reductions to be made in the traffic departments.

Mr. Stubbe has been in San Francisco. Portland and Sait Lake City. He is not saying anything, but the reports preceding him show he is looking around a whole lot with a view of deciding where to swing his axe. If these reports are true, his visit will be felt more than on any former occa-

Julius Kruttschnitt, head of operation stated to The Bee Friday that he had been compelled to cut off thousands of men to this time few cuts have been made in

It is suggested reductions are to be made wherever practical and Mr. Stubbs is going over the lines to see where these are practical, if at all. Mr. Stubbs occupies a high position in the Harriman official family and his word goes a long ways. What his impression is of the situation may not be learned until he returns to Chicago, as it is reported in advance he is saying very little of what he finds along the route. Some have had good cause to tremble, as Mr. Stifbbs has left a trall of heads in his wake through California, and whether he will flink better of his plan and stop his decapitation when he reaches Omaha is the perplexing question.

Best Way in Which to Maintain Pence, He Says, at Manchester Banquet,

Major Church Howe, a former Nebraskan, but now American consul to Manchester, England, at a recent peace meeting in that English city, where the amity of nations was discussed, defended the building of warships and advised Brother Jonathan in times of peace to be prepared for war, and not to disband his armies simply because a few weak-hearted men say, with General Sherman, that "war is hell." The Manchester papers speak highly of Major Howe how many ships you may build so long as you must have them-so long as it prevents my brothers and friends from being taken to the battlefield and slaughtered. The Manchester Courier has the following to say of the American consul's part in the meeting: "The American consul, Major Church Howe, speaking as a soldier who had seen active service, said that only the previous evening he was a guest of the Chamber of Commerce of Sheffield, with General because of the decrease in business, but up French, who outlined the policy of reorganization and pleaded with the young men to come forward to forward the scheme. While he was an advocate of peace, he thought they should be prepared for war. As things were arranged today and until they could have an understanding with various nations, the only way for peace was to be prepared for war. Neither England or America were going to burn up their ships because a few people met there and said, with General Sherman, 'war is hell.' He, however, admitted that the organization was doing a great and noble work." Other speakers, men of local English fame, denounced war and spoke strongly in favor of a strict peace program at all times, Lord Weardale, the leading speaker, saying that "in the future it would be the lemocracies of the world who would see that the peace was not broken, and law and justice would regulate the affairs of nations as they did at present of individuals." The "Dreadnaught" policy was censured and the limitation of armaments was favored. Major Howe, therefore, stood practically alone on the other side in advocating the keeping of armaments up to a high standard and to at all times be in a position to meet a possible breach with a foreign power. From the English press it is gleaned that the American had the crowd with him, nevertheless, and he was highly com-

NEWS OF THE ARMY POSTS Annual Target Practice for Troops Will Be Held at Fort Hiley.

FORT RILEY, Kan., March 14.—(Special.)
—It has practically been arranged that the troops from Fort Leavenworth and Fort Des Moines shall come to this post for their annual target practice this year. The arrangement of the schedule so that it will be troops at this post. rangement of the schedule so that it will not interfere with the troops at this post has not been entirely accomplished, but it is already known that the Thirteenth in-fantry from Fort Leavenworth will leave that post March 20 and by marching arrive at this post in time to begin practice on April 1 will arrive about the middle of one and ocupy the ranges until the latter part of July. In case they wait until after our troops have finished, they will arrive about the latter part of August, in time to engage in the maneuvers on September 1. In either case, they will remain for the maneuvers.

