THE ARGONAUT (San Francisco) says of RANDALL PARRISH'S New Book:

"Among the stories that may be said to be purely American, 'BETH NORVELL' should take a high place. As a story of Western life, it would be safe to say that 'Beth Norvell' has few superiors. The characters are typically American and they are typically Western, and they illuminate that period especially when the creative force of the pioneer, lawless enough in its way, laid the foundation for the organized society that was to follow it. The action is splendid from first to last, the characters are finely drawn, and the story is wholly convincing. It should be widely read, and especially by those who want to understand the stern stuff from which the West was built."

sercial bodies in the Missouri legislature to take up the consideration of the money question immediately after it convenes in December. A telegram asking the club to act was received yesterday from the St. Joseph Commercial Club by W. L. Yetter and was referred to L. W. Yates, president of the Clearing House association, which will discuss it at its meeting this afternoon. Similar requests have been made of the Kansas City and St. Louis Commercial clubs and other clubs in the mid-west will be asked to take action, the intention being to organize general movement to secure early currency legislation by congress. Mr. Yates last night declared he was opposed to any such action at present. "I hope the Commercial club will not take this action at present," he said. "The conditions do not demand it, and it is not good time to agitate for currency reform now." The Commercial club will discuss the matter at its meeting Tuesday and its action will probably be governed by the recommendations of the Clearing House association.

The funds placed with these associations are not deposits and are not subject to demand withdrawals. No interest on deposits is guaranteed by the
