FIRST MOVE OF FLEET

President and Other Officials Leave Washington for Hampton Roads.

ALL ON BOARD NAVAL YACHTS

Night Will Be Consumed in Journey Down the Potomac.

GRAND REVIEW IN THE EVENING

President's Yacht to Lead Out the Virginia Capes.

FIGHTING SHIPS PASS IN REVIEW

All in Readiness on Board Admiral Evans' Battleships for the Long Journey to the Pacific Coast.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The Pacific bound Atlantic fleet leaves tomorrow morning on its journey through the Straits of Magellan, en route, as the official order reads, "for the west coast of the United States." The president is expected to arrive in Hampton Roads on the Mayflower shortly after 8 a. m. His coming will be timed as near that hour as possible without preceding it, for the fleet cannot be fired before 9 o'clock under the navy regulations.

From the time the president's yacht casts anchor in the center of the fleet the events of the departure will be watched rapidly. Rear Admiral Evans, commander-in-chief of this most notable of American fleets, expects to be on board the Mayflower and pay his respects to the president, and will be immediately followed by the other flag and commanding officers of the fleet. The reception will be brief and more or less informal. As time will figure very heavily in the plans, the president's presence on board will be confined to the officers whose launches first happen to reach the Mayflower's gangway after Admiral Evans has gone on board. The reception and the journeys of the admirals and captains to and from the Mayflower are expected to occupy upward of an hour and a half, and will be consumed in lifting anchors and getting ships in position for the start, which is expected will be made about 10 o'clock. Two hours later the first of the long line of fighting vessels should have cleared the Virginia capes and turned its course to the southward.

Review of Fleet.

The review of the passing fleet by the president will take place near Tibbitts shoal light house, ten miles from the bay, and should be ended by 1:30 o'clock. Threatening weather and occasional rain squalls marked the first day of the fleet's stay in port, but tonight a cold wind from the west dissipated the storm clouds and the sixteen battleships were bathed in moonlight. The view down the long white line of the fleet was most impressive. A occasional searchlight flash or the red and white glow of an ardois signal from the "commander-in-chief" of the fleet added to the picturesque effect. On shore the hotels were filled almost beyond their capacity by wives, sweethearts, officials and friends, who have come to say good-bye. Many of them will have to sit up throughout the night or lounge as best they can in the chairs of the hotel lobbies.

President Starts for Review.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—President Roosevelt, accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt and a distinguished company of guests, sailed on the navy yacht Mayflower from the Washington navy yard at 3:37 o'clock today for Hampton Roads. The president in his capacity as commander-in-chief of the United States navy will tomorrow give the word of command which will send the Atlantic battleship fleet on its cruise to the Pacific. As the ships pass out to sea their last farewell will be from the president on the deck of the Mayflower. He will lead the ships through the Virginia capes, then give way to the flagship Connecticut as the double line of sixteen armor clad steel cruisers course to the southward. Thus will begin what the president has planned as the supreme test of the American navy. The announced destination of the fleet is San Francisco bay, but when and where the cruise will ultimately end seems as yet an unannounced plan of the future. The departing scene from the Washington navy yard was typical of the punctuality of the president.

Mayflower was spick and span and gaudy in white.

The Mayflower was spick and span and gaudy in white. The crew, in their winter garb of blue lined the rail, and the cheerless, raw day seemed to lend itself to an expression of their feelings at being left out of the big trip. Marines unrolled the clean-swept deck and kept far back from the gang plank the hundreds or more persons who had come to see the president depart. Secretary and Mrs. McCall were piped over the ship's side a half hour before the arrival of the president. A few minutes following the arrival of the secretary the hon'ble's whistle sounded the honors to Assistant Secretary and Mrs. Newberry, who are also following the president on the trip. Then followed Rear Admiral and Mrs. Brownson and Commander and Mrs. Sims. In a white House carriage preceding the president came Miss Ethel Roosevelt, Miss Curtis Robins and Miss Hagner. Rear Admiral and Mrs. Cowles rode with the president and Mrs. Roosevelt.

As the president stepped aboard the flag of the commander-in-chief was broken out at the main yard, the hawsers were slipped and the Mayflower was under way in just five minutes.

The president, as he drove on the wharf, acknowledged the greeting of the crowd, and as the yacht began to move he raised his hat, from his place aft on the main deck, when cheers were given from the wharf. The Mayflower is expected to clear the bad places in the Potomac before dark, when a livelier clip will be taken.

