Training School for Saleswomen Conducted by Boston Club Women.

PRACTICAL METHODS EMPLOYED

Clarkson Memorial Hospital Association Will Plan for Raising Funds -Home for Newsboys Practienlly Assured.

One of the unique institutions that had grown out of the club movement is the chool for saleswomen conducted by the Women's Educational and Industrial union f Boston. Lucinda W. Prince gives an utline of the plan of work as fellows in he February Bulletin:

the February Bulletin:

In general the plan was to develop those qualities which would enable the pupils to succeed as saleswomen. What these qualities were was determined in two ways:

(i) by personal investigation of the needs of the average untrained salesgirls in stores;

(2) by conference with superintendents as to qualifications essential to buccess. As a result, the first general aim resolved itself into this fourfold, more definite aim:

(i) to teach right thinking toward the work as a profession and rouse, a feeling of responsibility;

(2) to develop a pleasing personality;

(3) to instill a regard for system and cultivate habit of attention to details;

(4) to instruct in those subjects which increase knowledge of goods to be sold.

The actual working out of the plan for co-operation with the stores showed conclusively that more store experience was sessential for the best results. Accordingly after consultation with the advisory committee the time schedule was changed so that every day from $130 to 11 and $130 to 530 the pupils were in the school and the rest of the day in the stores. For this half-time work $3 a week was paid by the stores.

The subjects taught have been the nat-Palace Clothing Co. Watch for date of Mayne and other real astate boomers were at work in Omahas and to boost their outside property they hired brass bands. Smith took the same method to boost his dry goods business. He had a band stationed in front of his store to attract a crowd and boost his business. He left Omaha in June, 1885.

Loyal L. Smith's career in Wall street was unique and his methods, dictated by his satiring disposition, were out of the ordinary. He was classed as a "member of the Chicago crowd," which included John W. Gates, Isaac Elwood, John A. Drake

(2) To become familiar with the general sudy of store—sales slip right attitude toward the work—the whole course.

The selling classes are conducted like the teaching lessons in normal schools. Real customers, chosen because they represent different types, buy real articles. The sale is watched by the class, notes being taken of strong and weak points. When the sale is finished, the one who has made the sale is allowed to criticise her own work, then the class criticises, the customer tells why she did or did not buy the article, and the whole is summed up by the director. These demonstrations, the discussions of store experience, observations in other stores and actual selling with thought awaken the class to the difference between handling goods over the counter and really serving the customer. J. J. Jones a young man from some point in the Atlantic states, sought out United States Marshal Warner Thursday morning and wanted to give himself up as a deserter from the United States Marine service. The matter was referred to the judge advocate of the Department of the Missouri and by him referred to the United States naval re cruiting depot in the federal building. Only a day or two ago, Jones appeared at the naval recruiting station and claimed he had been but recently discharged from the navy and wanted to re-callst. As he could not tell a connected story of his naval experiences the application was turned down and Mr. Jones had to seek other pastures to reconnect himself with the navy. When he appeared before the naval recruiting officials Thursday morning they recognized him as the same individual who sought enlistment and did not take his story of alleged desertion from the marines seriously. However, the naval bureau at Washington will be notified of Mr. Jones' contrition and he was asked to report Saturday to the naval officer to see what may be done. Jones did not relish the prospect of any delay but the naval officials

FREMONT WINS ON CONTRACT

City is Given Decision Over Joseph W. Turner in United States Court.

Judge W. H. Munger handed down a memoranda opinion in the United States circuit court Tuesday morning in which he decides for the city of Fremont against Joseph W. Turner, a paving contractor, in the matter of the forfeiture of a check deposited with the city in earnest of the fulfillment of a contact.

Turner was the successful bidder for paving contracts in two of the paving districts of that city and the contract was awarded to him. Pursuant to the usual custom Turner was required to deposit a check for $2,100 for the faithful performance of the contract. The contract was submitted to Turner by the city for signature. He refused to sign it and submitted one of his own. This the city refused to agree to and declared the contract with Turner void because of his refusal and also declared the

The contract was then let to the next lowest bidder. Turner at once brought suit for the recovery of the check for $2,100 and sought to enjoin its payment.

The court holds that a check deposited under these circumstances is either for penalty or liquidation of damages, and from the further fact that the next lowest bid was about $2,500 in excess of Turner's bid Saturday morning, February 22, at 10:30 Turner is therefore dismissed for want of equity and the plaintiff cannot recover damages.
