BONFILS REFUSES TO PLEAD Former Senator Patterson Tells Story of Assault and Court Adjourns

Until Monday.

DENVER, Colo., Dec. 28.-Fred G. Bonals, one of the proprietors of the Denver Post, refused to plead to the complaint charging him with assault and battery apon former Senutor Thomas M. Patterson, principal owner of the Rocky Mounlain News and the Denver Times, in Juslee Thomas Carlon's court yesterday. The thereupon entered a plea of not zuilty and the trial was begun. Mr. Patterson related the circumstances of the attack upon him and before his examination was finished the hearing was idiourned until Monday next.

In a statement to the court Mr. Botom, Mr. Bonfils' attorney, declared his lient was justified in assaulting Mr. Paterem as his newspapers had made false charges of blackmalling against Mr. Bonils and stated that he should be sent to penitentlary or driven out of town. Mr. Bottom asked Mr. Patterson to name specific instances of the blackmailing of which he accused the proprietor of the The attorneys for the prosecution objected to this question, but their object ion was overruled. Mr. Patterson then rave the names of several merchants who said, in his opinion had been accentled by the Post in order to force them to adertise in that newspaper.

First Bird to the Arena.

Sunday morning about 2 o'clock an express wagon drove up to the Auditorium with the first arrival of thoroughbred chickens for the big poultry and pet stock show which begins this evening and will continue all week. The shipment was from Jones Bros. of Guthrie Center, Ia. and the consignment consisted of three coops of very fine Rhode Island Reds-seven hens and three

Hardly had the first coop been de posited on the floor of the Auditorium when the big rooster stretched his head up as high as he could and began to erow in a clear, boastful voice, which seemed to say that he was proud of the fact that he was the first male bird to arrive. He kept it up for at least ten minutes, while the men engaged in arranging the show stood and laughed at he beastful bird and admired his plumm and voice.

oday will be a day of hurry and huatle get everything in shape for the opening night. Crates of poultry will be ar riving by every train and dogs will be coming from all directions, but the man agers believe that the show will be in pretty fine shape for visitors by 7:30 tonight when the doors will be opened. Jan Kuebellk, world's greatest violinist. arrived with his party in Omaha from New York in his private car, Oceanic, on the Rock Island yesterday afternoon at i around Union station for a few minutes following their dinner, and were met by a number of local Bohemians. On account of a misunderstanding as to the hour of arrival many missed seeing the great violinist. Arrangements had been made to take them on a sightseeing tour over the city, but Herr Kubelik had not slept well and needed rest for the concert of the evening. Frau Kubelik, however, and several others in the party accepted the invitation and were taken to a number of points of interest and met a number of people. Kubelik spent the time sleeping in his car. When a reporter for The Bee called at the private car late in the afternoon Herr Kubelik had just awakened from a two

But the pictures can't show his affable manner nor his quiet, but hearty, laugh. He talks excelient English, though, of course, with some accent. He is entirely free from those eccentricities and caprices which mar the agreeableness of many great artists. Herr Kubelik sat on the arm of a green phish chair while he talked.

The virtuoso's gurgling laugh rippled through the little room as he asked this question. Suddenly becoming serious again e resumed:

"I much prefer it to leaving the train at each place and going to a hotel. Here we have our meals regularly and the cooking is good, very good. My heartlest meal is at 6 o'clock.

'Among the disadvantages I might mention that I cannot play as much as I like because the shaking of the carriage while the train is moving prevents it. It would be, certainly, pleasant for parents, but would not do for the children. No, we must endure the separation. We will not see them now until September. We go from here to the coast and arrive back in New York in March. Then we sail at once to Australia for a tour there. Then we go home for a time. However, I am never quite satisfied when at home. Always I am looking forward to the next tour. I am not satisfied ex-

WEST POINT HAS A GOOD YEAR Many New Buildings of Substantial

Character Erected, WEST POINT, Neb., Dec. 29 .- (Special.)-West Point and surrounding country has experienced a remarkable growth of new buildings of the best class during the year 1907. In the business portion of the city many new, solidly constructed buildings of brick and stone have been erected notably among which are the new bank building of the West Point National bank, the large double store of the Stieren Jerman-Baumann company, the Gold smith double store, the Kock restaurant, the Stieren store and many extensive alterations and improvements aggregating an actual each investment of $150,000. Resides the above is the new brick factory building of the Nelburg Can company. During the year one of the most notable events has been the rehabilitation and resumption of business of the West Point Creamery and Butter company, which took over the entire expensive plant of the old creamery company idle for the last ten years, and which at one time was the chief industry of this section of the state.- In the residence portion of West Point a number of fine, modern residences have been built and in the farming region in the immediate vicinity trips very well. These things are, to a great extent, the result of habit. I can be be be seen and because and bec barns have been put up. More and cost-Her improvements have been made in the year 1907 in this section than in any previous year of its history.

