

THE OMAHA DAILY BEE

FOUNDED BY EDWARD ROSEWATER

VICTOR ROSEWATER, EDITOR.

Entered at Omaha Postoffice as second class matter.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION. Daily Bee (without Sunday), one year, $4.00...

OFFICES. Omaha—The Bee Building, South Omaha—City Hall Building.

COMMUNICATIONS. Communications relating to news and editorial matter should be addressed, Omaha Bee, Editorial Department.

REMITTANCES. Remit by draft, express or postal order payable to The Bee Publishing Company.

STATEMENT OF CIRCULATION. State of Nebraska, Douglas County, ss: Charles C. Rosewater, general manager of The Omaha Daily Bee, being duly sworn, deposes and says that the actual number of full and complete copies of The Daily Bee...

Table with 3 columns: Circulation category, Number of copies, Total. Includes rows for 'Total' and 'Less uncollected and returned copies'.

CHARLES C. ROSEWATER, General Manager. ROBERT H. HUNTER, Notary Public.

WHEN OUT OF TOWN. Subscribers leaving the city temporarily should have the Bee mailed to them. Address will be changed as often as requested.

If Mayor "Jim" had only been running for some office. Evidently Cleveland people do not think they can have too much Johnson.

Hearst insists that he is out of politics, but it is evident he is not out for Bryan.

Democrats have three full weeks in which to forget it and prepare for Thanksgiving.

The Down-and-Out club will have to pass on several new applications for membership.

Hearst's declaration that he is out of politics is corroborated by the New York election returns.

"The Literature of Roguery" is the title of a new book. Probably a story of New York politics.

Wonder what would have happened if Colonel Bryan had made a few more speeches in Nebraska.

It did not take the intelligent voters long to let the gas out of one of the local bond propositions.

Washington reports that the mints turned out $13,088,750 in new coin in September. Get any of it?

The financial crisis is certainly over in New York. The smart set has resumed the bridge whist series.

"There is no way to avoid collisions on single tracks," says a railway expert. Oh, yes there is. Build double tracks.

All the foot ball coaches are working new passes, despite the federal law against their distribution by railway officials.

Mr. Burton, who was defeated by Tom Johnson in Cleveland, retains his seat in congress, which will keep him reasonably busy.

"Checks will be much in vogue this winter," says a fashion writer. All up-to-date bankers have already adopted the style.

A Turkish princess is studying cooking in Boston. If she turns out to be a good cook, she will not miss the deference due her rank.

Kansas City should be the natural headquarters for balloonists. The city has had a magnificent union depot up in the air for many years.

If the government insists that the Indians must work or starve, the Indian will be in a position to sympathize with the hated abolitionists.

The Water board is to be commended for its far-sighted judgment in declining to submit that $4,000,000 bond proposition to the voters.

There is no cloud without a silver lining. But our democratic friends this year will have to go quite a way from home to get their consolation.

A New Jersey judge has decided that a husband must wash dishes when it is necessary. No hardship will be worked if the husband is allowed to decide when it is necessary.

REFLEX OF THE ELECTIONS.

Gauged by its bearing on the impending presidential campaign, the result of the election in Kentucky is probably the most significant and important of this year's contests at the polls.

With the defeat of the Beckham supporters the republicans elect an entire state ticket, and materially strengthen their forces although, on account of the number of democratic hold-overs, the legislature will be democratic on a joint ballot.

While the republican candidates in New York were defeated no mourning will be indulged over the event in republican circles generally.

Democrats and anti-administration republicans who had plotted democratic victories in the majority contests in Ohio have little to rejoice over the result at Cleveland, where Tom Johnson was elected mayor for the fourth term over Congressman Theodore Burton, endorsed by the administration at Washington.

All question of politics aside, the elections in San Francisco must be gratifying to lovers of good government everywhere. The ticket named and supported by the citizens' committee organized to punish grafters and get rid of the hoodlums who had long dominated the city was elected by an overwhelming majority.

The Army of the Tennessee is camped again at Vicksburg, this time at the invitation of the mayor and the governor of Mississippi, with a very different welcome than that of 1862-3, when the forces under General Dodge were playing an important part in General Grant's program to open up the Mississippi.

The adverse vote on consolidation in South Omaha, while disappointing to those who were working for the greater city, simply postpones the day. The merger of Omaha and South Omaha under one city government to correspond with the conditions that make it in fact a single community of compact population and unified commercial and social interests is bound to come, and that at no very distant time.

The combination of officeholders and their favored dependents has succeeded by misrepresentation and appeals to local pride and prejudice in persuading a majority of the voters of South Omaha to reject the consolidation proposition as submitted at the present time.

The refusal of South Omaha to accept consolidation now must not discourage the friends of the Greater Omaha, which must eventually embrace all the adjacent cities and villages that are here clustered together and bring them under one name and under one municipal government.

