BALLOON HAS COME TO STAY

General Allen, Head of Signal Corps, Speaks for Army.

ST. LOUIS RACES SATISFACTORY

Wot Since 1872 Has the General Visited Omaha, and Growth of the City Seems Like a Dream.

General James Allen, onlef of the signal corps of the United States army, arrived in Omaha from St. Louis at noon Thursday and spent the afternoon inspecting the work being done by his department at Fort Omaha. He was entertained by a sumber of business and army men at tuncheon at the Omaha club.

"I have fust come from St. Louis, where f witnessed the international balloon races, which, by the way, would have been held in Omaha if the gas supply had been available here." he said. "The results of these races were very gratifying from the standpoint of the army. There is no truth in Statements that the days of the balloon are over for the work of the army. Stationary balloons will always be of great value in directing movements of a long line of battle or in taking observations of the movements of a distant enemy or examtning the interior of an enemy's fortifica-

"As to the dirigible balloon, its usefulness is not yet determined. The most that can be said for it is that it is the best we have up to date. Aeropianes and machines made in attempted imitation of the wings of a bird are failures, so far, at any rate, as the requirements of the army are concerned. We have not yet solved the query of Darius Green of flying machine fame. "If a bird can fly why can't I?" Wings have been made for a man proportionate In their size to the wings of a bird, but a man could no more manipulate those wings than he could manipulate the vocal chords of a bird.

Dirigible Offers Hope. "The dirigible balloon is the contrivance which seems to offer the most encourage ment at present. European nations are spending large sums of money in experiments on these machines and are securing excellent results.

"Here in Omaha the government is now spending a considerable sum of money in preparing for experiments along this line. l look for a great widening of this field in the near future, and considerable of this widening will be evident at Fort Omaha. Probably by next year at this time or even sooner our balloon house and gas making plant will be ready.

If found unnecessary, the new plays will not be used on choosing Coach Fuerer of Coane for ampire, and all the ability of the team must be retained for the Doane game, flowever, since this is the first of the Nemarks and therefore important, the new plays will be used if necessary, for the Champions' wish to retain their record.

The team has been working hard all week, scrimmage being indulged in every evening until dark. One of the oldest ball players in the business is George Van Haltren. Years ago, when Van broke his leg on second base in New York, it was thought his days on the diamond were over. They were for the big league, but he went to Oakland, his old home, secured a controlling interest in the Pacific coast team and has been running it and playing fine ball in center field ever since. Van is one of the few who can hark back to the '80's and find himself even then on the map.

The Twenty-fifth anniversary of the dedication of the Second Presbyterian church was commemorated last evening at a special meeting held in the church, followed by a social at which refreshments were served in the basement.
