NOTES ON OMAHA SOCIETY

Mrs. Edward Porter Peck Entertains Luncheon Party at Omaha Club.

HAPPY HOLLOW HAS BUSY DAY

Two Large Autumn Luncheons Given

The Horse Show is undoubtedly receiving flattering attention from society, but it is by no means monopolizing it, as several affairs bordering on the formal if not pretentious were given Tuesday and there are hints of many more large parties to be given during the week.

At the Omaha Club.

The most elaborate affair of Tuesday was the luncheon given by Mrs. Edward Porter Peck at the Omaha Club in honor of Mrs. Haskell of Chicago.

Prospective Pleasures.

Miss Daisy Doane will give a luncheon at the Country club Thursday in honor of her guest, Mrs. Waggaman of Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Robert Lee Hamilton and Mrs. H. J. Edwards will give a large tea next Monday afternoon in honor of their guest, Miss Blanche Unterkircher of Burlington, Ia., at the home of her father, P. E. Her.

Mrs. G. W. Wattlew will entertain informally at luncheon Thursday at her home.

Miss Mable Balcomb of Omaha is one of the contributors to the November Smart Set. Her story, "As It Turned Out in Real Life," has real literary merit.

Come and Go Gossip.

Among the out-of-town guests who will attend the McNowen-Bedwell wedding Thursday are a number of formerly sisters and college mates of Miss Bedwell's, several of whom will be entertained at the home of Miss Zola Dellecker.

Miss Jennie Helms of Odebolt, Ia., is the guest of Mrs. and Mrs. D. E. McCulley until after the horse show.

Mrs. Goid Dietz, who has been spending a few days in Lincoln, the guest of her mother, Mrs. Putnam, has returned, but leaves for Lincoln again Tuesday, to remain the rest of the week.

Mrs. Robert Gilmore returned Tuesday morning from a few weeks' visit in the east.

Miss Clara Weidenfeld, who is attending the Chicago university, is expected in Omaha about Christmas to visit Omaha friends.

The Misses Ryan of Dubuque, Ia., arrived Tuesday, to be the guest of Miss Lucille Hayden.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Nott have returned from a two months' sojourn in St. Paul, the woods of northern Wisconsin, Milwaukee and Chicago.

THAT FAMOUS PAQUIN MODEL

It is a Duplicate of Model Made for the Famous Designer's Own Wife.

Conspicuous above every other costume on display at that phenomenal exhibition of imported costumes being made just now on Lower Broadway, that has sent New York's fashionable women into ecstasies, is a Paquin suit, a duplicate of a model made for the wife of that famous costume artist, Paquin. It has not been entered

CHINCHILLA AND FILET MODEL.

Along the trade models, of course. One of its conspicuous features is the princess skirt, that creation of Paquin's that threatens the popularity of the much worn skirt and promises to substitute for it the long, clinging, close-about-the-feet fashion that is abominable on all but a few long, helpless, flat-backed, straight front figures.

The coat of black broadcloth is charming of line, but extreme in its originality and is handsomely trimmed in heavy braiding and in large hand made ornaments and pendants of the braid.

The high inconceivable collar is of soft blue satin, folded over a plain foundation and held in front by a little scarf of cream net, bound narrowly in blue satin. The princess skirt is of blue chiffon, broadcloth and the blouse is a bizarre little affair of cream net, fully tucked and boldly embroidered in Montaigne design and coloring—vivid blue and yellow and red.

The neck is collarless and finished at the base of the throat by a plaited roll of net bound in blue satin, and tiny buttons covered with blue satin mark the line of union 'twixt the huge sleeves and the body of the blouse, the arabesque, trailing from shoulder quite to the skirt girdle.

For this costume the new figure, flat of back, flat of hips, straight of front and slimly long, is the desirable thing, though Miss Paquin, who is one of these things, looks altogether charming in her new costume.

A Dainty Bedspread.

The housekeepers who have grown tired of the all-white bed can get a pleasing variety in the stamped imported counterpanes which may be bought this season at surprisingly reasonable prices.

