showing the location of libraries, public and subscription, in the state when the State Library association was formed in 1895. There were fifteen libraries that year. Now there are fiftysix, as shown by another map. She also displayed pictures of the library buildings in the state, there being fifteen buildings on the postal cards shown. These are located at Omaha, South Omaha, Beatrice, Hastings, Kearney, Fremont, Holdrege, Plattsmouth, York, Lincoln, Falls City. Tecumseh, Havelock, Grand Island, Nebraska City and Humboldt. With the exception of five, all were built with money donated by Andrew Carnegie, and of all 41 3 10 36 16 1 3 without especial abelstance by persons other of them Plattsmouth alone built its library AB. R. H. PO. A. E. than the taxpayers of the town. Omaha ment out of valuable coal lands. This was assisted by Byron Reed; Nebraska City by the Morton family; Falls City, Humboldt and York by Lydia Bruun Woods.

The Humboldt Library asociation does not own a distinct library building, but put its money into a business block, renting the lower floor to a mercantile house and using the upper rooms for the library.

Election of Officers.

The committee on nomination reported and officers were unanimously elected in harmony with that report as follows: President, Dr. Walter h. Jewett of the Nebraska University library; first vice president, Miss Charlotte Templeton, secretary of the State Library commission; second vice president, Miss Mary H. Ames of Grand Island; secretary, Miss Nellie Jane Compton, assistant librarian, University of Nebraska; treasurer, Miss Margaret A. O'Brien, assistant librarian, Omaha.

After the announcement of the election of officers the visiting librarians were the guests of the Omaha library force at tea served in the library building.

Tuesday night a reception was tendered he members of both the Nebraska and lowa associations at the Lininger art gallery, Eighteenth and Davenport street, by Frank L. Haller, president of the Nebraska Public Library asociation. This is the program for today:

Farewell Sermon at St. Philomena's Will Be Preached by Father McGovern

Sunday the farewell service will be held at St. Philomena's cathedral, the old edifice on Ninth street, which has been forced to yield to the onward march of commercial progress. Father McGovern, pastor, Bishop Scannell will preach the sermon, which will be one of special interest. It is expected the old building will be filled and the ceremonies will be memorable.

The three bodies, those of Bishops O'Connor and O'Gorman and Pather Curtis, former pastor of the cathedral, which are entombed in the vault under the cathedral. will be removed to Holy Sepulcher cemetery, where a vault is being built for them. The plan, it is understood, is to place them finally beneath the new St. Cecella's cathedral when that splendid edifice is com