FATHER AND SON PROVE ALIBI

Inquest Over Mrs. Frank Smith Upacts

One Theory. MILFORD, Neb., Dec. 29.-(Special.)-The inquest over the body of Mrs. Frank Smith is attended by people from Beaver Crossing, Friend, Dorchester and other surrounding towns. Many witnesses were examined vesterday before the coroner's jury, but the theory assumed by the jury that the father or son might possess information that would throw light on the subject was apparently exploded by proof that both were absent from the farm when the deed was probably perpetrated. The jury will reconvene at the pleasure of County Attorney McKelly, who has been suffering, from a severe attack of the grip.

Two Youthful Burglars.

STOCKVILLE, Neb., Dec. 29.-(Special.)-The burglars who broke into the Ralph Peterson hardware store at Maywood, Christmas eve, were arrested by Constable W. B. Martin and brought before County Judge Williams Saturday. They proved to be Harry Dauber, aged 15, and John Kirk, aged 16 years, living twelve miles south of Maywood. It appears they came to Maywood horseback Christmas eve, broke in a back window of the store and took away ammunition for shotguns and rifles and a collection of cutlery and jewelry amounting to about $70. After the boys left the store they cut all telephone wires on lines father, who is dead and from whom he going south to stop communication, and returned to the place where they were staying. Young Dauber has been shifting for himself for some years although only 16. The parents of young Kirk are in Oklahoma at present. Part of the goods were found at the house where they were staying. The boys both admitted breaking in and taking everything which has been discovered, but denied taking the jewelry and cutiery, which has not as yet been found. They were both sentenced to the Industrial School at Kearney.

Their Relation to People.

ADVISES PROVISION FOR THEM

Imperative Tenditions Place Limitstions on Occupation that Holders of Great Office May

Pursue. NEW YORK, Dec. 22 - Ex-President

Grover Cleveland, under the Utle of "Our People and Their ex-Presidents," has contributed an interesting article to the Youth's Companion for January 5. ferring to the poverty of Jefferson after e left the presidency as a blow to national pride, Mr. Cleveland declares definite and generous provision should be made for the maintenance of chief magistrates at the end of their terms. He deals with the subject at length and explains that he feels owing the substantial feed, the most he can do so without his sincerity being

"The condition is by no means met, Mr. Cleveland writes, "by the meager and spasmodic relief occasionally furnished under the guise of a military pension or some other pretext, nor would it be best met by making compensation dependent upon the discharge of senatorial or other duty. Our people ought to make a definite and generous provision for all cases alike, based on motives of justice and fairness and adequate to the situation.'

Mr. Cleveland describes the limitations that his former high office place on a retired president in his choice of occupation and means of livelihood and how popular conception of him as a repository of national dignity enforce a scale of living that may not be within his private means "There is a sort of vague, but none the less imperative, feeling abroad in the land," says Mr. Cleveland, "that one who has occupied the great office of president song the banqueters thronged around the holds in trust for his fellow citizens a guest of honor to extend their wishes for certain dignity which in his conduct and manner of life he is bound to protect against loss or deterioration. Obedience to this obligation preseribes for him only such work as in popular judgment is not undignified. This suggests without argument reciprocal connection between the curtailment of opportunities and the curtailment of a teasonable indemnification on the other.'

Woes of ex-Presidents.

One division of the Cleveland article is devoted to the "occupations of an expresident," and in it the former president reveals the multiplicity of things which persons endeavor to bring to the attention of the retired statesman and the manner of affairs he is asked to en gage in.

"He is deluged with books," Mr. Cleveland says, "most of them indifferent or positively worthless and these he is expected to read and commend for advertising purposes. He is made a target for all sorts of pecuniary solicitation, embracing all sorts of objects, ranging from large endowsient funds and disinterested owners of fabulously profitable investments to pathetic and depressing appeals for the relief of individual dis-

"He is almost daily importuned to join n the management of public or semipublic enterprises which profess to be useful or beneficial or charitable. He is persistently urged to make addresses on topics and for purposes that are bewildering and at times and places that are impossible. His daily mall furnishes con-clusive evidence that he is not overlooked by any class or condition of our people in any corner of the land and the visitors he receives forbids the reflection that Mayer he is only a 'melancholy product' of our governmental system.