One seen the other day was a charming copy of an old-time embroidered bedspread, with a broad and graceful border of wild roses arranged so it came well up on the bed. The coloring was exquisite and the printing so artistic that it was hard to believe that the cover cost less than $2.

These printed bedspreads are very attractive for the room of a young girl, especially if the coloring of the hangings and wall paper are repeated.

KEEPING THE HAIR HEALTHY

Systematic and Scientific Massage of Scalp is the Real Secret of Success.

Scalp massage is the secret of keeping the scalp and hair healthy. It is done easily and is not a great tax either on time or patience. The hair producing scalp is loosely attached to the underlying skull as any one can prove with the fingers.

When the scalp becomes adherent to the bones underneath and will not move easily, then the hair will fall out and the healthiness of the hair follicles will become impaired. Therefore, one should keep the scalp ends in view—that of keeping the scalp perfectly loose and flexible upon its supporting framework, the skull, and that of preventing the flow of blood to the roots so that the hair follicles will be nourished properly and the oily glands secrete their substance to the hair.

ODD FELLOWS AND REBEKAHS

Grand Lodges Hold Encampment for the Year.

Patriarch Dimmick Absent

Called at the Last Moment to Wisconsin, Where His Mother Died

Suddenly—Seasons Concluded Thursday.

The grand encampment of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, which is to be the initial gathering of the fiftieth annual session of the grand lodge, was somewhat delayed Tuesday morning because of the absence of Grand Patriarch E. S. Dimmick. Mr. Dimmick had been suddenly called to Wisconsin because of the death of his mother.

Grand Senior Warden W. G. Purcell of Broken Bow called the meeting to order Tuesday evening at the grand lodge, which was held at the Odd Fellows' temple, 15th and Dodge streets. The work of the encampment was wholly of an executive character, consisting of the secret work of the order, the submission of reports and was continued during the afternoon, involving the election of officers and other ritual work.

The following grand encampment officers were elected: Grand patriarch, W. G. Purcell of Broken Bow; grand senior warden, U. S. Rohrer of Hastings; grand junior warden, W. H. Crellin of Lyons; grand high priest, J. P. Carson of Lincoln; grand scribe, L. P. Gage of Fremont; grand treasurer, F. B. Bryan of Omaha; grand representative, W. D. Crawford of Omaha.

At 8 o'clock last evening the encampment degree work was carried out. A special session of the grand lodge was held at Creighton hall, Fifteenth and Harney streets, for the purpose of conferring the second and past grand degrees.

The Rebekah assembly convened last evening in the Workmen temple.

General Hotel Headquarters.

The headquarters of the various grand organizations are at the Rome hotel and already between 50 and 60 of the delegates are in the city, with the increasing trains bringing additional members. The session of the grand lodge gives promise of being the most largely attended of recent years.

The grand lodge will convene in Creighton hall Wednesday at 9 a. m. The address will be delivered by Henry E. Burman on behalf of the city with responses by Grand Master J. E. Morrison, W. G. Purcell, and Miss Katherine Jackson, the respective heads of the various Odd Fellows bodies.

The business session of the Rebekah assembly will convene immediately thereafter in Odd Fellows' hall.

At 1:30 p. m. the Patriarch Militant, the uniformed body of the Odd Fellows organization, will give a competitive drill for the prize cup, now held by Ezra Millard of Cantonment of Omaha.

Trolley Ride for Visitors.

After the drill, which will be held at Seventeenth street and Capitol avenue, the visitors will be given a trolley ride about the city starting from Fifteenth and Harney streets, where special cars will be in waiting.

At 5 p. m. Wednesday the department of the Rebekah assembly will convene in the Workmen temple, adjacent to the Odd Fellows' temple. At 8 p. m. the conferring of the decoration of chivalry will take place at Creighton hall. Immediately after Wagon No. 183, will meet in the same hall to confer the subordinate degrees.

The Rebekah assembly will resume its sessions at 8 p. m. Wednesday in Odd Fellows' hall.