INDIANS SHAMELESSLY ROBBED

Senate Committee Recommends Action to Stop Another Kickapoo Deed.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Senators Teller, Curtis and LaFollette, composing a committee which was authorized to investigate the affairs of the Kickapoo Indians, will soon submit to the senate a report giving the names of the several parties who are alleged to have dealt fraudulently with the Kickapoos, who emigrated to Mexico and who disposed of their lands at Shawnee, Okla. The report mentions a clique known as the "Chapman-Grimes-Conte party," and says that their conduct in securing the valuable lands of the Kickapoos was an open Indian criminal and brutal in the extreme. It is recommended that a special attorney shall be appointed who shall act under the direction of the Department of Justice in entering suits to set aside all deeds to Kickapoo lands. The names of the Indians who were involved in the report appear to be very hard to deal with, in the opinion of the committee, for the reason that most of them were committed in Mexico. Concerning the doings of the Chapman-Grimes-Conte party, the report says:

The outrages were shamelessly perpetrated by them and their conduct has never been equalled in the history of any dealings to secure lands from the American Indians. The names of the Indians were willfully and deliberately forged to the deeds claimed to have been taken in Mexico. Two or three instances are sufficient to show to the committee that the Indians were not the leading members of the tribe or head men of the tribes arrested and thrown into jail. They then took a large number of Indians by force and under guard of policemen to Guajardo's house in Mazuzil, where they urged the Indians to sell their lands, which the Indians declined to do, telling them invariably that they did not desire to sell their lands and under no circumstances would they sign any papers; yet these people claim to have deeds executed at Guajardo's house by the Indians. The Indians all say that they did not sign and the Indian interpreters used to tell all occasions say that the Indians did not sign their names, touch the pen or authorize any one to sign their names or touch the pen for them."

BULGARIA ANSWERS COMPLAINT

Denies Responsibility for Disturbed Conditions in Macedonia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 15.—The Bulgarian government has sent a note to Russia in answer to the recent representations made by the Russian minister at Sofia, with reference to the activity of Bulgarian bands in Macedonia. The note denies that the residents of the principality are particularly disturbed in these activities, and states that Bulgaria repudiates entire trust in the powers to introduce adequate reforms in Macedonia. It suggests the employment of Turkish in the administration of the province.

KANSAS CITY BANK REOPENS

National Bank of Commerce Only One Not Now Ready for Business.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 15.—The Union Avenue Bank of Commerce, which was obliged to close by the suspension of the National Bank of Commerce, will reopen for business tomorrow morning. All the small banks carried down by the National bank's failure have now been rehabilitated. Four government bank examiners are working on the books of the National Bank of Commerce, and upon their report the suspended bank will be reopened or liquidated. George F. Curtis of New York, one of the examiners, will probably take charge of the bank as receiver in a few days, succeeding James T. Bradley of Kansas. Checks on the suspended bank are accepted at par by many business houses and the financial situation has been mitigated thereby.

NEBRASKA MURDERER CAUGHT

Identified by Wife of Victim as the Man Who Shot Her Husband.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Dec. 15.—Fred Casey, whose arrest has been sought by federal authorities for shooting to death Jesse Murray, February 23, last, near Scott's Bluff, Neb., where both were engaged in work on a government irrigation plant, is under arrest here, and has been identified by Mrs. Murray as the man who killed her husband. Casey admitted the shooting. The trouble started over Casey accusing Murray of stealing a $40 check from him. Casey shot Murray while the latter was seated in a buggy. He said Murray had threatened to kill him.

MINING COMPANY CUTS RICH VEIN

NEW SPRINGFIELD, Dec. 15.—(Special.)—The Mariposa Gold Mining and Milling company, operating on the Slate creek, near Myrtle, S. D., has after three years of drifting, encountered and opened up their main ledge the last week. This is one of the richest and most important strikes made in the Black Hills, as it opens up a new mineral belt. This company in 1904 opened up some rich fissure veins on their property and sunk several shafts along the strike of the vein and uncovered and developed some of the richest gold ore that this region has ever produced, but water came in such large quantities that development work was much retarded and it was deemed expedient to go down on Slate creek and cross-cut the country until the main ore body was reached. This has been done and a tunnel 900 feet deep now pierces the mountains and has cross-cut and opened up seven different gold bearing ledges and the main fissure has now been uncovered. Steps are being taken to install proper drainage works, and the Mariposa Gold Mining and Milling company will soon be among the bullion producers of the Black Hills.

NEWSIES AT ROBBERY MISS LEOT.

GARRETTSON, S. D., Dec. 15.—(Special.)—Friday evening Mrs. John Erickson of this city and son, Emil, had a very exciting experience. They had been to Sioux Falls, the county seat, during the day and started home about 8 o'clock. Mrs. Erickson carrying about $50 in a small handbag. When a short distance from the city of Sioux Falls they were halted by two newsboys who compelled the young man, Emil, to get out. As he did so, Mrs. Erickson thoughtfully let the handbag containing the money slide from her hand to the bottom of the buggy, where it lay concealed, while the men went through the pockets of her son, procuring only a few cents, all the money he had on his person. After the robbery had taken the money from the young man, they ordered him into the buggy and to drive on under pain of being shot. The mother and son were glad to do so, and thus escaped losing the $50, which was in the handbag. The handbags were evidently new, as the newsies said as it was noticed that they were very nervous while they performed the robbery.

