WORK OF THE WOMEN'S CLUBS

Episcopal Women's Auxiliary Quarterly Meeting at Falls City.

GENERAL FEDERATION GROWING

Membership Committee Reports Admission of Several Large Clubs and Gives Instructions to Prospective Members.

The membership committee of the General Federation of Women's Clubs makes the following report of clubs admitted to the organization during October: Rhode Island—Anthony, Coventry Woman's club, 100 members; president, Mrs. E. B. Haskin; secretary, Mrs. D. W. Woonsocket, Woonsocket Yacht club, 200 members; president, Mrs. Elisha D. Clark; secretary, Mrs. J. W. Woonsocket. Rhode Island Borois, fifty members; president, Mrs. Frank H. Cady, 75 Mawney street. New Mexico—Santa Rosa, Santa Rosa Literary club, seven members; president, Mrs. Mary Miles Stearns. Illinois—Highland Park, Osoli club, thirty members; president, Miss B. W. Schumacher, 510 East Laurel avenue. West Virginia—Fairmont, Woman's club, 120 members; president, Mrs. Thomas W. Fleming. Kansas—Ashland, Ashland Study club, fifteen members; president, Mrs. Francis W. Price.

The chairman of the membership committee reports that all General Federation state secretaries and all clubs wishing to apply for membership in the General Federation would read carefully the constitution by-laws printed on the back of the application blank. It will be seen that three things the membership committee must have before an application can be considered: First, the application properly filled out; second, the copy of the constitution; and, third, a letter of advice from the General Federation state secretary. The chairman now holds many applications from clubs which have failed to send a copy of their constitution, even after they have been specially requested to do so. He also holds some other applications with the constitution, waiting for a reply from the General Federation state secretary. In some cases, the club is put at disadvantage simply through heedlessness or indifference. Further, the attention of all is called to that provision of the by-laws which declares that all applications must reach the chairman of the membership committee at least six days before the biennial. In this case that means that all applications must be received in Wheatland, Wyo., not later than April 25. In order to be considered for membership, the club must be in the line of clubs to send delegates to the annual meeting of the General Federation, which is held in Omaha, Neb., on June 1-7. It is to be hoped that every secretary will allow special price.

"A Suit At Your Own Price" Idea Proves Popular in Omaha. It is an old proverb saying that what is one's loss is another's gain. This is most clearly shown every day at the sale of Dresser's in his temporary headquarters at 1811 Farnam street. Dresser is losing on every suit or overcoat he sells, and the dozens who have each day since the sale opened availed themselves of the opportunity to purchase a top notch tailor made suit or overcoat for less than the price of a ready made suit, are rejoicing over their good luck.

The old location of Dresser, the tailor, is out of commission and he is in the temporary location at 1811 Farnam street. He is disposing of his enormous stock at ridiculously low prices, so that he may go into the newly finished store with a new stock.

"I am in business to stay, and if I failed during this sale to live up to my reputation for fine tailoring, I would be ruined," is the answer to the question, "Can you give the same high grade workmanship during this sale that you have always given?" "Every man making a purchase during this sale I expect to develop into a regular customer, and this can be done only by giving superior quality and workmanship right straight through. So rest assured on that point."

Every one buying during this sale will be given the same service as if full prices were charged, but the early ones have the largest assortment from which to select. The temporary location is 1811 Farnam.

EARTHQUAKE'S TOLL OF LIFE

Recent Disaster in Russian Turkestan and Others.

ANCIENT AND MODERN SHOCKS

Record of Tremblers Surpassing Karatagh in Loss of Life—Remarkable Island Freak in the Bering Sea.

What purports to be authentic reports of the loss of life caused by the October earthquake at Karatagh, Russian Turkestan, puts the total in the disturbed district at 14,000 persons. The disaster occurred October 21, the date on which instruments in Washington, Cleveland and Boston recorded an earthquake, the location of which was then unknown. In loss of life the Karatagh disaster ranks twenty-fifth in the earthquake record, and is surpassed by three only in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries.

