lifferings Soon Taken, May Option Became Congested and Values Narrowed to Yesterday's Close.

OMAHA. April 9, 1908.

With the exception of a few apurts at the opening, grain values were flat, with no features to work on.

There was good buying at the start, but all offerings were soon taken up and the May options became congested, with values narrowing down to yesterdays close. Wheat opened steady, with larger offerings and the crowd inclined to play the buil side and values were advanced $c.

After offerings were taken buying power was lacking and prices were hammered down and the close was weak.

May wheat opened at 80%c and closed at $7%c.

Corn was firm at the opening, with no colling pressure and a good demand for all grades of corn.

May corn opened at 61%c and closed at Cats started firm and held steady on buying by elevator people and light receipts.

May cats opened at 50%c and closed at Minneapolis, Duiuth and Chicago reported receipts of He cars, against 229 cars last week and 455 cars one year ago.

The corn market was strong for the greater part of the day. Small receipts, wet weather in the corn belt and a good demand for cash grain were the chief strengthening influences. Beef steers were the last cattle to attract the attention of the buyers. The packers did not appear to be in very urgent need of cattle and shippers were also backward about taking hold. All buyers, without exception, started out bidding prices that were sharply lower than yesterday and the trade was a drag all the morning.

Some of the most desirable handy weights did not show so much loss, but the general run of cattle were 10c lower and in some cases salesmen were quoting it as much as logist lower than yesterday.

It was midday before anything like a clearance was effected.

WAIL AGAINST THE DRY VOTE Blair Man Says He Would Not Wonder if Omaha Put on the Lid.

"Fairplay," "Taxpayer," "Justitla" and P. B. M.'s who write letters to local newspapers all falled to vote times enough at Blair Tuesday, according to Frank Castetter, president of the banking house of "The results at Blair when the town went dry for the first time only show the tendency to close up everything, said Mr. Castetter. "It would not surprise me if Omaha went dry next April. It would not surprise me any more than that Blair should close the saloons.

"Just what effect the new municipal policy will have in Blair remains to be Gus Johnson, colored, four and a half feet tall and weighing about 200 pounds, made an eloquent plea for himself. He had been caught emerging from a box car.

cutor and to the most subtle questions he merely answered "I left man overgoat in there." He and his overcoat will repose in the county jail for a period of ten days. The others were discharged.

INHERITANCE TAX PUZZLE Question Over Assessing Konntsp Million in New York and Nebraska Both.

It was assessed for inheritan purposes in New York and the heirs ob, to paying another inheritance tax on there. Deputy County Attorney Ellick contends as Mr. Kountre's domicile was in Omaha at the time of his death the title to the property passed here and the tax should be collected in Douglas county. At the original hearing Judge Lealie decided it should be taxed and the heirs appealed

At a conference of the district judges Thursday it was decided unanimously to call a grand jury at the beginning of the May term especially to investigate condi-tions in what is known as the red light dis-