The safest answer is that reckless speculation, accompanied by unsound banking, makes recurrent financial collapse unavoidable in any period, but that the interval of twenty years or thereabouts still remains as that required to wear out the foundations of prosperity.

ROUND ABOUT NEW YORK.

Ripples on the Current of Life in the Metropolis.

"Gotham" was first applied to the city of Manhattan in a book of humorous sketches called "Salmagundi," written about 1807 by Washington Irving in collaboration with his brother Peter and the poet Paulding.

The voters of Douglas county have given the county board authority to spend $25,000 for the purchase of a site and erection of a building for the Detention home, but they have not said that the county board must spend $25,000 to this end.

The governors of North Carolina, Georgia and Alabama have agreed that "the complete recognition of the right of states to regulate the interstate business of transportation companies is absolutely necessary."

Looking over the election returns and remembering the crowds that greeted him in his whirlwind speaking tour in the closing days of the campaign, Mr. Bryan will be inclined to again ask himself if Nebraskans will ever learn to vote as they should.

The Commercial club gives signs of awakening to the importance of the movement for improving the inland waterways of the country.

"Love, confidence and cash will help us to happiness," says the Baltimore American. How about "love, confidence and clearing house certificates" as an emergency substitute?

A Famous Asset. Indianapolis News. Fortunately there has been no loss of public confidence in the corn crop.

Irvington Conferences. Kansas City Star. Mr. Bryan says that nine-tenths of the republicans in this country are actually democrats.

Postponing the Happy Day. Baltimore American. Any further run on the banks should now be postponed until the spring, when they are wholesome and healthy—that is, if people select grassy banks to make a run upon.

Prosperity and the Army. Springfield Republican. A year or two more of prosperity would probably have finished the United States army.

Why Did It Come This Year? Theory of Industrialism and More Frequent Panics. New York Evening Post. Speaking primarily of the stock exchange part of the financial collapse in the last ten days, Mr. Andrew Carnegie made the following remarks:

Speed abuses by automobile drivers in New York City have reached such an extent that the justices of the special sessions before whom the offenders come have agreed upon concerted action.

Grave Problems for the Judges. Washington Post. After voluminous correspondence, and long contention, the government and the manufacturers of the stuff called whiskey are unable to agree on the question, "What is whiskey?"

THE RESULTS LOCALLY.

Douglas county republicans are to be congratulated upon the magnificent victory scored by the election by unprecedented majorities of all the republican candidates.

The voters of Douglas county have given the county board authority to spend $25,000 for the purchase of a site and erection of a building for the Detention home, but they have not said that the county board must spend $25,000 to this end.

The governors of North Carolina, Georgia and Alabama have agreed that "the complete recognition of the right of states to regulate the interstate business of transportation companies is absolutely necessary."

Looking over the election returns and remembering the crowds that greeted him in his whirlwind speaking tour in the closing days of the campaign, Mr. Bryan will be inclined to again ask himself if Nebraskans will ever learn to vote as they should.

The Commercial club gives signs of awakening to the importance of the movement for improving the inland waterways of the country.

"Love, confidence and cash will help us to happiness," says the Baltimore American. How about "love, confidence and clearing house certificates" as an emergency substitute?

A Famous Asset. Indianapolis News. Fortunately there has been no loss of public confidence in the corn crop.

Irvington Conferences. Kansas City Star. Mr. Bryan says that nine-tenths of the republicans in this country are actually democrats.

Postponing the Happy Day. Baltimore American. Any further run on the banks should now be postponed until the spring, when they are wholesome and healthy—that is, if people select grassy banks to make a run upon.

Prosperity and the Army. Springfield Republican. A year or two more of prosperity would probably have finished the United States army.

Why Did It Come This Year? Theory of Industrialism and More Frequent Panics. New York Evening Post. Speaking primarily of the stock exchange part of the financial collapse in the last ten days, Mr. Andrew Carnegie made the following remarks:

Speed abuses by automobile drivers in New York City have reached such an extent that the justices of the special sessions before whom the offenders come have agreed upon concerted action.

Grave Problems for the Judges. Washington Post. After voluminous correspondence, and long contention, the government and the manufacturers of the stuff called whiskey are unable to agree on the question, "What is whiskey?"

Tip for the Coal Trust. Baltimore American. An explorer declares that coal is to be found around the North pole.

FOR GRIDDLE CAKES OF ALL MAKES CORN SYRUP

It's the crowning joy that makes a feast of a flapjack. It spurs the lazy appetite; it surprises by its exquisite flavor.

Fine for baking—best for any use from griddle cakes to candy.

In 10c, 25c and 50c air-tight tins.

CORN PRODUCTS MFG. CO.

Advertisement for Griddle Cakes of All Makes Corn Syrup, featuring an illustration of a teapot and a stack of griddle cakes.