"It is most gratifying to note the lives of our ex-presidents are made grateful and bright by the generous attachment and spontaneous kindness manifested toward them by their fellow countrymen.

BARTNETT THE REAL HEAD District Attorney Says Statement that He Knew Nothing of Trust's Affairs is Untrue.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 29,-"The claim made by Walter J. Bartnett that he had no active part in the management of the California Safe Deposit & Trust company is absolutely untrue," said Assistant District Attorney William Hoff Cook, who has had charge of the investigation into the affairs of the insolvent bank. "Bartnett, not Brown, as is generally supposed, was the 'big stick' in the bank," declared the assistant district attorney. "Bartnett was vice president of the company, and my investigation has disclosed that it was he and not Brown who was the active head of the institution. There was little done that was not first passed up to Bart-

nett for his approval." Cook reiterated that the stocks belonging to the Colton estate alleged to have been found in the vaults of the bank yesterday were not a part of the missing securities. "The stocks referred to were never lost or found. We know where they were and what they were," said he. The assistant district attorney denied the reports that Bartnett and Davis F. Walker, president of the insolvent trust company would be given immunity.

SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 29.—(Special.)—
Johnny R. Bender, the popular little coach of the Washington State college team, who developed the gridiron machine which trailed the colors of the University of St. Louis in the dust at Natatorium park, Spokane, Christmas day by the score of 11 to 0, is going to branch out as a physician, probably returning to Nebraska when he leaves Pullman early in 1998.

The students and faculty are satisfied with Bender's work and he is in turn well satisfied with the college. But he says he can not stlek to that work forever to the detriment of other things. He secured his A. B. degree at the University of Nebraska, and while coaching the athletic teams of the Washington State college he has secured as M. A. However, Bender started to become a physician, and he intends to continue his studies in the medical profession. He said:

"I don't expect to be with the Washington State college next year. It is not—that I don't like the college or the students, for I do. The spirit in Pullman is the best and I have enjoyed my work there a great deal. But I want to continue my medical studies and in order to do this I will have to sever my connection with the college.

"I have not definitely selected my college as yet, but I am dickering with the University of Nebraska to take up medical work there and act as assistant coach of foot ball."

TROUBLE OVER THE UNIFORM

Junction City Skating Rink Manager Brings Wrath of Soldiers.

CAUSES MUCH BITTER COMMENT

Cold Weather Brings Recruits and Many Men Enlist at Port Riley -Glassford-Carleton

FORT RILEY. Kan., Dec. 23.—(Special.)

—For the past week there have been rumors in circulation that there was a serious disagreement between Junction City and Fort Riley on the subject of net admitting soldiers in uniform to the skating rink; also the refusal to admit soldiers in civilian clothes to public dances where ne invitations were issued. The matter is one that has been agitated off and on for years, but it was not until the present that the subject has so claimed the sitention of both the garrison and the city.

he city. It seems that in the past few weeks, on different occasions and especially on Thankagiving night, soldiers in civilian clothes have sought admission to a dance to which no invitations were lissued and to which an admission of fifty cents was to which an admission of fitty control of the charged, and were refused admission. On many occasions soldiers in uniform tried to get in the city skating rink and were likewise refused skates. The matwere likewise refused skates. The matter was very naturally talked over among the soldiers of the garrison, particularly the members of the Seventh cavalry, who finally consulted with some of their officers. The bone of contention seemed to be the skating rink and to ascertain if the statements of the enlisted men were correct, three officers in uniform visited the skating rink one evening last week and sought admission with the same result attained by the enlisted men. The officers were intignant and immediately sought of the proprietors of the rink their reason for such exclusion. They were informed that if soldiers were admitted to the floor in uniform that the They were informed that it soldiers were admitted to the floor in uniform that the patronage of the rink by the people of the town would be so injured that it would be impossible to carry on the business without suffering a heavy financial loss. The proprietors further stated that there was no objection to enlisted men skating in civilian clothes. This is a fact, skaing in civilian clothes. This is a fact, for no matter how dirty or ragged the civilian clothing of a man may be, his money is readily secepted. They frankly admitted there was a prejudice against the wearer of the uniform existing in the city; at least it was so understood by the officers.

