

or you, and with pictures coming our way too. Lord! Seems as if we'd ought to think of something. The trouble's right here,

now. We'll tell you. There ain't nothing

IN CLOWN ALLEY.

down.

hurt yer. Walsh's got the floor. What, CLOWNING NOT WHAT IT WAS he's backed out, too?" "Well, I don't know, lady. It's tough Modern Circus Ring Entirely Too Big to Talk In.

new in the business. Clowning's the same NEW METHODS ARE NOW USED story, year after year."

Must Be Action, Hard and Quick, if You Are Going to Make People Laugh-Interview with a Bunch of Clowns.

NEW YORK, April 4 .- Many of the cos tumes that the Barnum & Bailey clowns offer for the inspection of the people who come to see them are worthy of special mention. They are the very last cry in things sartorial, and if Broadway does not copy them, well, it's a loss to the world of the Great White Way, that is all. Here's a chance to get away from the rule of the conventional.

One of these outfits has a waistcoat of large plaids. It is worn with a coat of elephant's breath that has short bobby talls wired to give the required nonchalant air. The trousers are modestly high and only exhibit four inches of snow white hose. A long, light wig lends distinction. The shoes are of the flapping kind. Color, hay, A frock coat of the vintage of 1812 is worn with a dark red sweater, champagne colored stockings and no shoes. A mule, heavily belled, should accompany wearer. With a swallowtail cut to half the usual ength at the back, a bright red necktie with flowing ends is very effective. This should enclose collar with six inch points, built so as to hold the head very crect. Large loose shoes that beat time with the walk and visible stockings are worn.

Thin white batiste with many frills. Red belt drawn taut over expansive waist girth, black stockings, flap shoes, small linen cap set flirfatiously on the side of riotous yellow curls.

A policeman's coat is worn over tiptilted bustle and shoulder pads. It has three rows of buttons down the front, the middle row very small, A blase flower on left breast gives a Paquinlike air. A clay pipe and whiskers are absolutely indespensible;

With the radiance of this accumulation of fashions and folly in the eyes, it is hard to realize that the rows of men who sit silently in the press room after the circus is over are the very ones who a few min utes before flaunted their magnificence h fore thousands of spectators. All the white zinc and grease paint has been washed off, and the prismatic attire replaced by the common, ordinary Madison Square Garden kind of business suit, a little the worse for wear in a few instances, showing the storm and stress of life on the road. There is not the slightest attempt to get away from the current mode. Everything necks." is rigidly conventional and correct. Each one of them has a clean shave, a shoe shine and Immaculate linen. There are fat men and thin men, old men and young, those experienced in circus for no matter how good a stunt you may ways and those to whom life has still have you can't go on doing it forever. something to offer besides a weekly salary You've got to have something every bit as and a problematic engagement for next good as you had before and a heap sight season. But the cheerful case of the ring better. It keeps you guessing in your is replaced by what in circus talk is called spare minutes." wawdust fright. It is caused by the unusual experience of being interviewed. All the merry quips evoked. and cranks with which people ordinarily associate the genus clown are gone. They as high as $100 a week, some don't get sit on the extreme edges of their chairs more'n $25. The cleverest clown is the and wait for each other to speak. When that fools the manager the best. He is the one ventures, after explanatory cough, the best if he can do that, for it ain't an easy rest admire and envy his eloquence and trick. He's stopped fooling and is the real self-possession.

THE OMAHA SUNDAY BEE: APRIL 5, 1908.

White zinc's cheap, but it sin't often that a clown gets kissed that way; not often, lady.'

'Is it a clown's ambition to play Hamlot? Not on your life! We ain't any of us hankering after them melancholy parts." This is from the stout clown with the polka dot the.

"A clown's ambition is to play with the Barnum & Balley show.