This means that about 2,000 troops in addition to the regular garrison will be sta-tioned on the reservation for several months and until after the fall maneuvers. The troops from Fort Des Moines will probably march but one way. As April weather is more than often inclement, long shelter sheds will be built at the firing points of both ranges. Bids have already been ad-vertised for for them and the work will mmence within the next week or ten

Acting First Sergeant Jerome M. Howard of Troop C. Seventh cavalry, was thrown from his horse while riding in Junction City, Kan., four miles from the post, Sunday afternoon, and sustained injuries from which he died at the post hospital a few hours later. Howard and Trumpeter Rafferty of the same troop were on mounted pass and while riding past the high school grounds the former's horse commenced to pitch with him and ran under the limb of a large tree. The soldier hit the limb with such force that it wrapped him around the limb, caving in his chest, breaking five ribs. His head struck the trunk of the tree crushing the skull, causing a clot of blood on the brain, from which he died. This was at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and he was taken to a nearby house and the city physician summoned, who examined his injuries. Howard was taken to the hospital, where he died a few minutes after arrival. He never came out of his stupor, His people were immediately wired of his death and the post authorities were requested to have the body expressed to his home in Cairo, Ill. The members of his troop made up a fund of 11% for flowers and other expenses and the body was sent home Wednesday morning, March. Il. Sergeant Howard was a very popular young man in the post and his death was a great and other expenses and the body was sent home Wednesday morning, March.Il. Sergeant Howard was a very popular young man in the post and his death was a great shock to the officers, who knew him as well as the enlisted men. He was on his first enlistment and would have been discharged May 12 of this year.

A detachment of 117 recruits for the Sixth field artillery arrived at the post Tuosday afternoon from Jofferson barracks. This leaves a vacancy of 156 men in the artillery. To fill the Seventh cavalry 215 men are needed at present and fifty-nine more will be discharged the fifth of this month. It is not expected that over half a dozen of the latter will re-enlist for this post, although quite a number of them have stated that they would take on for other posts. Captain Dallam will pay the command Saturday the 14th and lay over and cash the final statements of these men on Sunday.

Captain M. J. McDonough of the engineer corps and his detachment of sixteen men arrived at the post Saturday afternoon. The instruction of officers and troops at this post in blowing up of intrenchments, buildings, trees, etc., will begin on Thursday and will be continued until March 21. Some of the work will be on the spectacular order and will be well worth seeing.

"The Blood is The Life."

Science has never gone beyond the above simple statement of scripture. But it has illuminated that statement and given it a meaning ever broadening with the increasing breadth of knowledge. Satisfactory Results of Experimental Treatment in New York Hospital.

Open-air treatment of victims of pneumonia on a large scale is one of the innovations carried on in the Presbyterian hospital in New York City. On the roof the building, on fron bedsteads, a score of patients, their pallid faces upturned to the winter sky, lay here and there, their breath frosted by the keen wind, and the failing light of the bleak winter day giving an aspect of utter dreariness to the wind-swept space.

To the common mind pneumonia is associated with warm rooms protected from every draught, with efforts to keep the temperature equable and to shield the patient from any inrush of cold air. Yet here were pneumonia patients, many of tender years, exposed to every wintry blast that blew; no roof overhead, only an awning that could be slid over rods in case of rain or sleet or snow. It seemed barbaric. The doctor said that it was only revolutionary. He is Dr. William P. WOOD'S HOLE, Mass., March 14.-A stml larity between the fog signal on the new Hen and Chickens lightship and that or the Vineyard Sound lightship is said to have been the cause of the grounding of the British steamer Silvia from New York for Halifax, N. S., and St. Johns, N. F., on the Sow and Pigs reef at the entrance to Vineyard Sound, just before daylight today. The thirty-five passengers on the Silvia, among whom were the crew of the wrecked schooner Beta, expressed themselves as willing to remain on the stranded steamer until the tug Orion, which was also bound east, made a trip to this port for help. Arrangements were made, howthem off this noon and send them to Boston. At the time of the accident there was thick fog, but the sea was smooth and there was scarcely any wind. The fog cleared later in the day. The Silvia grounded within a short distance of the scene of the wreck of the steamer Fairfax in November, 1888, and it was the opinion of mariners of this place that she would have considerable difficulty in extricating herself.
