PARENTS

When you stop to think about it, you, of course, realize the grave danger that menaces your children when they play in the streets on which there are street car tracks, but do you think about it often enough?

And do you caution your children about it often enough?

Are you sure that YOUR children are not daily exposing themselves to the danger of being struck by a car—in fact, jeopardizing their lives,

Remember that when children are playing, their minds are engrossed with their play and they are utterly unheeded of approaching cars and frequently dart directly in front of them.

COUNTY MAY ASK MORE TAX

Considering Suit for Larger Slice Off Creighton Estate.

SHOULD INHERITANCE BE MORE

Question Put Up to County by Lawyer Who Finds Difference Between Distribution and Original Terms.

Legal action may be started by the county commissioners to collect from the Creighton estate beneficiaries the difference between the amount the county will receive as inheritance tax under the compromise agreement signed by the heirs and beneficiaries and the amount the county would have received had the terms of the will been strictly complied with. It is estimated this difference would be close to $25,000.

Thursday afternoon F. A. Shotwell, who as deputy under former County Attorney Sheehy, helped in litigation over the law in the courts, called the attention of the board to the difference in the tax caused by the compromise agreement and the members of the board asked him to present a written opinion as to the rights of the county in the matter. Mr. Shotwell filed the opinion Friday morning and in it he holds that as the county was not a party to the agreement its interests in the estate could not be altered by it. The opinion says that $250,000 of the estate which would have gone to Creighton university, St. Joseph's hospital and the other institutions has been taken from the institutions and given to the heirs-at-law by the agreement. If this money had gone to the institutions it would have paid inheritance tax at the rate of 4 per cent. Inheritance received by the heirs-at-law pay only 2 per cent. Mr. Shotwell contends the county can collect the difference from the beneficiaries according to the amount they would have received under the will.

Board Will Consider.

The county board has taken no action, but will consider the opinion at the next meeting and will then decide whether to go into the courts or not.

The effort to collect this extra tax will be resisted by the institutions interested according to T. J. Mahoney, who represents them.

"If the estate were distributed according to the terms of the will," said Mr. Mahoney, "the county might get more than it will get under the agreement and it might get much less. There are two theories as to the interpretation of the will. Under one theory a large part of the residuary estate was not distributed and this would go to the heirs at law. If this theory were upheld by the courts the institutions would get more than they will receive under the agreement and consequently the inheritance tax would be much less. The other theory is that the entire estate is distributed by the will. Under this theory the county's share in taxes would be larger than under the agreement. These two theories give rise to a genuine difference of opinion among the beneficiaries and instead of going to courts the beneficiaries settled the matter among themselves by the agreement.

Shares Fixed by Court.

"The shares of the various beneficiaries are fixed by the decree signed by the court and that decree is the only basis upon which the tax can be levied. I can imagine a case in which the heirs of an estate might agree to allow one person, whose relationship to the deceased was such that the tax would be low, to take the entire estate and then make a distribution afterward and thus evade the payment of taxes. But in this case, where there is a bona fide distribution of the estate, I do not believe any other basis than the court decree could be taken as a basis for the tax."

FINK ASKS LIGHT ON BONDS

Wants to Know Why Sinking Fund of City Cannot Be Thus Invested.

City and County Treasurer Fink is awaiting advice from the city attorney offering for sale about $100,000 of Omaha district improvement bonds, the proceeds of which are to pay improvement fund warrants now in the hands of contractors. The warrants are drawing 7 per cent interest as there are no funds on hand for payment. The bonds are being prepared to draw 4 1/2 per cent interest, the rate at which most Omaha paper is sold, but the flurry in the money market makes it uncertain whether the issue can be floated at that rate.

The treasurer has asked the city attorney if there is any legal reason why the sinking fund of the city cannot be invested in these bonds which are what is known as serial bonds, those of each district being issued so as to be paid one-tenth each year as the money is paid to the treasurer as special taxes. The sinking fund in the bank draws 2 per cent a year and its investment in district bonds would increase the profit to the city 2 1/2 per cent, and if the money market improves it is suggested they might later be sold at an advantage. Another proposition dealing with similar bonds and which may be taken in lieu thereof, if no legal objection intervenes, is the purchase of other district fund bonds which will become due in shorter time. Some of the holders are anxious for cash and offer the bonds at a discount. If the discount is great enough the purchase of these bonds might be more advantageous
