

INSURANCE LOANS RESUMED

Life Companies After Ninety Days Re-Enter the Field.

START IN FIRST OF FEBRUARY

Building and Loan Concerns Announced Their Purpose of Getting Back to Normal Basis in This Also.

Life insurance companies which abandoned money days ago they were not in a position to continue making loans on city property, have notified agents in Omaha they will again be in a position to consider applications for Omaha city loans after February 1.

Thomas Brennan, financial representative of a number of the large companies, received notice Saturday that loans would be resumed and it is predicted that mortgage money will be as easy as during the summer of last year, when large amounts of money were loaned in Omaha by the insurance companies.

The announcement is important to real estate dealers of Omaha, as many deals have been held up because of the impossibility of the mortgage money market.

The building and loan association of Omaha has given notice that loans will be resumed, and during the last week has loaned $80,000 in small amounts on Omaha property.

Others Will Follow.

Other companies probably will resume loans about the time the insurance companies enter the market for the business. One company has money contracted for so far ahead that it will not make new loans until the middle of March. At the time the "bid" went on the banks October 27, this company had $25,000 promised to holders, and no building has been regarded as the company has been able to supply the cash as fast as it was needed to pay workmen and buy material, but it could not have been all furnished at once.

Again the improving condition of business in Omaha is shown by the bank clearing, which shows an increase of 18 per cent for the week ending Thursday, January 18. The only other cities of importance in the west which showed an increase were Kansas City, 4 per cent; Minneapolis, 7 per cent; and St. Paul, 5 per cent. The eastern cities continue to show decreases. The prediction of Omahans that the cities which had "nothing behind them," as Los Angeles and Colorado Springs, would show a big falling off in business, made good when the report for the week showed that the Los Angeles clearings decreased 35 per cent as compared to the same week last year.

LAWSUITS OVER SMALL SUMS

Vital Principles Often Involved Where Amount at Stake Seems Trifling.

A Georgia railroad and one of its patrons have got as far as the supreme court of that state with a lawsuit in which the sum of money at issue is $10 cents, but there is a principle involved which both sides are determined shall be settled for all time.

In Atlanta, as in most cities south of New England, one cannot enter a train without exhibiting a ticket and having it checked at the gates. An Atlanta man who had a woman with a good deal of hand baggage bought a ticket in the nearest station beyond at the price named. It was stamped "redeemable if not used." The purchaser before leaving the station presented it for redemption, but this was refused. He then went to the local court, which decided in his favor. The railroad company then appealed to a higher court, on the ground that in his purchase of the ticket he had intended to enter into a contract and his purpose was to defraud.

Again the purchaser obtained a judgment and the case is now before the supreme court of Georgia. The principle of the plaintiff is that the railroad had no right to question his motives when he presented the ticket for redemption and that of the railroad company is that the existence of the rate system is at issue.

Highly important decisions have been based on issues involving very small money considerations. The supreme court of the United States last winter gave a good deal of time and research to a cause carried before it on appeal involving only $24. A railroad was, in this case, the defendant. It owed one of its employees, a train hand, this sum, which was attached and collected by one of his creditors. The employee contended that the money was still due him and carried the case up to the highest tribunal in the land.

Our own famous Chief Justice Shaw wrote one of his most luminous explications of legal principles in deciding a case which turned on the ownership of a bull calf. It is related that the bar sneered at the frequent repetition of the phrase, "the said bull calf," and the chief justice rebuked the laughing lawyers by saying: "Gentlemen, you do not refer what a bull calf may be to a very poor family."

Robert Browning went to law over the value of one bottle of wine, on the great claim that he would not be swindled for half a crown if he could help it. The "kicker" is often the subject of ridicule, but kickers have helped the world along a good deal. Given a great scenic environment and the "kicker" becomes a historical personage of the first class. John Hampden should never have "felt" the amount of "ship money" assessed on his estate.—Boston Transcript.