Modern earthquakes are far less disastrous to life and property than those of ancient times, if the records are correct. In primitive times the facilities of coroners' offices for accurate counting were not as complete as today. In many instances the disaster was so overwhelming that no one was left to make a record. In the year 187 in Portus and Macedonia 150 towns were destroyed and no record of the loss of life was taken. Constantinople was partly destroyed by an earthquake, Russian Turkestan, 200,000 lives were lost, and in 1873, in Asia Minor, had 500 towns shaken and the loss of life was too great for calculation. When earthquakes occurred settled down to mortality figures either the recorders or the earthquakes, possibly both, handed down to succeeding generations, dimensions of such a nature that modern efforts are comparatively feeble. And happily so, here are a few of the shocks surpassing Karatagh in loss of life:

Table with columns: Location, Date, Mortality. Includes entries for Calabria, Sicily, Naples, etc.

Recent Tremblers. The last preceding disastrous earthquake, outside of the recent Calabrian disturbances, was the one which devastated Kingston, Jamaica, on January 14 last, and resulted in the loss of about 1,500 lives, although the number has never been definitely ascertained, owing to the fact that many of the bodies were consumed in the conflagration which followed the earthquake.

In April, 1906, San Francisco was partly destroyed by an earthquake which was followed by a terrible fire. About five hundred lives were reported to have been lost and property valued at about $200,000,000 was destroyed.

The city of Valparaiso, Chili, was almost destroyed by an earthquake on August 16, 1906, the loss of life being estimated at about 1,000 and the damage about $50,000,000. The most terrible earthquake of comparatively modern times was that of Lisbon, in November, 1755, which killed about 60,000 people. It lasted only about eight minutes, but extended over 5,000 miles. The cities of Coimbra, Oporto, and Braga suffered terribly, and St. Ubes was destroyed. In Spain, as a result of the same disturbance, a large part of Malaga was ruined and one-half of Pex, the northern capital of Morocco, collapsed, and more than 12,000 Moors perished. The island of Madeira, off the African coast, was affected by this earthquake, and 3,000 houses in the island of Madeira, in the Grecian archipelago, were overthrown.

Last Century's Shakes. Manila was recently shaken in July, 1863, 1,000 persons being killed, and at Mitylene, in 1857, the same number were killed. The cities of Arequipa, Iquique, Tacna, and Chuchoa and many small towns of Peru and Ecuador were destroyed in August, 1868, with the loss of some 25,000 lives and damage estimated at $300,000,000. San Jose de Cucuta and other towns near Santander, on the boundary of Colombia, were destroyed by an earthquake in May, 1875, and about 14,000 persons were killed. At Yunnan, China, 4,000 people lost their lives as the result of an earthquake in 1889, and 12,000 were killed at Kuchan, Persia, and at Samsakand in November, 1893.

There were 1,600 deaths from an earthquake at Aidin, Asia Minor, in September, 1899, and a number of villages were destroyed in the province of Tiflis, Russia, causing 1,000 deaths, in December, 1899. At Schemacha, Transcaucasia, in February, 1902, 3,000 people were killed or injured by an earthquake, and 900 were killed in Guatemala on April 18, 1902.

The town of St. Pierre, island of Martinique, was totally destroyed by an eruption of Mont Pele volcano on May 8, 1902, resulting in terrible loss of life, approximately 30,000 to 40,000. At about the same time there was an eruption of the Soufriere volcano in the island of St. Vincent, killing about 2,000 persons. Earthquakes at Andijan, Turkestan, in December, 1902, killed 10,000 people and destroyed 15,000 houses.

A severe earthquake in northern India in April, 1905, caused immense damage and loss of life. Four hundred and seventy men of a British Gurkha battalion were killed at a hill station, and about 10,000 natives perished at Lahore, Amertsar, and other places.

