For certainly Boyle's College would not have been selected an official training school (after an inspection of all the telegraphy schools all over the country conducted by the leading officials of the Union Pacific railroad), and surely the great Union Pacific railroad would not have gone to the great expense of running its dispatcher's wire into our tele-graphy department and furnishing it with all necessary blanks for the mastery of station work, and surely the Union Pa-cific railroad would not have detailed one of its telegraphy chiefs to supervise our course and add to our equipment if the Union Pacific railroad was not absolutely sure that it could heartly recommend students to gain their training as telegraphors at Boyle's College.

Furthermore, the Union Pacific railroad absolutely guarantees to give employment to each and every Boyle's College graduate who desires a position with that company.

Now, where on earth has any young person any excuse for not becoming a telegrapher? egrapher?
Send for our Special Telegraphy Book-let. Ask for any and every kind of proof that might convince you of the truth, which is, that Boyle's Telegraphy College is today in a class by itself and that the graduates of Boyle's College are in a class by themselves.
