Thief Comes While Man Eats—A sneak thief entered Ira Ingram's room at 523 North Fifteenth street while he was enjoying his Thanksgiving dinner and stole an overcoat and a razor. Cotton Comes High—Pearl Wandell pleaded guilty to taking twenty rolls of cotton batten and some other goods from Bennett's store Friday morning and was fined $5 and costs by Judge Crawford. Burglars Get Money and Car Tickets—Burglars forced an entrance into the office of the Remington Typewriter company at 1613 Farnam street Thursday night. They secured $10 in cash and four books of street car tickets. Abuses Family as Thanksgiving—Fred Reussen celebrated Thanksgiving by drinking and then going home and abusing his family. His wife and sister-in-law appeared against him in police court Friday morning. He was sentenced to five days in jail. Amendment to Articles—The International Credit Union has filed an amendment to its articles of incorporation reducing its capital stock from $100,000 to $20,000, of which $1,000 is already subscribed. The amendment was signed by E. M. Hunter and J. W. Hunter. Winter Burglar Bound Over—Charles Gasik was bound over to the district court in the sum of $500 Friday morning on the charge of breaking and entering the J. H. Haney Saddlery company's store and stealing about $1,000 worth of fur overcoats and winter blankets. Hotel Clerks' Banquet—The annual banquet of the Omaha and Nebraska Hotel Clerks' association will be held at the Rome hotel Monday evening. A number of prominent hotel men from Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Denver and other points will attend the banquet. Money and Watches Stolen—Burglars entered Sperry & Hutchinson's trading stamp store at 41 South Fifteenth street Thursday night by breaking in the door and got away with $120 in cash and six gold watches. They made their exit the way they entered and left no clue to their identity. Shooting with Intent to Kill—Charles Hunter, the colored man who shot Siella Wright, waived examination in police court Friday morning and was bound over to the district court in the sum of $1,000 on the charge of shooting with intent to kill. He was bound over Wednesday on the charge of breaking and entering. Free Beer Costs Hundred Dollars—J. Fever, a saloon keeper at 1221 Chicago street, pleaded guilty in police court Friday morning to giving away beer on Sunday. He was fined $100 and costs. He was arrested by Officer Woodridge last Sunday while in the act of passing a bottle of beer to a man at the back end of his saloon. Can Make It in Short Time—"No, I don't live here, judge. I'm just going through and the officer picked me up," said George Morris, who was booked as a suspicious character in police court Friday morning. "How long does it take you to go through?" asked the judge. "It won't take me very long, if you give me a chance." The judge gave him the chance. Indicted Man Confers With Lawyer—R. W. Mahaffey of Mullen is in Omaha consulting with his attorneys in reference to his case, which is to be tried in the United States district court Monday. Mr. Mahaffey is under indictment for conspiracy to defraud the Douglas State bank of its possession and title to large tracts of land in Sheridan county by means of illegal filings. Held Brothers Waive Hearing—John and Bernard Held of South Omaha, charged with contributing to the delinquency of two young girls, waived their preliminary hearing before Judge Troup Friday morning and were placed under bonds to appear for trial in district court. The first complaint against them was dismissed because of technical faults and the hearing was held under the new one filed by County Attorney English. Girl Falls from Car—Annie Strout, a Polish girl living at Twenty-ninth and Walnut streets, fell from a Park car at 1:30 o'clock near Poppleton avenue and was picked up unconscious and taken to a nearby house. The ambulance was called and she was transferred to the Omaha General hospital and attended by Police Surgeon Harris. She was hurt about the head and left knee, but her injuries are not of a serious nature. Feast Knock Chicken Market—Former United States Marshal T. L. Matthews was in Omaha Friday from his farm on the Papio. "The chicken and potato crops are fairly good with us," said Farmer Matthews.

but with the coyotes, coons (the real thing), possums and weasels, the chicken proposition is not a paying one this season." Farmer Matthews incidentally hinted that he was going to invite a bunch of newspaper men out to his place some night for a genuine coon hunt.

USES HAT BAND FOR A BANK

Money is Missing and Owner Wants Police to Recover the Cash. As a result of attempting to patch up domestic difficulties with his wife, whom he left nearly a year ago after living with her only three days after their marriage, M. M. McKean is bewailing the loss of $60, which was stolen from his hat band while he was paying a visit at her residence, 229 1/2 Leavenworth street, Thursday afternoon. McKean is a prosperous farmer from North Dakota and about a year ago paid a visit to relatives who live in Council Bluffs and while there met and wooed Mrs. Harwood, a widow with three children. After three days of wedded bliss, McKean decided that he had had enough. He departed for his farm in North Dakota, but becoming lonesome he determined to come back and attempt to win back his spouse. When arriving in Omaha McKean placed a $20 bill and two $10 bills in his hat band and started out to search for his neglected spouse. When he found her he went shopping for a big Thanksgiving spread, spending about $8 or $10 for eatables, leaving the other bills in the sweet hand. While visiting with his wife in the sitting room he claims he left his hat on a stand in the parlor during which time he avers that the money was stolen from its hiding place in his headgear. McKean told his tale to the police and demanded the service of the best detective on the force to recover the missing bills. Fearing that professional jealousy might be accused if one of the detectives was designated as the best on the force, McKean was advised to file his complaint with the city prosecutor this morning.