In September, 1906, Calabria was severely shaken and some 8,000 persons were killed. Finally Calabria was visited by earthquakes on October 23 last, and according to the latest reports it was expected that the death list would foot up about 600 persons.

New Island Vanishing. One of the remarkable freaks of earthquake or volcano is the island in Bering sea discovered last July by the officers of the revenue cutter McCulloch. Steam was issuing from every pore and fissure and showers of lava dust sifted down upon the heads of the officers of the revenue cutter, who sought to go ashore to raise the American flag above the volcanic visitor. Two days were made to land, one in July and the other in August, but the cooling process was slow and the baffled officers decided to retire for two months. Meanwhile they speculated on the possibility of additions to Uncle Sam's island possessions. Possibly the volcano might cough again. It was October 15 when the McCulloch visited the scene again and the remarkable transformation that had occurred in the eight weeks is best described in the words of Lieutenant E. H. Camden, whose report has reached the Treasury department: "Over the land there was no evidence of the cloud that had hitherto been visible for such a great distance and it was evident that there was but little steam escaping from Perry and McCulloch peaks, from which such dense volumes escaped at the time of the last visit in August. "I was somewhat prepared to observe many interesting changes, even to the upheaval of another peak, but the first change that was observed was at such a variance with anything that had been expected that it was startling, to say the least. McCulloch peak stood high as of old, but 1,700 feet high, had entirely disappeared, leaving the half of Perry peak, with its perpendicular wall, standing in grim silence as a headstone at the grave of the departed peak.

Astonishing Changes. "However, a nearer view disclosed the fact that McCulloch peak had not died without a struggle or without leaving some evidence of its short existence, for astonishing changes were to be seen in the profiles of the peaks, the rugged outlines of each of which had been softened to a general symmetry by a padding of lava dust that almost disguised them beyond recognition, while the sand spit connecting the peaks had attained a height varying from 20 to 100 feet, as shown by the contour lines in the sketch.

"Incalculable tons of material, hundreds of feet in depth, had been deposited over the entire island. Fire Island and Perry peak now towered into the air with a gentle incline, rising from the beach several hundred yards distant to the summit. "As I entered the cove, it will be jarred or blown from its bed high up among the rocks and come tearing down the cliffs of the beach, raising a cloud of dust with it that is almost identical in appearance with the vapor rising nearby and leaving its starting point bare and white in contrast with the dark, undisturbed dust covering the adjacent rocks. "As soon as I realized that this new development was composed of lava dust, which was easily recognizable at the short distance we were then from the island, my mind reverted immediately to the fall of lava dust that occurred at Unalaska on September 1, 1907, about the same time there has been so much contradictory information given, and the connection between the incident and the tons of lava dust covering the island was obvious. McCulloch Peak had blown up certainly not more than a few hours before the fall of lava dust at Unalaska, and this then was the much disputed source.

The officers decided not to land. But they sailed around the island and noticed that while there had been a disappearance of the peaks and transformation in topography the island had actually widened. A deep bay appeared some half a mile in diameter had appeared since the last visit, and on one side of it a precipitous wall 100 feet high appeared. From the surface of the bay a dense cloud of steam and smoke arose. A thick deposit of sulphur was on the beach, and its fumes could be detected by the officers two miles away. The officers took leave of the island, and they realized that it might disappear entirely before their next visit.

FOOD FOR THE PRISONERS

Menu Cards and Cook Books Are Scrutinized by County Commissioners.

Members of the county board are delving through cook books and menu cards getting ideas on the makeup of meals to be furnished prisoners in the county jail. Owing to the absence of Commissioners Trainor and Brandegee at the meeting held Saturday, but Commissioners Seligson and Ure got together and drew up a tentative menu upon which to base bids for the furnishing of meals under the new law. While the bills of fare do not contain blue points on half shell or boiled lobster they provide two wholesome meals a day, and Mr. Seligson is of the opinion the meals to be furnished at a cost not to exceed 15 or 20 cents a day, instead of 34 cents which the county is now paying Sheriff McDonald. The sample menus are as follows: Monday and Tuesday—Breakfast: Two half pound meat with thickened gravy, 1 pint coffee, 8 ounces bread, salt and pepper. Dinner: One-half pound beef with thickened gravy, 1 pound boiled potatoes, 3 ounces bread, 1 pint coffee, salt and pepper.

