The Simple Case of Susan

Susan was thoughtfully nibbling a biscuit Tortoni, in one corner of a Broadway confectionery shop, when the door opened and a young man entered. From this point the case is not perfectly simple.

It is a story of smart society, of quite adorable feminine persons, of officers in uniform, of the richest girl in New York and an elopement, in which the very man most averse to it assists. This story starts in the current issue of THE SATURDAY EVENING POST, and is by Jacques Futrelle, the author of "The Chase of the Golden Plate."

If you were the daughter of a very rich man, and if a young sociologist, looking for copy, should enter your family as butler, and if he should write a scorching article about your family in a popular magazine would you marry him? Would the fact that you were in love with him have anything to do with it? This is the theme of the story, "Doris Has Her Way," by Bert Leston Taylor.

OWNED BY THE GOVERNMENT Uncle Sam Has Many More Utilities Than is Generally Sunposed.

In the discussion of the policy of government ownership of public utilities some participants seem to neglect completely one of the most interesting features of the subject—the extent to which the national government is already engaged in such activities. No one citizen in a thousand probably is aware that the government at Washington has already become the owner and operator of transportation lines, systems of communication and even more purely commercial establish-ments. Still less is the general public aware of the extent, importance and value of these governmental undertakings. Nevertheless, it is a fact that Uncle Sam is today the owner and manager of thousands of miles of cable, telegraph and telephone lines; that he owns and operates a busy railway system and an ocean steamship line; that he is already conducting a postal savings system, and that even cold storage plants, slaughter houses, artificial ice works and distilling plants are among the enterprises under his management, not to mention farms and tenement nouses, stores, sawmills, sanitariums, hospitals, libraries and most remarkable of all, a newspaper and a monthly maga-

First among Uncle Sam's business enerprises are the telegraph and cable sysems, of which the most important connect Alaska with the United States and bind together the islands of the Philippine archipelago. The Washington-Alaska cable and telegraph system, built by army officers and operated by the government, is pronounced one of the longest and most intricate of its kind in the world. system, as pointed out by Harold Bolce, in the December Issue of Appleton's magasine, includes the main Seattle-Sitka cable balance of $49,000 remained in the treasury. of 1,672 miles, and the Sitka-Valdez cable would reach across the Atlantic from Newfoundland to Ireland. It was built three years ago at a cost of $1,144,907. Operated in connection with it is a system of land nes binding together the towns and camps of Alaska, of which 1,422 miles are carried through a wilderness where there are neither roads nor trails. Furthermore, these Alaskan communications include the first long wireless telegraph system to be put in commercial operation. It spans the THINK TARVA JUST THE THING distance of 107 miles across Norton sound, where icebergs prevented the laying of a cable. More than a million words a year are transmitted over these lines, which bring in a revenue of $200,000 annually. The government cable and telegraph system in the Philippino islands is even more spart, and there are 378 miles of government telephone lines in the islands. The only ocean steamship line owned and operated by the government connects this city, where it has its office, with the port of Colon, on the Isthmus of Panama. There are five passenger steamers, and the fleet Charles Moran was fined $2 and costs for last year earned $1,347,012 for the government. At Colon the steamship line connects with the Panama railroad, which is also owned and operated by the government, and is one of the busicst railroads in the world. The government's postal savings bank system is conducted in the Philippines, where every postoffice is a savings bank. Postal savings bank stamps are issued and sold in small denominations, and interest is paid at the rate of 214 per cent. The government owns tenement houses in the city and farms in the country, which are rented to the occupants. There are government circulating libraries, government stores and government built systems of railroads in the Islands.

In Porto Rico there is a government built system of roads 805 miles in extent, and there are government owned telegraph and telephone lines.-New York Tribune.

WHERE SOME DOCTORS FAIL Noted Men of Medicine Who Were Unable to Cure Themseniveh.