SEARCH FOR CHILD IS VAIN

Hundreds Scour the Prairies in Effort to Locate Lillie Olsen.

NOT REWARDED BY SINGLE CLUE

Belief is Gaining Ground that the Little One Has Been Kidnaped, but Who Could Have Done It is Still a Mystery.

BANCROFT, Neb., Dec. 15.—(Special Telegram.)—The disappearance of little Lillie Olsen from her home southeast of Rosalie a week ago tonight is still a mystery to all those that have heard of it or have taken a part in the ceaseless search for her. One of the latest clues obtained was the finding of footprints of a child near Logan creek, a couple of miles south of her home. Her father and uncle think that there might be a slight chance of her going with the storm the night she was lost, and wandering towards the river, may have fallen in and was drowned. Attempts were made to dynamite the river at this place, but they were all in vain, as the dynamite would not go off. The river was also dragged at several places along here by some of the searchers, who imagined that nearly every snag where the water was backed up the least would be the lodging place of the dead body. After this was done in vain and all were satisfied that the body was not to be found this way, messages were sent to all the neighboring towns for all those that could possibly come, to turn out and hunt for the child. People began to get on Omaha train No. 6 as far down the line as Tekamah and by the time it reached Bancroft the cars were all loaded and the people were met at the depot by neighbors of Olsen, who bawled them out to help to help in the search. All those who were on horseback were organized into a separate bunch and rode through field after field in all directions from the house. They went three miles west from the house and then partly doubled back on their tracks. Not being able to find any trace of the lost child in this direction they went to the same distance east and searched every little bunch of grass that could be found, as well as a man on horseback could. Each time they took in a strip nearly a mile wide, riding only a few feet apart. There were also many people on foot and in buggies, who would go from one place to another and were careful to search every place where the child could possibly have lain down to be sheltered from the storm.

SIOUTX ABOUT WOMAN'S DEATH.

SIOUTX FALLS, S. D., Dec. 15.—(Special.)—The body of Mrs. Gertrude Nicholson Brown, the divorcee colonist who disappeared several days ago under circumstances which necessitated an investigation by a coroner's jury, has left here in charge of Coroner L. D. Miller, who will take it to Hamilton, Ont., for interment. Relatives of the dead woman reside in that city. The dead woman had but $25 at the time of her death. On petition of C. H. Mr. Gross was a member of the coroner's jury which investigated the case, and it is said he is not entirely satisfied with the result of the inquest and will further investigate the case. WORK ON FINANCIAL BILL

Specific Measure to Remedy Present Conditions Not Contemplated by Committee.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—It can be stated on the highest authority that if the bill for the reform of the currency, banking and currency, now dealing with the subject, can have its way no effort will be made by the present congress to adopt legislation remedial of the present financial condition. All the energies of that committee will be directed towards the reformation, or some other measure general in character and which will be intended to preclude shrinkage of the circulation, entailing widespread financial distress. Assurance of elasticity by the adoption of the credit currency system may be recommended, or some other measure toward the same end may eventually be decided upon, but in any event no legislation will be suggested by the committee for the correction of the present conditions. The subcommittee held a four-hour conference today with its chairman, Representative Fowler of New Jersey, at which the bill, which the subcommittee has undertaken to draft, was earnestly discussed, but no decision as to its precise character and scope was reached. It is not likely that the bill will be ready to report on the bill until after the holidays. Men high in the world of finance will be given an opportunity to appear before the committee to present their views on the proposed measure. Much time will be spent in both the house and senate in considering the bill, as reported, and it is the hope of the members of the banking committee that the finances of the country will have so adjusted themselves by that time that there will be no necessity for legislation looking to the correction of present conditions.

HOW CITY IS DIVIDED.

The city was divided into six districts by the police captain for the purpose of detailing men to watch for Sunday law violators, and each district was in charge of two extra detectives besides the regular patrolmen. These were to gather evidence and submit reports. Night duty was assigned to officers, together with heads of the mechanical department of the morning newspapers, were the first representatives of a large class of Sunday workers arrested. Newsboys were "pinned" at 4 a. m. Then came the first sign of metropolitan activity, when the alley lines began the sunrise song. The motormen and conductors were "arrested" by having their names taken. The foremen at the barns were also "needed by the police." When the police wanted to know the name of the motorist of the first trolley car bound for Council Bluffs the motorman easily convinced the bluecoat that he was engaged in interstate commerce and could not be molested. The driver of the next car was listed.