A QUESTION AS TO CAUSE.

What Actually Occasioned the Wall Street Panic?

New York Evening Post. After a crisis in the markets there is always abundance of authoritative information as to why any crisis whatever should have come.

Second, and as a corollary, must be cited the waste of credit during many years; by the "boomers" and promoters of 1891 and 1902, by the suspicious personages who bought up banks on margin, and built up their "chain," and by the infatuated financiers who threw us in debt to Europe during 1906 by hundreds of millions of dollars.

Third, such episodes as the life insurance practices, and the looting of the New York street railways, whose inevitable exposure shook the confidence of the ignorant man in the American financier and made him there are those who say that the exposure of these wrongdoings made the trouble, and that hence the exposure is to blame, they are men who would denounce policemen for thrusting on our innocent mind knowledge that thieves exist.

Fourth, in the list of responsibility stand the inadequate state laws for restriction of trust company investments, and the folly with which the presidents of these institutions have resisted propositions of reform during half a dozen years.

PERSONAL NOTES. The Mexican government denies that it spent $200,000 Mex. in entertaining Secretary Root. It spent $100,000 in real money.

The old adepted which Geronimo, the Indian chief, wore in his last battle with General Miles has been bought by Robert W. Wells of Washington, and will be given to the Smithsonian institution.

Dr. A. R. Green of the Nathan Strauss milk pasteurizing establishment of New York, opened a similar laboratory in Heidelberg, Germany, last week in the presence of a number of university professors and representatives of various South German sanitary organizations.

King Alfonso is most carefully guarded at night. For four centuries the slumbers of successive sovereigns of Spain have been watched all night by the Morlans de Espinosa, a body of men to whom is delegated the exclusive privilege of guarding their monarch from sunset to sunrise.

The following are among the prominent men expected to be present at the dinner which will close the convention of the National Civil Service Reform league in Buffalo on the evening of November 8: Governor Charles E. Hughes, Joseph H. Choate, Daniel C. Gilman, Charles J. Bonaparte, Richard Watson Olden, Richard H. Dana, William Dudley Foskice and Clifton Rogers Woodruff.

Advertisement for Griddle Cakes of All Makes Corn Syrup, featuring an illustration of a teapot and a stack of griddle cakes.

A MILD WINTER IN SIGHT.

Old Reliable Prophet Gives an Assured Forecast.

Washington Post. Weather prophets are entitled to public praise for their consideration and courtesy in predicting a mild winter.

Muskrats have not even begun to build their winter quarters. This is a sign that has never failed, from the time that Adam first observed that muskrats were weather sharps.

Jack-rabbits have not yet begun to drum on hollow logs; there is no thick down under the chicken's feathers, nor any bony growth on its feet; the wild geese are still sojourning on northern lakes; Jack-rabbits have not yet begun to drum on hollow logs; there is no thick down under the chicken's feathers, nor any bony growth on its feet; the wild geese are still sojourning on northern lakes; Jack-rabbits have not yet begun to drum on hollow logs; there is no thick down under the chicken's feathers, nor any bony growth on its feet; the wild geese are still sojourning on northern lakes.

INESCAPABLE LAUGHS.

"What do you think of a man who keeps his money in an old stocking?" "I should say he had selected a darned poor bank."—Philadelphia Ledger.

"You can prove an alibi on this charge, can't you?" asked his lawyer. "Yes, yes," said the captured crook; "but we'll have to wait a while before we can get the alibi to prove it by ain't out of jail yet."—Chicago Tribune.

"Prisoner at the bar," said the magistrate, "for the charge of overreaching you will pay a fine of $10 or be took to jail for ten days." "I should say it was purely imaginary."—Washington Star.

"Some of our financiers have had trouble in realizing money." "What do you mean by that?" "I mean they have had trouble in realizing it. A lot of it was purely imaginary."—Washington Star.

Don Quixote had called into the windmill, with the result already recorded. "I'll tackle you again," he snarled, gathering himself up. "When I get my second wind!" "But his famous steed Rosinante refused to be a party to any further disturbance, and the affair ended in favor of the windmill."—Chicago Tribune.

THE MORNING AFTER. Detroit Free Press. Last night I ate a little bird, and had a bottle cold. Was in the new hotel, we sat. And merry stories told. And, oh, when I had gone to sleep, he was gone, and I was left. And with a clever bright and sharp. Reached out to get my head.

Advertisement for Gifford Bicknell and Patton, Doctors, Have Removed their offices from the Karbach Block to 536 Eranais Bldg.

Advertisement for C. N. Dietz Lumber Co., 1214 Farnam, Tel. Dec. 35. Opportunities Like This Don't Often Occur. Canadian Clear Red Cedar Shingles $3.75 per M, packed FULL COUNT.