Tuesday and Friday—Breakfast: Two half pound meat with thickened gravy, 1 pint coffee, 8 ounces bread, salt and pepper. Dinner: One-half pound beef with thickened gravy, 1 pint coffee, salt and pepper.

Wednesday and Saturday—Breakfast: One-half pound meat with thickened gravy, 1 pint coffee, salt and pepper. Dinner: 1 pint coffee, salt and pepper. Dinner: One-half pound beef with thickened gravy, 1 pint coffee, salt and pepper.

Mr. Hubermann was a member of the Masonic lodge and the funeral will be conducted under the auspices of that order. Rev. T. J. Mackey of All Saints church will preach the funeral sermon.

APPRISERS TO SUE CITY

Men Who Fix Value of Boulevard Route Now Abandoned Prepare Action.

John E. Roagan, W. P. Lynch and Silas Robbins, as appraisers who fixed the value of the Northwestern boulevard route, which was abandoned, are preparing to bring suit against the city for the $600 claimed to have been earned by them jointly in the work of appraisal. For several weeks the bill of the appraisers has been tacked back and forth between the Board of Park Commissioners and the city council, neither body desiring to pay the bill nor to reject it. The appraisers have demanded final action in one way or another, stating that if the bill is rejected they will sue.

BANK CLEARINGS SHOW GAIN

Thirty-Six Thousand Dollars Larger for Week Than Same Period Last Year.

Clearings of Omaha banks for the week were $2,275,000 greater than for the same week last year; the record showing $16,736,874 for 1907, as compared with $14,461,874 for the corresponding week of 1906. For the first time since the financial flurry the clearings at the end of the commercial agency week, Thursday, December 5, showed a slight decrease. For five weeks past the Omaha clearings have shown a greater gain than these of any other previous to December 1, the Omaha clearings showed the only gain over last year in a list of the thirty-five largest cities of the United States. Thanksgiving and the day following caused the small clearings for the week ending December 4.

REDUCING THE WAIST

Line in Both Sexes

Men and women with heavy pendulous abdomens who wish to reduce their quickly and safely are usually advised to go for certain tiresome twisting and bending stunts which are a matter of fact, they should care more about being dangerous rather than beneficial. A far better plan is to use the following: Three simple household remedies which can be obtained of any druggist at small cost, will reduce the abdominal fatness. Extract Cascaro Aromatic, or Fluid Syrup Sennex. These are mixed together and taken at bedtime. These three make a mixture that is not only perfectly harmless, but actually quite beneficial to the system, regulating the digestion, purifying the blood, and clearing the complexion of pimples and blotches. Its chief and surprising benefit is in the reduction of the fat tissue in which it reduces the fat of the body, and it has been found that a fine physique, it having been known to reduce the weight of a man as much as a pound of fat a day. Moreover, it does it symmetrically, so that no wrinkles or lines are formed on the face. Strange to say, neither dieting nor exercise is advised when this simple home remedy is used, and it is not necessary to restrict independently of either and so the individual is not obliged to eat whatever he or she fancies and is also permitted to take things easy.—Adv.

Nels Swanson, a section man for the Union Stock Yards company, was instantly killed at 8 a. m. Saturday at South Omaha. A string of boxcars was "kicked" in upon the tracks near chute house No. 25, where he was at work. He did not hear or see them until, it is supposed, as he was shoveling with his back turned and standing in the middle of the track, the car struck him. It pitched him forward on his face and as he went under the brake bar his breast was crushed and his neck broken. His left hand was pinched and his legs were thrown across the rail and both severed.