LIST OF THE VICTIMS.

One each of the men engaged in the following lines of business were reported from the police captain for the purpose of making out complaints Monday: Automobile garage, passenger elevator conductor, milkman, cigar stand, drug, pool room, bowling alley and names of those caught playing in bowling alleys and billiard rooms, wood chopper, junk dealer, bicycle repairer, photographer, if possible proprietor caught greasing a carriage, smelter operator, baggageman, employe of express company, telephone girl (operator), bricklayer, carpenter, plasterer, coal hauler, hod carrier, clothing manufacturer, painter, barber, two laundrymen (one a Chinaman), clubmen engaged about the club rooms. Many names of cigar dealers, druggists and pool room proprietors were taken. But this number by no means represents the number who worked or who may be fined for violating the law yesterday. No man, woman or child knows how many names were taken nor how many people were taking them, and if the court holds these distinguished by representing the army of Sunday law violators, everyone may be called to answer to the law.

AS FIELDS VIEWS IT.

Charles E. Fields, editor of the Protector, who made the demand for absolute Sunday law enforcement, said after the first day of closing was over: "Every person who violated the law yesterday may be fined. And they will be subject to another fine if they open their places of business next Monday. This means business if it means anything, and those whose names were taken will not be the only ones who will suffer. My four detectives only worked at the drug store. From what they report Chief Donahue and his men certainly must have impressed with great force the weight of the law on the minds of the druggists. For while they kept on their stores, it was next to impossible to buy anything without a physician's prescription. Such a thing as getting whisky was out of the question, and even a bar of soap could scarcely be bought without a piece of paper from a doctor. Three or four did sell candy."

THOMAS CURE ONLY FOR SALOONS.

Elmer E. Thomas, Civic Federation and Anti-Saloon league attorney, remained at his home in Dundee yesterday. He did not even go to the trouble of coming down to the city. When called up by telephone he said: "I am not interested in the Sunday closing. My work is confined to the saloons. The action of Mr. Fields is entirely a retaliatory measure, and the Anti-Saloon league will do more now than ever to compel public officers to enforce the saloon laws rigidly." If any class of business was unrepresented among the Sunday law violators I

Blue laws and blue coats did not give Omaha a gray Sunday yesterday and the desires of the people (barring a thirst) were promptly met. But if the "test" cases go against those who have been listed by the police and it is decided they must pay fines for violation of the Sunday law, more than 2,000 citizens of Omaha will be arrested and fined. The minimum revenues to the city from the fines will be $10,000 and the maximum $30,000. Only one actual arrest was made by the police. John Kwelesnyk, a boy 15 years of age, was caught in a cold-blooded act of shooting at an inanimate target in his own backyard at 1209 William street with a 22-caliber rifle. He was ruthlessly grabbed by the police and hurried to the station, searched and sixteen Fiorelli cartridges recovered. He was charged with Sunday law violation and released on a bond fixed at $100 and signed by a downtown printer for whom he works. Young Kwelesnyk comes under the section against "sporting, rioting, quarreling, hunting, fishing or shooting," and he may be fined $20 or sent to jail for twenty days, "or both at the discretion of the court."

LIST OF THE VICTIMS.

One each of the men engaged in the following lines of business were reported from the police captain for the purpose of making out complaints Monday: Automobile garage, passenger elevator conductor, milkman, cigar stand, drug, pool room, bowling alley and names of those caught playing in bowling alleys and billiard rooms, wood chopper, junk dealer, bicycle repairer, photographer, if possible proprietor caught greasing a carriage, smelter operator, baggageman, employe of express company, telephone girl (operator), bricklayer, carpenter, plasterer, coal hauler, hod carrier, clothing manufacturer, painter, barber, two laundrymen (one a Chinaman), clubmen engaged about the club rooms. Many names of cigar dealers, druggists and pool room proprietors were taken. But this number by no means represents the number who worked or who may be fined for violating the law yesterday. No man, woman or child knows how many names were taken nor how many people were taking them, and if the court holds these distinguished by representing the army of Sunday law violators, everyone may be called to answer to the law.

AS FIELDS VIEWS IT.

Charles E. Fields, editor of the Protector, who made the demand for absolute Sunday law enforcement, said after the first day of closing was over: "Every person who violated the law yesterday may be fined. And they will be subject to another fine if they open their places of business next Monday. This means business if it means anything, and those whose names were taken will not be the only ones who will suffer. My four detectives only worked at the drug store. From what they report Chief Donahue and his men certainly must have impressed with great force the weight of the law on the minds of the druggists. For while they kept on their stores, it was next to impossible to buy anything without a physician's prescription. Such a thing as getting whisky was out of the question, and even a bar of soap could scarcely be bought without a piece of paper from a doctor. Three or four did sell candy."