"All through the country you'll see them with their eyes fastened on the p'int of the compass where the great show's billed. When the offer comes to join that aggregation of wonders, a clown feels the same way that an actor that's been doing one night stands for fifteen or iwenty years does when he's invited to play on the Great White Way and is guaranteed by and then and answer back if anyone asked thrown at him.

a laugh as soon as people look at you. You "It-well, it was a good many years age, can't give 'em a chance to go home and and I didn't know anything about being a cision. No, sir-e-e. "So our surest way is the makeup, for

of a clown is oftentimes measured by the gab and could sing like a wren. amount of funny costumes he has in his repertory. spend much time browsing about libraries or Fifth averener auction rooms, but some-"Oh, yes, of course we go to different times we do get an idea from a cartoon, places, all over the world, in fact." It is and junk shops are our favorite nunting Foolish Ford who is speaking, a middleground. Anything funny that we see we aged man, with a deeply furrowed face and kind gray eyes. "But it's all the same to get and hang on us. "Many of the costumes are very expenus. We don't care whether a town's up or sive, $35 or $40 maybe, and as they don't last long the accumulation of this property "I'm thinking of San Francisco when 1 represents quite an item of expenditure. say that. I was there before the earth-We do economize oftentimes by using one quake and I was there after it. Didn't see any difference to talk about. Up above year's costume for the next season's rainy day suits. That's our only way of getting the ground or down below it, what's the anywhere near ahead of the game. odds? It's just a town, that's what it is. "Now, I've been in London a heap o' "And if you get a funny idea be sure that times. Lived right near Westminster It will be copied right away. The flap feet abbey; and all last season I was so Eng- when they first came into the business lish that I had my trunk marked 'Sir made a great hit, but the season wasn't Richard Conneford, Liverpool, England.' over before every clown in the country was the show, and one day it occurred to me the management that he won't have things "How do we begin? Well, we're willing didn't begin with the work of the clown to tell that if you'll promise not to ask how we end." This is from one Escener in "Now it's action, something doin' and the rear, who looks as if his clowning had doin' quick and hard. You've got to get never interfered with sleep and appetite.

talk it over and come to some family de- clown except that I wanted to be. There was a little show in town-in the middle west-and I put some glycerine and oxide the modern circus is too big to have talk of zinc on my face-I knew that muchin. You wouldn't be heard. A clown has and applied for a place, hearing that there to get up his own rig, buy it or have it was at that time a deficit in clowns. I made; then it belongs to him, and the value told the manager that I was great on the "He hired me on my nerve and offered me $12 a week, which I took, after some Here at the Garden I suppose every clown hesitation. I wasn't getting anything at has four or five changes which he puts on the time and it seemed bigger than any in the course of one show, never appearing salary I ever got since. I made a great in the ring in the same gown. We don't hit with my song, which was in the days before it got too common. It ran: 'Willie had a little gun-now he's gone, gone, gone,

"The manager told me he considered me the greatest clown in the circus world, but he said it with one eye closed. I drew my salary for six weeks regularly, then there was a lapse for sixteen, and I could only touch the manager for about two bits a day.

"At the end of that time I went home in a box car and put my trunk in pawn before I started. Same with you fellers? Beginning's nearly always identical. Next year I got $35. Same with you fellers? Thought so."

The dark man who speaks next was with Walter Main's show in the beginning. "I was in the concert that took place after thing. Have you got that down?" "If we'd only known about it two days ago," one of them confesses, "we'd had a chance to think up something to say. Lord, needn't think it'll go because you write a lady, we've got stories enough. Some of letter sayin' it will or because you laugh at us's been more'n forty years in the clown- it yourself." It is the inventor of the rubing business. But you can't think of stories berneck coach trick who now has the floor. right off the bat, begging your pardon, this

Then they introduce themselves and each in New York, but it has. other.

"Lady, I'm the policeman, the jockey and the ballet girl."

wherever you strike the tent poles, and "I'm the man with the long rope and the then tote it over here to this burg and you short dog. My! but I thought he'd bite get the frozen mitts. my ankles today, exposed as they be."

"I'm the one whose feet flap the most. "I'm Foolish Ford. In my contract in ways that I can come and go ad lib." "I call myself the most absurd, ridiculou individual in the world, abounding in melody, mirth and madness. Then when people say I'm so had I'm good I don't have to make apologies. I just point to my explanation that's written in the posters "

"I'm the man that's got a sort of coustn you of one of the many joys of the enerry on Park Row who gets all his furny ideas clown's life. from me."

