WHEN OUT OF TOWN.

Subscribers leaving the city temporarily should have The Bee mailed to them. Address will be changed as often as requested.

Bratley for sheriff. A big man for a big office.

Oklahoma will come into the union with the right to retain her maiden name.

Why should the marriage ceremony uniting Omaha and South Omaha forever be longer postponed?

"The farmer gets the credit," says the Wall Street Journal. He doesn't want it. He has the cash.

It is now proposed to place phonographs in all jails. That's right. Every jail should keep a record.

Colonel Bryan would not feel comfortable if he did not wind up his campaign oratory in his home state.

The safest way is to pull the republican lever or to put a cross in the republican circle and let it go at that.

These predictions of a severe winter must be discounted. All the experts agree that food prices are to be lower.

The person privileged to get hold of a few dollars in real money these days never raises any question of taint.

An eastern banker says this is the time for the display of common sense. Likewise a time for the display of uncommon cents.

Mr. Hearst has fused with three political parties in the New York campaign. This means overtime work for Hearst's cashiers.

A physician asserts that moth balls are poisonous. This will surprise housewives who have found that moths get fat on them.

The packers who are telling about the reduction of the price of meats ought to take some method of letting the retailers know about it.

Automobiles are being introduced into Borneo. No questions will be asked hereafter as to why they are known as the "wild men of Borneo."

A New York dispatch states that "Harriman has been pinched by the market." That will not satisfy Mr. Fish, who wants him pinched by the police.

A South Carolina man has been sentenced to seven years in prison on one indictment and for life on another. Presumably he will serve the life sentence first.

Governor Johnson of Minnesota thinks the democrats should give Mr. Bryan a free field. That will not help much, so long as the republicans refuse to acquiesce.

The announcement is made that Congressman Littlefield of Maine does not agree with Attorney General Bonaparte. This places Mr. Bonaparte with the majority.

The roller-skating fad in Washington has caused a raise in the price of skates. The situation cannot last long. Washington will be full of cheap skates in a few more weeks.

Dr. Parkhurst asserts that divorce is not on the increase in New York and that the records will prove it. The trouble with the New York problem is that most of its divorces are recorded in South Dakota or New Jersey.

EXPLODING ANOTHER BOMB.

Innocent bystanders are hereby warned to watch out for the explosion of another dynamite bomb as a result of the harmless looking resolution adopted by the police board last week, calling upon a sanitary officer to appear before it in person and explain under oath why certain nuisances, said to have been maintained by the owner of a large number of questionable resorts, were not abated.

THE SOLIDARITY OF BUSINESS.

Events of the last week in financial circles furnish new and striking illustration of the solidarity of business. The industrial organization of the country is not local and isolated, but world-wide and interdependent.

We take it that the enemies of Chief of Police Donahue will have to produce something substantial before they can undermine his reputation and standing as a police officer.

There are no state lines in business, no sharp demarcation by rivers or mountain ranges, nor even by oceans.

HOW TO VOTE THE QUESTIONS.

Nine separate and distinct questions will be propounded to voters in this city and county at the coming election, to which they should be prepared to give the proper answer.

REVOLUTIONS AT BARGAIN PRICES.

In response to a semi-official request for his opinion as to when it will be safe for the United States to withdraw the second army of occupation and turn the Cuban government over to the natives, Governor Magoo has furnished a letter written to him by a prominent Cuban planter, which makes it rather plain that the United States is booked for a long siege in Cuba.

This letter throws a striking light on the Cuban situation and the Cuban character. Heretofore we have been accustomed to look upon a Cuban revolution as an exhibition of real, if misguided, patriotism.

one of the toy kind, bought for $500 or a real $5,000 investment designed to produce another consignment of troops from American garrisons. So long, however, as the present conditions prevail, under which a planter may order a revolution as he would telephone to the market for fish, the talk of rational self-government by the Cubans is wasted breath.

WHAT POSTAL BANKS WOULD DO. Accepting as accurate the estimates made by former Postmaster General John Wanamaker and Postmaster General Meyer as to the amount of money that would be made available for circulation by a postal savings bank system, there should be little delay by congress in adopting the recommendations that will be made by the postmaster general to the coming session.

Mr. Elsassser, what became of all the interest money earned on the county deposits when you were treasurer four years ago? Why was it not paid in to the benefit of the taxpayers?

Sit Up and Take Notice.

If the expectation that the Navy department will ask congress for $120,000,000 for the navy for the next fiscal year is justified by the event, the taxpayers may at last sit up and take notice of the cost of naval expansion.

SOUND TO THE CORE.

The moderate effect of the latest Wall street scare, with its few accompanying failures, proves that the business of the country is essentially sound, as the president says, and that it is not to be judged by speculative abuses.

RESPONSIBILITY HIGHER UP.

The brakeman who was held responsible for one of the recent fatal railroad accidents in the south pleaded that prior to the occurrence he had been on constant duty for twenty-three hours without sleep.

PERSONAL AND OTHERWISE.

Milk is dearer than beer in Philadelphia. Where was Leslie Mortimer Shaw when Wall street threw that fit?

BUMBLE BEES FOR THE PHILIPPINES.

Census figures are a little lame on data relating to the number of Americans who spent their youth on the farm, but the suspicion prevails that every mother's son of them will rejoice in the formal announcement that the federal government is going to introduce the American bumble bee into the Philippines.

Just as well right now to serve notice on Foutney Bigelow, Irving Winslow and other anti-imperialists that there is deeper significance back of the scheme than can be found in the petals of a red clover blossom.

President William Dutcher of the National Association of Audubon Societies, figures that insect pests destroy $80,000,000 worth of farm products every year.

A Chicago club woman declares that women do not marry because they do not like the odor of tobacco.

GENIUS SMITTEN AT THRESHOLD.

The young New York bank clerk who restored $6,500 stolen money because he couldn't buy a package of cigarettes with a five bill may as well recognize the fact that nature never intended him for a frenzied financier.

MINERAL WATERS.

The mineral water business has for many years been a specialty with our firm. We buy our waters direct from the springs of a foreign water direct from the importer.

SERMONS BOILED DOWN.

To discount your burdens count your blessings. A slighted opportunity becomes no slight obstacle.

OUR PRICES AND TERMS REMAIN THE SAME.

A big bank closed its doors in New York City the other day. It gave a chance for the hard time croakers. "A money panic is at hand," some of them cried.
