Peraistent remors of an effort on the part of the city council to impeach Andrew Rosewater, city engineer, for alleged malfeasence in office have reached that official, but he receives the report in an unperturbed and unruffled manner and says that if the council wants to institute impeachment proceedings he is ready and will fight back, being confident of ultimate victory.

"I am wholly within the law and impeachment proceedings can not possibly stand, no matter in what way they are brought or on what point," says Engineer Rose water. "I am ready for anything that comes and will fight them at every turn of the game, and will win, and that, too, without hiring a lawyer. The engineer, on the other hand, says the courcil has copies of the plans for its "perusal" and that is sufficient, and that the originals should remain in his office over to Monday to give him an opporfor the inspection of bidders.

It is said that several councilmen had a meeting Wednesday to plan the impeachment proceedings, but no member of that at the reported conference. Councilmen all profess ignorance of the matter, Mc-Govern saying that the council has enough trouble without looking for more and adding that he believes the city engineer will "come across" with the plans and specifi- way into the house, but she pushed him cations at the next meeting.