Others content themselves with merely saying names, Austin Walsh, Arthur Botion and acrobatic equestrianism, or if he rella, Fred Egener, Stanley, Baker, Gerome is knocked over by one of those graceful little Roamin' chariots, or perhaps if a Bannack, Ackley, Clemens,

The tail man who is looking for som pletures of himself in the press album connues the apologies for being unprepared.

"We ought to have written the story ourselves," he adds, "and given it to you to fix it up if you think it needed it. We're great on monologues. We could have done you some corkin' ones if we'd only known. Next year if we're with the show and you want us to-

The rows nod approval.

"Is it to be a long story." another ventures, "or a short one?" They all lean forward for the reply.

"Oh, a long one with pictures." They are visibly more interested. One or two prod the others to speak. "Go 'long, to see it, and walked up and down in front Ford; you oughter to have a heap o' things

O BRY. "What's the matter with you. Arthur Borella? Tight as a wad."

"Look at Freddio Egener over there, damb 's a clam. He's got enough to gab about in the Clown's alley when we want scarcely wait for his turn. him to shut up."

Oh, Austin's going to chirp. Don't be nearly all of us used to be, was a one ring afraid, Walah. It's all right. Lady won't clown. His stunt was to come out and talk around my mouth. But what did I care? general public,"

THE DESIRE OF THE MOTH FOR THE STAR

but 1 never went near the abbey to go in flapping his feet, as if he'd invented 'em." The policeman breaks in. "I suppose I'm "I don't know why clowning makes yo howing off in the acme of expert equitatrapezist in his marvelous aerial act forgets.

and falls on him instead of the net, why everybody wants to know what the clown's doing in the way there What business has he got to be under feet and interfering with

"It's up to the clown to look out for him self, and when you've got everybody in your neighborhood interested in your stunt and you can only hold 'em there for a minute or two by the power of your marvellous personality, it's mighty hard work to have to be sternally and forever trying to crawl out from under the weight of half dozen animals of one kind and another.

tume, before anyhody else had had a chance of the horses so that when I did appear

they wouldn't be too surprised and mistake

me for the sawdust in their admiration or fright, whichever it might happen to be.

"Lots of times I've taken my new cos

the legitimate business?

fear.

considered the funniest clown in the busifeel that way, but it does. You get so golness." There is a little choking sound darn tired of places where George Wash- heard from the rows, but it does not break ington was shot and Abe Lincoln was born out into articulate speech. "This makeup that you just leave 'em for the rubber- of mire's a direct inspiration. "I was calling on a lady friend and tell-

"And, then, besides, we're thinking." ing her that I was looking for a long coat. This is from one of the other thirty-five She was a good sized woman, somewhere clowns. "You see, when you're a clown it's near 200 pounds, and she opened the door up to you to think up something original, of the wardrobe and showed me her last year's garment hanging there. It was al right but the color, and she suggested that I have it dyed, which I did. "Then I sewed three rows of buttons down the front, the small row in the middle, and borrowed from another lady friend

Che or two wipe off the perspiration her bustle and shoulder pads-the first one from their brows at the memory thus didn't have 'em in stock for obvious reasons. You see what a success it is. The "Some of the salaries of the clowns run children simply love me.

"It's a queer thing about them kids. Just as soon as they get old enough to throw a stone they're on the lookout for a cop to throw it at, but let there he a policeman clown, they can't see him too often. They just grow crazy over him."

"The way a clown does is to think up It is while the subject of children is being something smart and then submit it. You discussed that a letter is brought in by one of the officials, who reads it aloud. It is from a Harlem parent who has lost two boys and thinks they must be with the circuit. "We tried that trick first in Brooklyn and After its contents have been thoroughly they laughed at it and then we were up a digested by the assemblage there is a tree because we thought it wouldn't take deep silence. Walsh looks quite fussed up about it and Egener crosses his legs and "New York's the ticklish place. Take 1 uncrosses them nervously. trick all over the country and get a laugh