The regular business sessions of the lodge in Omaha will resume Thursday morning in Creighton hall and those of the Rebekah assembly at Odd Fellows' hall. It is expected all the work of the various grand bodies will be concluded during the forenoon of Thursday.

Notes of the Convention.

The Omaha delegates to the grand lodge meetings are wearing a memorial badge bearing the portrait of Joseph Sheehey, an old Omaha resident now dead, who was one of the first grand patriarchs of the order.

The Omaha delegates, ever loyal to Omaha, have supplied themselves with but one badge, the inscription "For Omaha," and another with the Nebraska colors of red, green and yellow with the word "Omaha" printed conspicuously across its face. These buttons are given as souvenirs to the visitors and are zealously worn.

The present gathering is ostensibly the fiftieth anniversary of the meeting of the grand lodge, it is really the fifty-second anniversary of the institution of Odd Fellowship in Nebraska. Prior to 1857 the Nebraska Odd Fellows lodges were subordinate to the grand jurisdiction of Iowa.

The Omaha delegates to the grand lodge in Nebraska was in Nebraska City, fifty-two years ago. The old lodge is still in existence and is one of the most thrifty lodges in the state.

With bright Ak-Sar-Ben colors and the word "Omaha" in white across the face, both have been adopted by the Commercial club among the Odd Fellows who are attending the grand lodge meeting in Omaha. These buttons are the first consignment of 25,000 "convention" buttons for which the Commercial club made an appropriation and they are to be used in the state convention of the union at Lincoln. A large bouquet of roses was presented to Miss Stevens by the Omaha women. After a short meeting in the waiting room of the station the party adjourned to the car and there continued singing until the train pulled out.

Miss Anna A. Gordon, national vice president of the union, was also on the train.

HO, THE CAMELS ARE COMING

They Will Bear Tangier Shriners to Sioux City Oasis.

ZEM-ZEM IS IN THE SADDLE BAGS

Last Summer Straw Hats Are Upon the Desert Horses and the Caravan is About to Start.

Already the caravan of Tangier Temple, Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, is ready to move to the oasis of Sioux City, on the prairies of Iowa, Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.

Cameled of the Tangier nobles have been shod with last summer's straw hats; great bladders of camel's milk and sem-zem have been stored in the saddle bags; everything is ready to move to the foot of the tree called Tooba, where the traditional banquet will be served, but Chairman Cole of the Tangier Sioux City committee can stand for a few more live ones to make up the full 100 who will go.

Potente L. M. Talmage will be among the Potes, who will be known as the distinguished guests in the Garden of Ease, which is to be opened at Sioux City.

Special Train Goes.

The special train for the Shriners of Omaha will leave the Webster street depot and make the run to Sioux City on the Nebraska side of the river, giving an opportunity for members of the Tangier Temple living at Blair, Tekamah, Lyons and other stations of the Omaha road an opportunity to join the caravan. George F. West, general agent of the passenger department of the Northwestern company, will go with the Shriners, and George W. Carter, a veteran Shriner, will be the conductor and chapman of the party, guaranteeing that every one who puts up the shekels will have a berth in the sleeping cars, in which the party will return. These cars are to be open at 11 o'clock Thursday evening and weary nobles may go to bed at a virtuous hour if they desire to do so. The train will pull out in time to arrive at the Webster street station Friday morning at 7 o'clock.

Besides the Tangier caravan, such illustrious nobles as H. C. Akin of Omaha, past imperial potentate; A. P. Clayton, past imperial potentate of St. Joseph, and C. W. Craft, illustrious potentate of Sossolite temple, Lincoln, will be at the big meeting. A number in the Omaha caravan will be from Lincoln and Council Bluffs.

Will H. Beck, a prominent club and business man of Sioux City, is to become the first potentate of the Sioux City temple, which will be called "Ak-Bekir" after the third father-in-law of Mohammed, the wealthy kalf, having given his virgin daughter, Ayecha, for the third wife of Mohammed.

When the Japanese proprietor told them they were getting too noisy and they said something about him being a pagan, he called the officers and his three early Sunday morning customers were taken to the station.