Dr. William Pepper, in a most interesting paper presented at a recent meeting of the Philadelphia County Medical so ciety, discussed the causes of death of eminent physicians. He stated that Laennec fell a victim to a disease the nature of which he had taken pains to describe. Lancisi and Corvisart died of diseased hearts and Boyle sank under the ravages of the disease of which he had been the most successful illustrator. Sir Benjamin Brodie, the great surgeon, died of cancer of his right shoulder joint. Dupuytren, the most famous surgeon of the last century, died of an empyema. Refusing to submit to an operation, he said that he would rather end his life through God's hand than that of a surgeon." In more recent times Milkulier, who wrote on cancer of the stomach, himself fell a victim to this disease. Fowler of Brooklyn, having written on appendicitis, died of this disease. On the memorial tablet of Dr. Jesse W. Lazear, who died of yellow fever, are the words, "With more than the courage and devotion of the soldier, he risked and lost his life to show how a fearful pestilence is communicated and how its ravages may be prevented." Dr. Gutllotin, the inventor of the guillotine, had his own head chopped off. A number of distinguished physicians have been great sufferers from the gout. Sydenham said: 'More wise men than fools are victims of this affection." Angine pectoris has claimed its share of the medical profession, and in this group may be mentioned the names of Sir James Y. Simpson, Sir Charles Bell and John Hunter. Instances are clied illustrative of Osler's statemen that the profession offers many examples of good work thoroughly and conscientiously carried out by men with aneurism of the aorts. Dr. Thomas King Chambers first had an aneurism in the left poplites artery, eleven years later one in the right leg cured by pressure, and finally ansur-isms of the carotid arteries. Richard Bright died of the consequences of extensive and long-standing ossification of the aortic valves of the heart, the exit for blood being reduced to a mere chink. Robert Liston died of an aneurism of the aorta, which must have existed for years, and been fostered by the great physical exertions which characterized his recreation as well as his work. Another group is given, including those having sufferedfrom apoplexy, and still another and larger group is classified under the heading of miscellaneous.--American Medicine.

extensive, embracing 6,322 miles of land All of the members of the Board of lines and 1,437 miles of cables. There is County Commissioners and the county suranother wireless telegraph system there, veyor will leave next week for a trip to St. Joseph, Kansas City, Chicago and Gary, Ind., to investigate concrete pavements and tarva, a finish for macadam paving. The ommissioners figure the cost of the junket will be about $250 and it will be paid by the county. There are five members of the county board.

The county now has about twenty-five miles of macadam road and the yearly expense of keeping this road in repair is so much that the commissioners figure it will be cheaper either to build concrete roads or put the tarva finish on the macadam. The tarva costs about $500 a mile, the commissioners figured, and in many cities where it has been used it has proven satisfactory, they affirm. On Nineteenth street, near Nicholas, there is about a half block of tarva and, according to the commissioners, this half government slaughter houses, cold storage block is in good condition. In South very little for repairs, the commissioners magazine are also published there, and the say, and the dirt which accumulates on the least, but instead an inch of surface makes it better and more durable. The macadam alone, so the commissioners say, is not entirely satisfactory, for the pebbles and stones are carried away in the dirt and it takes constant work to keep such a road in repair. Both the concrete and the tarva are used extensively at Gary, Ind., the new steel city, and in Chicago, and according to the reports which have reached the commissioners both kinds of paving have proven worth the money expended.

THEATRICALS IN THE PARK Amusements Proposed as Means of Raising Revenue to Bolster . Up Appropriations. That some revenue may be secured for the maintenance of the city parks other than appropriation "endowments," the feasibility of employing a theatrical stock company to give outdoor performances each evening during the season, to which a small admission charge can be made, will be discussed by the Park board at its next meeting, it is understood.

As it is now the Park board has no source of revenue aside from its approprintions, and they are not sufficient for all purposes. A small amount is secured yearly from concessions and for hay cut on the parks, but the money secured in this way is not large.