Finally there was a chorus of protesting volces: "Oh, of course they've run away with the circus. Led to their ruln by the clowns' talk. Whenever there's a circus "Then, again, some fool thing that the in town and the boy's mislaid of course he country jays would be ashamed to smile at must have joined. And why do they alwill bring down the whole Garden. Peoways think they're going to be clowns? It ple'll go home and talk about the button requires some training to ride bareback or bursting clown comically for a week and bring over their mothers-in-law to see it." swing on the bars, but none, of course, to be a clown; oh, no, none at all. Think of "Have you ever been in Paris, lady?" it! As if we didn't have troubles enough interrupts one whose name is unknown. and did you ever get knocked down by a without stealing children to train."

cab and get arrested for bloocking traffic "Well, but," begins a mild-voiced clown and fined for it? Weil, that would remind in the second row, "we couldn't get along without the kids, 'That's true enough. They come pleased in the beginning, and "If he gets kicked by a horse that is all you've gotter do is to take a little notice of 'em, wave a day day and they're with you from start to finish. No weary work trying to smooth out the glassy stares. "I remember one orphans' day, Well lady. I've been clowning now for some thirty odd years, and when I think of it I get a queer sort of feeling somewhere. "It was a benefit performance and : whole foundiing establishment was there-courtesy of the management. How they did enjoy it! Didn't seem to have too much fun in their lives, and they laughed as if it had been bottled up for a long time. After the show was over the manager asked me as a great favor if 1'd stand at the door and shake hands with the children as they went out. Would I? You bet I would

"I never enjoyed handshakes like those. One by one the kids sidled up, some scared as could be, some brazen; those were the ones who were going to be clowns themselves when they growed up. Some of the littiest ones hesitated, not through fear-oh no-fout they wanted to-what do you us by herding us together in a dressing think? Sure, kiss me!

The clowns are beginning to lose their Another would-be speaker can "Did I let 'em? I lifted them one by one "You see, the old-time clown, which we

It up to the manager and he gave metry. I succeeded and am now at the top of my profession. There is a decided movement of disapproval. One says: "We ain't sayin' you ain't, but the profession of clowning is dif-

| if I could draw $12 a week for that, why couldn't I make $35 being a olown? I put ferent from a turnip, in that it has more'n ne top.' "Got that down in your notes?" says the tall man, "for if you ain't, think I may use, it myself. We're always looking about for chunks of wit, for when the circus season is over nearly all of us go into vaudeville, and some of us have even tried the legit. "I played two seasons in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., in a temperance drama called 'Dot, the Miner's Daughter.' The neighbors said I was good, but the general public agreed with my family. I never went back.

"Some people think that the alowns live together, herded like freaks, and I met someone around asking for the clowns' boarding house. The truth is that most of us have been born and brought up in the business. We married in it and our children are taught the circus stunts as soon as they begin to walk and talk, but we'd all of us like them to go into the legitimate and make a name for them selves, get away from them long footprints' of the one-night stands and the seasons on the road.

"We don't any of us retire rich. Barney Barnato, the South African millionaire, was the only one, and the disappointment of riches or the contrast between his life as was and is made him commit suicide in midocean. 'There's many of us have left clowning for good, Richard Golden and

Billy Clifford, for' instance, but perhaps you'd better not mention their names and give lem free advertising. "The one real excitement of the clown's life begins when he starts in betting. Every Saturday night in Clowns' alley, as we call the clowns' dressing room, we bet on the number of weeks and the town where the circus'll end. It's in the Clowns' alley that all special announcements are made and anyone has the privilege of stepping on the table and making a little speech. "The isolation that has been thrust upon room, where the proclivitles for covering everything with white won't interfere with in my arms and they kissed me so hard the rights of others, has resulted in the that when they got through all the white making of many fine orators and me zine was kissed off in a smooth circle all loguists, whose talents are unknown to th

Printers -Book Binders & Manufacturers of Improved Flat-Opening Blank Books-

-"Have Root Print It"-

"When quality counts, Root gets the Order."

Twenty-five thousand square feet of well-lighted, well-arranged floor space.

Two large fire-proof vaults for the safe-keeping of valuable books, manuscripts, etc.

The very latest improved printing presses equipped with automatic feeding machines.

The most modernly equipped printing plant in the west.

Every machine driven by individual motors.

Embossing presses. The latest type faces and every successful device for producing good printing economically.

Our prices are always reasonable, quality of work considered.

-"Have Root Print It"-

1010-1012 Howard Street Omaha, Neb.