STRAY CASH CAUGHT ON THE FLY
Some Queer Notions Get Out as Result of Bank Action.

Some strange notions and ideas found their way from the bank situation to the minds of some persons in Omaha.

The facts were given to him, but he didn't seem altogether at ease either then.

"Oh, yes, I guess it is a good stove, already, but why should I spend my money for a stove now when I can get two dollars for one any place I take my money?"

"What's that, get two dollars for one?" exclaimed the merchant who had just then read the morning papers. "Show me where you can get two dollars for one and I'll make you a present of a stove."

"I want $3 in cash," she said. "After some parleying with the austere young man she got her $3. But just as she slipped the cash to her a deep thought seized him."

"I want to pay my grocery bill," she replied. "Well, you don't need money with which to pay your grocery bill; give your grocer a check."

"But I want the cash." "Give the grocer a check, madame; can't you understand me?"

Nothing Serious with Grain
Business Temporarily Tied Up, but Situation is Not Dangerous.

Half the line elevators in the eastern part of Nebraska were closed Tuesday, according to C. C. Crowell of the Crowell Grain and Lumber company.

"When the $10,000,000 of gold begins to arrive in New York and the banks begin to order, say at the rate of $5,000,000 each day from Europe, it will not take long to place the entire $40,000,000 which has been withdrawn from the banks of New York and the effect will be like an electric current.

Senator Millard intimated that if things were as peaceable in New York City the rest of the week as they were Monday and the gold began to come in from Europe the banks may begin payment in full during next week.

Others are of the opinion that the Omaha Clearing House association will not find it advisable to continue the partial payment rule longer than the present week.

Senator Millard said he had to see the clearing house rule go into effect, as it was the first time in the history of the bank that a depositor's money was not handed over the counter, in gold, silver, or currency when the check was presented.

Money for City and County
No Need of Fear on Part of the Employees.

City and county employees who have been agitated because they feared they would have to take their pay this week in checks instead of in cash are needlessly alarmed, according to information given out by the banks and by Deputy Treasurer Sharp.

change in cash or checks of smaller denominations. Cash is being deposited in the banks by the stores and business houses in large quantities, and almost every one of the five national banks in Omaha gained in the actual amount of cash on hand Tuesday.

"I was not much surprised when I looked at the daily statement Monday evening," said the president of a $1,000,000 institution which has over $10,000,000 in deposits. "But it was gratifying to see that we had gained in cash and actually had more on hand by a great many thousand dollars at the close of business Monday evening than we had when we opened Monday morning. And the receiving tellers are still busy."

Manager Jorams F. O'Connell of Hayden Bros. bank is optimistic over the prevailing situation. He said: "There was no flurry yesterday nor today. We had some few withdrawals from the bank, but they were only very small ones. There were four times as many deposits as withdrawals and today the proportion is even greater."

MILLARD PREDICTS EARLY END
Gold from Europe Will Soon Restore Currency in East.

With $10,000,000 in gold ordered from Europe for importation to New York and then subject to the order of American bankers, the end of the present embarrassing situation in financial circles is in sight, according to former Senator J. H. Millard, president of the Omaha National Bank.

Senator Millard is of opinion it will not be many days in the bank of New York will resume full payments, which action will be followed immediately by the chain of banks from Chicago to St. Louis and then by the banks of the west, in Omaha, Kansas City, Sioux City, St. Joseph and Minneapolis.

Others are of the opinion that the Omaha Clearing House association will not find it advisable to continue the partial payment rule longer than the present week.

"It was rather sudden," said Senator Millard, "to stop paying all at once, after it had been assumed that my lines had been closed in any way dependent on the east and that is what has made it seem queer to some depositors. The first intimation they had that it would be necessary for Omaha banks to hold to the actual money was when they read the newspaper Monday morning. Last week the banks were never in as good condition and it was not suspected by the depositors or even some of the bankers themselves, that it would be necessary to hold up the money in the banks. Of course, the banks are in just as good a better condition today than they were last week, but it is only necessary to protect them from being drained of cash."

Senator Millard said he had to see the clearing house rule go into effect, as it was the first time in the history of the bank that a depositor's money was not handed over the counter, in gold, silver, or currency when the check was presented.

Other bankers take the same view of the situation as Senator Millard, believing that things will be cleared up next week. The Clearing House association will meet each night for a time, to take any action necessary to facilitate the handling of business.

"The banks have promised to furnish us with money to meet the payroll warrants," said Deputy Treasurer Sharp. "Of course if they shouldn't do it we would have to pay in checks, as our cash receipts are not sufficient to enable us to pay in cash. Aside from this, the action