It occasioned no surprise in police court when the prisoners told of drinking half a dozen bottles of beer in the place and City Prosecutor Daniel was deaf to the pleas of the offenders, while all that was intended to the troubles of the restaurant keeper, who had been called a pagan.

When the matter was brought to the attention of Captain Dunn, he declared he would order an investigation at once, as neither beer nor other liquor is to be sold, served or given away in Omaha after midnight Saturday.

Strains of Sacred Music Mingle with Cries of Trainers at the Burlington.

The Burlington station rang with the music of gospel hymns for half an hour Tuesday morning. A large delegation of women temperance workers was there to greet Miss L. M. N. Stevens of Portland, Me., national president of the Woman's Christian Temperance union, who passed through the city on her way to attend the state convention of the union at Lincoln. A large bouquet of roses was presented to Miss Stevens by the Omaha women. After a short meeting in the waiting room of the station the party adjourned to the car and there continued singing until the train pulled out.

DANIEL FILES NO CHARGE

City Prosecutor Hears Testimony of Drinkers and Does Nothing to Proprietors.

Quietly but surely the lid is said to be slipping off at the all-night restaurants and chill parlors.

While Charles Cartright, George Seidel and Eveline Sullivan are paying fines of $10 and costs or doing the time in the county jail for being drunk in the Eagle restaurant at 4 o'clock Sunday morning, the captains at the police station are wondering where the beer came from, which the proprietor says made his customers noisy.

All three of the prisoners swear they went into the Eagle restaurant at an early hour Sunday morning and drank a few bottles of beer. Officers boldly took the woman and two young men to the station and now it is a mystery why the complaining witness was not taken for selling the beer or serving it in his place.

Eveline Sullivan told the police that she was going to Kansas City on the early train Sunday morning to join her husband, who went last Friday and that she dropped into the restaurant to get a lunch and bottle of beer. Soon young Cartright and Seidel came in and sat down at her table. She said it was almost 4 o'clock. Cartright and Seidel said they went to the restaurant soon after 2 o'clock and drank beer there for more than an hour and a half.

When the Japanese proprietor told them they were getting too noisy and they said something about him being a pagan, he called the officers and his three early Sunday morning customers were taken to the station.

It occasioned no surprise in police court when the prisoners told of drinking half a dozen bottles of beer in the place and City Prosecutor Daniel was deaf to the pleas of the offenders, while all that was intended to the troubles of the restaurant keeper, who had been called a pagan.

THE NEWEST IN STOCKINGS

Amazing Extravagance in Material and Price—Without Merit of Durability.

The exhibition of silk stockings in one case at one shop here less than a dozen and a half pairs were displayed representing $2,000. The pairs marked $50 had entire front panels almost to the knee of point lace, and were in both black and white. A pair marked $5 was incrustated with butterflies of lace, and the cheapest in this case were $6, in both black and white. Hosiery daintily embroidered, and in all the evening shades, may be had from $2 to $25 a pair.

For some time the patent leather shoe with the colored top has forced itself upon our attention, but such items of expense are fit only for carriage wear. They have been extremely popular in New York for a season, but are not for street wear. Needless to say, the tops of the shoes should be the shade of the gown. Slippers for party wear are daintier than ever this year, many having lace set in across the toes and others being hand painted.

Women Govern Your Temper

Reasons Why It is Worth While to Always Keep it Under Control.

Quarrelling is ill-bred. A bad-tempered person is never a popular one.

You defeat your own ends. The woman who can keep cool always has the best of it.

Losing the temper warps the judgment and makes you say and do things that your calmer moments will disown.

It is ruinous to the looks. The utmost beauty of feature and complexion cannot counterbalance a scowl of rage or a cross, sullen expression of the face.

The after effects are not pleasant. If you do not feel remorse after a loss of self-control bad temper is getting a dangerous grip on you; if you do, it means a period of introspection which no one enjoys.

An even temper is a big factor in success. This does not mean no temper. The woman who is too good-natured or too indifferent ever to feel the impulse to wrath is very apt to be that poor spirited creature—one on whom everyone lingers.
