Lowa CITY—Beginning this week, Judge W. D. Evans of Hampton, Ia. will lecture to the senior law class on practice in the district court in Iowa. The judge is an alumnus of the university of the class of 78 in liberal srts, and 79 in law. He took his master's degree from the university in 99. This is a new course in the law school and one that is being well received by the members of the class. It does away with some of the difficulty of determining the relative limits of scholastic law and the law of practice.

There is only one democratic candidate for representative, A. V. Penn of Sidney. He has been prominent in politics alnes the days of Major Anderson, over twenty years ago. He once before made the race for representatival and was defeated by R. C. Campbell, of Hamburg. Hon Asahel Mann, the present representative, who defeated the democratic incumbent, F. M.

Laird, two years ago, declined a renomination. Three republicans are aspirants for the place, O. P. Stewart, editor of the Fremont County Sun; H. J. Failing, cashier of the Randorph bank, W. T. Davidson, editor of the Hamburg Republican. The last named is a standpatter, the others progressives. There are nine candidates for the office of sheriff and two for school superintendent, both women. Miss Della Simmons of Sidney, republican, and Miss Luiu West of Haraburg, republican. The offices in this county are usually divided between the two parties, but the democrats generally get most of them.

MARSHALLTOWN—Louis A. Townsend, a former Marshalltown young man, who is now living in Fort Dodge, Ia., has accidentally stumbled upon an invention, which physicians who have tried it, declare will supercede the ordinary stethescope used to test the action of the heart and lungs. Mr. Townsend made his discovery while in the employment of the Iowa Telephone company. In testing phones he fitted up a simple little instrument, similiar in many respects to the ear pieces and tubing used on the old style phonographs. Accidentally detaching it from the tramsliter of the phone on which he was working, he allowed it to fail on his cheat and was surprised to hear the beating of his heart and the expansion and contraction of his lungs. He grasped the idea and improved the instrument and has secured a patent. The advantages of his patent is that it is cheap and easy to carry. MARSHALLTOWN-Louis A. Townsend