RIVER TOO COLD FOR SUICIDE

Robert Kirk Prepares for Death, but Chill Causes Him to Live. Tired of life, and with nothing to be thankful for on Thanksgiving day, Robert Kirk, an aged man, made up his mind Thursday to drown his troubles beneath the waters of the Missouri, and he waded his way to the banks of that troubled stream south of the Douglas street bridge, where he tied a rock around his neck with a piece of wire and then started to walk along the bank till he should find a desirable spot to shuffle off. But as he was walking he slipped on a stone that slipped from under him and fell into the river sooner than he had expected. Finding the water much colder and wetter than he had anticipated and not over waist deep, he gathered up the stone in his arms and yelled loudly for help. Two men who were passing responded to his calls and dragged him out. The police station was notified and the patrol wagon went and took him to the station. He was wrapped in a blanket and thawed out and then given dry clothes to put on. He admitted that he intended to commit suicide, but said he was not ready when the stone slipped and let him into the water. No charge was preferred against him. His daughter, Mrs. Mary Carlisle, is the cook at the city jail, and her father has had no occupation for some time other than to help around the jail kitchen.

Music

Song Recital by George Hamlin. Notwithstanding the usual sense of complacency, as it were, which marks the condition of the average person as Thanksgiving day grows to a close with memories of blessings and other things disposed of or digested, there was a general activity which could not be accounted for in musical circles had it not been for the fact that Mrs. W. W. Turner had announced one of her delightful concerts for Thanksgiving night. Mrs. Turner has been making great impressions in her role of manager, and she is adding to her laurels with each concert. Another, and a very potent reason for the exhilaration of the people from their recitals on Thanksgiving night was that Mr. George Hamlin of Amertown (also of Chicago) was the attraction of this, the third of Mrs. Turner's concerts for this season.

COAL HEAVER SHOTS WIFE

E. E. Morrow Falls in Attempt to Kill Spouse and Destroy Home with Fire. Because Mrs. E. E. Morrow, 300 North Thirtieth street, had no Thanksgiving dinner prepared, she is lying in the Omaha General hospital suffering from two bullet wounds, and the husband is lying in the city jail and will have to face the charge of shooting with intent to kill. At 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon E. E. Morrow went home and asked his wife if she had a Thanksgiving dinner ready. She replied that she had not, because he had not furnished the necessary provisions for such a dinner. This angered Morrow, and he pulled out a revolver and began shooting at his wife. The first shot grazed her abdomen and the second struck the front part of her left shoulder, running downward and coming out at the back. The third shot missed her. There were no more cartridges in the pistol and Morrow's wrath was not yet appeased. He went into the bedroom and set fire to the house. Neighbors who had been attracted by the sound of the shots saw smoke emerging from the house and turned in a fire alarm. When the fire department arrived Morrow fought the firemen when they attempted to enter the house. He pulled his gun on Captain Jenks, but a stream of water was played on him that knocked him down, and he was relieved of his gun and held for the police, and was later taken to the station in the patrol wagon. The fire was extinguished before any considerable damage was done to the house, although the bedding and furniture were quite badly damaged.

COYOTE IS KILLED IN CITY

J. W. Vance Has Lively Thanksgiving Chase and Securely Pelt as Trophy. The "Hatcha" of Bralima was rung with unctious and its difficulties were admirably handled. "To Kahne" was demanded, and it was sung well. The Strauss song and the numbers dedicated to Mr. Hamlin were, of course, exceedingly interesting to the audience. I try to make my program just as inclusive as possible. That Mr. Hamlin's judgment was eminently proper was evidenced by the numerous good things which he had prepared and which were a delightful novelty to the musical people. The graceful Hayden number followed by the old English "Phyllis" has such charming graces led up, by contrast, to the wonderful dramatic song by Handel, "The Trumpet's Loud Clangour," which was given with an impetuosity of temperament of which one would scarcely have thought Hamlin capable; the song itself, generally not well known, was a revelation in that it showed that all the dramatic and striking effects in song writing were not born yesterday. Hamlin the Great had a few things which musicians are beginning to look for and find. Another song in which the singer's fire and force and power were a surprise was the "Provençalische Lied"—this was superbly done and made one dream of seeing the tenor in grand opera. In speaking thus of George Hamlin's power being a surprise, let it not be inferred that he lacked it before, but he has brought out in the last few years powers which those who knew him felt that he was only holding in reserve. STOCKMAN IN JAIL ONE DAY

Plends Guilty, Pays Fine, Serves Term and is Square with Uncle Sam. David M. Gourlay, a stock ranchman of Cherry county who was recently indicted by the United States grand jury for conspiracy in securing illegal filings on government lands in that county and for illegal fencing of government lands, appeared before Judge W. H. Munger Wednesday afternoon and pleaded guilty to illegal fencing and was sentenced to pay a fine of $500 and to one day's confinement in the Douglas county jail. The sentence was imposed about 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and Gourlay entered upon his sentence of imprisonment at once and completed the sentence at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. He also paid the fine.

DOUGLAS COUNTY NOT HIT

Beyond the Reach of Call by State Treasurer for Remittance. "The action of State Treasurer Brian in calling on county treasurers to remit state funds in their hands December 1, does not affect this county in the least," said County Treasurer Fink Friday. "Douglas county remits its state funds every month.

Railway Notes and Personals.

J. K. Chambers, ticket agent at Union station, is confined to his home with a severe attack of pneumonia. The smaller counties, I understand, remit only two or three times a year and the letter of the state treasurer is for the purpose of having these counties make their distribution and remittance at once. State Treasurer Brian was led to make the call for funds because of the lack of ready money in the school funds. The apportionment will be made Monday and the treasurer has but $15,000 with which to pay an apportionment of $36,000. Clinton L. Patterson has been appointed assistant special agent of the Union Pacific with headquarters at Denver, to succeed Paul S. Gregory, who has resigned. T. J. Keilher, who has been assistant special agent of the Wyoming division, has had his jurisdiction extended to cover the Utah division, which was recently added to the part of the Union Pacific controlled from the general offices in Omaha.