Very naturally the matter engendered general discussion in the garrison among officers and men, and as a result it was decided amongst the officers, as well as the men, that something must be done, if possible, to change the unfavorable opinion that was evidently so prevalent. For a time it was thought that a boycott would be organized in the post, and this caused considerable excitement in town. The officers met the business men and stated to them that although the boycott business. ficers met the business men and stated to them that although the boycott business was unfounded, still deep feeling of resentment among the officers and men was very prevalent, and the co-operation of the business men was asked for to change the present unpopular cendition of affairs. The officers stated to the merchants that the feeling was so great that the indevidual members of the garrison would refuse to visit or trade in the city. On Tuesday afternoon the Commercial club held a day afternoon the Commercial club held a special meeting and a committee was ap-pointed to look into the matter and to handle it in the wisest possible manner. Whether they can see their way clear to give up the garrison's patronage (both officers and man) is necessarily give up the garrison's patronage (both officers and men) in preference to opening the skating rink for the uniform is not known. Nothing as yet has been done and it is the belief of the people of Junction City that the case will soon be given up on the part of the officers.

It is realized in the post that it is the disreputable soldiers who have brought discredit upon the uniform and created the unfavorable sentiment.

The post school for enlisted men, which has been opened for the last month, is in the charge of Chaplain Charles M. Brewer, Sixth field artillery. He has two able assistants in the persons of Post Sergeant Major Napier and Squadron Sergeant Major Clark, both of the Seventh cavairy. The school is held during the evening from $150 to $5 o'clock and about fifty pupils are in attendance.

This time he arrived with thirty-four for the artillery and eight for the cavalry. He returned to Fort Slocum the next day.

The Commercial club of Junction City, Kan., has decided to try and purchase the skating rink in tewn and open the same for soldiers and civilians alike, as long as they are orderly. If this is accomplished and a soldier in uniform goes to the place and causes any disturbance it is the duty of all other soldiers to punish him in a manner he will not forget for some time to come.

Fort Riley won the first basket ball game of the season with an outside team the evening of the 18th inst., by a score of 20 to 18. Clay Center High school soon fousd that the soldiers were entirely too fast for them and, although they tried their beat to win the game, the score at the end of the first half stood 20 to 4 in favor of Fort Riley. The last half of the game the soldiers gave them a chance to even up the score, but they were unable to make it very interesting. Dancing followed the game.

The Erading of the long sidetrack at the Union Pacific station at Fort Riley, which will connect the main line with the storehouses in the post, is nearing completion. The new granary, which is alongside this new piece of track, is about three-fourths completed and will be turned over to the constructing quartermaster within the next few weeks. This granary, when completed, will hold grain enough to last the garrison for many months and will make if possible for the government to contract for grain at times when the prices are desirable. The new granary error to get it to the storehouses.

William C. Moore, civil service messenger, reported for duty at the adjutant general's office Tuesday morning of last week for duty at these headquarters. He was recently transferred from the postoffice department at Oklahoma City to this post. Mr. Moore's home is in Oklahoma City. Okl. Captain Guy V. Henry, Twelfth cavalry, on duty in the school of equitation at this post, has been detailed member of the cavalry board.

Since the cold weather set in recruits have become more plantiful, and on Monday of this week seventy-six arrived from Columbus barracks. Obio, ten of which were for the stillery and the remainder for the cavalry. On Christmas day First Lieutenant John A. Pearson, Seventh cavalry, who is on recruiting service at Fort Shocum. N. Y. arrived in charge of a detachment of eighty recruits. Lieutenant Pearson will return to Fort Shocum the first of next week. The Seventh cavalry now han a strength of 890 men, while the Sixth field artillery has but 523.

The marriage of Lieutenant Peham D. Glassford, son of Colonel Glassford, and Miss Cora Carleton, daughter of Major Carleton, who were stationed at Fort Riley until recently, when they were transferred to Fort Meade, S. D., was celebrated Christmas evening at the post chapel. At 6 o'clock the bridal party entered the chapel, praceded by Lieutenant Hoyle and Lewis, who took their places at the steps of the chancel. They were immediately followed by Mrs. McNair, as matron of honor, escorted by Lieutenant Pennel and Miss Zula Gaddis of Ban Antonio. UNION MAKES FINAL APPEAU

California Labor Union Takes Injune tion Case to United States Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.-A petition for writ of certiorari in the case of the Sailors' Union of Pacific and the Pacific Marine Firemen's union against the Hammond Lumber company of California was filed yesterday in supreme court of the United States. The case involves the right of discharged union employes to interfere with the operation of a business enterprise. The sult was instituted by the lumber company, which, having had trouble with its employes who were members of a union, asked the United States circuit court for the northern district of California to entoin the union, of which the discharged men were members, from interfering with the conduct of its business, and the prayer was promptly granted by Judge Morrow sitting in that court. When the union appealed As to the United States circuit court of for the Ninth district the verdict of the court below was approved and the union now asks the supreme court of the United States to bring the case into that court for review.
