Tailored Suits, Silk Dresses, Skirts and Waists AT PRICES NEVER EQUALED SO EARLY IN THE SEASON

There are two reasons why we are offering high class garments at such wonderful low prices. The first is the recent cold weather, which has retarded sales somewhat; and the second is that we have made extensive purchases recently in the New York market from manufacturers in urgent need of cash with which to continue operations.

$29.75 for Tailored Suits Worth $40 and $45.00. Stunning new tailor-made suits—over 100 to choose from—all made of finest plain or fancy materials in the most exclusive styles.

$19.50 for Tailored Suits Worth $30 and $35.00. Nearly two hundred high class suits to choose from in this lot—all are beautiful new garments, made in plain or fancy styles.

$17.50 for Beautiful Silk Dresses Worth $25 and $35.00. A grand collection of beautiful new silk Princess dresses, all exclusive styles—some loose lace sleeves and yokes.

$2.50 for Silk and Lace Waists Worth $5.00 and $7.50. We have about 200 of these dainty waists; there are silks in quite a few shades and laces in white or ecru.

$7.50 for Stylish New Skirts Worth $10.00 and $12.50. Over 300 new skirts to choose from, all are beautifully tailored in the newest pleated or gored styles.

BARON PITIES DEMOCRATS

Italian Consul General at Denver Says Delegation Will Bake at Convention. Baron G. Tosti, Italian consul general at Denver, was in Omaha a few hours Tuesday, enroute to Denver from Chicago.

Baron Tosti was asked about the Hanna mine and the report that the Italian government would investigate the recent catastrophe and demand of the American government damages for the deaths of Italian miners reported killed, but he says nothing of this kind will be done.

"I did not go to the Hanna mine as reported, but went to Cheyenne to see the governor," said the baron. Governor Brooks told me that no Italian miners were killed, and for that reason there is no foundation for my government to take any action whatsoever.

POSTOFFICE MEN ARE HAPPY. New Bill in Congress Gives Them Thirty Days' Lay-Off, Same as Other Federal Employees.

Private reports from Washington Tuesday brought happy news to the Omaha postoffice employees. They heard that the postoffice appropriation bill had passed the senate. This bill carries with it a provision for thirty days' vacation each year for postoffice employees, some of whom heretofore have had fifteen days and others no vacation with pay.

BRIDE SUED FOR DRESS BILL. Mrs. Will Doane's Property is Attached by Modiste for Over Thousand Dollars.

Suit for $1,100.00 was begun in district court Tuesday by Jessie Fox, a modiste at Twentieth and Farnam streets, against Mrs. Lola G. Doane, formerly Mrs. Lola G. Rustin, whose marriage in March to Captain Will Doane in Riverside, Cal., attracted more than ordinary attention in Omaha society because of the prominence of both Mrs. Rustin and Captain Doane.

More News from the New England States. If anyone has any doubt as to the virtue of Foley's Kidney Cure they need only refer to Mr. Alvin H. Simpson of Willimantic, Conn., who after almost losing hope of recovery on account of the failure of so many remedies, finally tried Foley's Kidney Cure, which he says was "just the thing" for him, as four bottles cured him completely.

NEW FACTORY AND WAREHOUSE. Two Large Buildings Will Be Added to the Business Houses of Omaha.

Permits were issued Tuesday for two large buildings in Omaha, one of them a factory building for the Omaha Mitten Manufacturing company, and the other a warehouse for L. Harding & Sons.

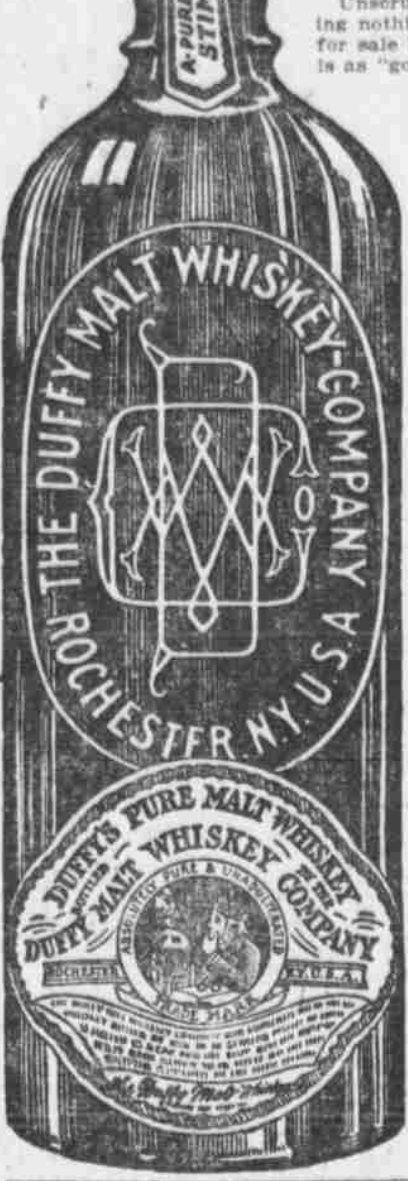

MAKING COFFEE FOR PARTIES. Suggestions Worth Remembering by the Woman Who Entertains Often.

Five gallons of coffee are sufficient for 100 wedding guests. Buy the best quality of Mocha and Java and have it pulverized. Two and a half pounds will insure coffee of reasonable strength.

The dinner was given by Mr. and Mrs. Christian at their home, 7 East Forty-first street.

Beware of Imitations. Cheap Substitutes and "Just As Good As"

Unscrupulous dealers, mindful only of profit and caring nothing for the health of their patrons, are offering for sale low-grade, impure whiskey, which they tell you is as good as Duffy's.

It is a cheap concoction and fraud, intended to deceive the people. Of course, when a remedy has been before the public so long, has been prescribed and used by the best doctors and in all the prominent hospitals and has carried the blessing of health into so many thousands of homes as Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, such imitations are bound to arise.

BEWARE OF FRAUDS! Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is sold in sealed bottles only—never in bulk. A fac-simile of the genuine bottle is printed here so that you may easily recognize it.

Books and Magazines

William J. Locke, author of "The Beloved Vagabond" and "The Morals of Marcus," begins a new serial, "Simple Septimus," in the May American Magazine.

Brother Balaing, by R. B. Bando; "The Dangerous House Fly," a symposium, by W. Frost, C. T. Vorhies and E. V. Wilcox; "Growing Daffodils for Market," by Dalton Wylie and A. M. Kirby; "Automobile Troubles That May Be Avoided," several shorter articles, The Homebuilders' Supplement, and the usual departments.

In the list of fiction for The Housekeeper for May there are two particularly clever stories, "Roxana's Proposal," by Anne Warner, and "His Failure," by Emma Lee Walton. For the first, imagine a girl who has looked forward to a proposal from infancy; then the auspicious moment—the automobile breaks down; and as a parting word after the strenuous day, "Oh, I forgot, I meant to propose this morning."

The Smart Set for May opens with a novella by Elizabeth Robins, entitled "The Mills of the Gods." A novella, a story has seldom been printed in a magazine. There is a character study by Elizabeth Jordan entitled "Tillie Henrotin's Developing Soul." "In Stateroom C-5," by Frank A. Ward, is the pathetic story of a criminal who is being brought to America; "Gossamer Glory," by Mrs. Henry Dudeney, is one of the distinguished English writer's best stories; "The Debt," by Arthur Stanley Wheeler, is a splendid analysis of an event in a college professor's life; "The Night of the Wedding," by Richard Duffy, is a one-act play of more than ordinary dramatic value; it tells simply, yet powerfully, a very human story.

"The Shocking of Politics," by Catherine Carr; "Their Own Kind," by Kate Masters; "The Bomb Planters," by Alfred Damon Runyon; "Beneath the Surface," by Sidney Fredericks; and "The White Peacock," by Carr Allison, are other stories which every one should read.

Almanac for May is one of the best numbers this magazine has published. Its table of contents contains the names of some of the most successful short-story writers of the day, including Edith Maevane, Mrs. Wilson Woodrow, H. F. Prevost Battersby, Mrs. John Van Vorst, Campbell MacCuller, Owen Oliver, Beatrice Demarest Lloyd, Roy Newton, James Barr and Francis Willard Wharton.

A most important feature of the May number of The North American Review is a symposium entitled "The Claims of the Candidates." A short article about every one of the republican candidates, written in each case by a man peculiarly fitted to deal with his subject, thus sets forth the claims for the nomination, respectively, of Cannon, Cortelyou, Fairbanks, Foraker, Hughes, Knox, La Follette and Taft.

The "New America" number of The Journal of American History calls attention to the 100th anniversary of the birth of the author of our national hymn, "America," which occurs this year. The centenary of the birth of Jefferson Davis, the fiftieth anniversary of the statehood of Minnesota, the centenary of the birth of Lincoln, while Theodore Roosevelt is soon to observe his fiftieth birthday.

The editor is not only endeavoring to make The Journal of American History the most beautiful magazine in America, but the most valuable—especially a public service institution.

William Williams, ex-commissioner of immigration in New York and now a practicing lawyer, has for many years been a member of the Alpine club and has climbed not only the great mountains of Switzerland, but was a member of one of the first expeditions to attempt Mount St. Elias in Alaska. He has written for the May Scribner an article on "The Charm of Mountain Climbing," in which he treats of it as a sport for reasonable men which is not accompanied with more hazard than any vigorous outdoor adventure. The illustrations in this article are the finest Alpine views ever reproduced.

Is there a source of wealth—a place or thing from which all the gold in the world is derived? This question has often furnished matter for interesting speculation, and has been the source of much in the way of both fiction and adventure. Through all the pinner camps of the north there are tales of the mother lode, the source of the gold and suggests that sprinkle the streams. Some people find it harder to stand prosperity than misfortune—the principal character in "The Mother Lode," by A. M. Chisholm, which appears in the May Popular Magazine, had too much of a good thing.
