BUTTER MARKET IN OMAHA

Plans Now Under Way Among Creamery Interests.

WOULD RIVAL ELGIN MARKET

Thomas Fry is Appointed Committee of One by the Commercial Club to Confer with Manufacturers.

Plans are being made by the creamery men of Omaha for the establishment of a "merchandising" butter market in Omaha, which will employ inspectors and appoint a price committee which will make the price for a week, after carefully considering conditions, as is done on the Elgin market.

Speaking of the proposition, J. H. Rush-ton, president of the Fairmont Creamery company, which will make 15,000,000 pounds of butter this year, said:

"In a broad way I believe a butter market in Omaha, which will furnish the basis for selling the high-grade butter of Nebraska, Kansas, western Iowa and South Dakota, to be practical.

"It means an organization of the manufacturers, who will secure a room in which to meet and where butter dealers will buy and sell; the employment of a secretary, competent inspectors and a price committee.

Omaha National Butter Center.

"The general public the primary reason would seem to be that a market is needed because Omaha manufactures more butter than any other city in the country, but one of the primary reasons is that in making the price for the week at Elgin the conditions existing in the west cannot be carefully gone into and they may not always be the same as in Wisconsin, Illinois, eastern Iowa and Minnesota.

"The price committee at Elgin has given us very satisfactory prices for a basis for this year's butter. Before that, they did a lot of funny things and there was some speculation, but I believe the prices to be conscientiously made now. The only thing now is that Omaha is nearer the grain-distributing interests in the west and could probably secure more reliable information and keep closer in touch with the territory.

"Should the plan succeed, it will be some time before a vast amount of butter is sold on the Omaha market—that is, sold on the basis of the prices fixed by the Omaha committee.

"Omaha and Elgin would be merchandising markets of the country, while New York and Chicago would continue to be the "commissioner dealers markets."

Other manufacturers are enthusiastic over the movement and say that it is sure to come at no distant time, as Omaha is the proper place to make the price of butter for the transmissour country and a large part of Iowa.

MORAN ESTATE ALL CLOSED

If Indiana Man is a Relative He is Slow in Claiming His Rights.

If Martin Moran of Lago, Ind., is a heir of Frank Moran, who died in Omaha March 24, 1907, he is slow in asserting his claim to a share in the property, as the estate has been administered and closed up.

Moran wrote the postoffice authorities recently saying he understood Frank Moran died in the county hospital worth $6,000. No record of him is had at the county hospital, but the probate records show he died in 1907 leaving real estate which afterwards sold for $4,500 and personality worth $500. P. C. Healy administered the estate and the property went to his brother, John

INDIANA TO HAVE "CORN DAY"

Shows Will Be Held in Every County and Prize Corn Sent to Omaha.

Indiana commissioners appointed by the governor of that state to provide for exhibits at the National Corn exposition have notified the association that every county in the state will observe a corn show day, Wednesday, November 25, and the products will be sent to the great exposition at Omaha.

The shows will be held under the auspices of the Purdue university which has inaugurated the movement in that state, and will have charge of the exhibits at Omaha under the direction of the commissioners.

Another Omaha improvement dropped into the corn exposition headquarters Wednesday, when Governor Coe I. Crawford of South Dakota sent copies of the proclamation which he has issued for the National Corn exposition, calling on the growers of that state to participate and carry off all the premiums possible.

The Omaha office of the Dempster Mill and Manufacturing company has notified the management of the show that the company will contribute $50 in special premiums for corn, consisting of a gas engine, wind mills and feed grinders.

Another Omaha improvement possible is secured from manufacturers over $4,000 worth of special premiums.

This assures the growers that the premium list will run to more than $50,000. In addition to the regular premiums offered many bankers in different towns and cities of Nebraska are offering to pay growers of the counties in which they are located, from $10 to $50 if they carry away a first or second premium from the National Corn exposition for the county.

Iowa bankers and manufacturers have also taken this means of encouraging the grower to secure premiums for their counties and the man who brings premium corn to Omaha will not be without honor in his own county.

OMAHA WOOL RATES LOWEST

Storage Schedules Show Up Best Compared with Others.

BANKS OFFER FAVORABLE TERMS

From One Cent to Three Per Hundred Pounds Are the Loading, Weighing and Storage Rates Advanced.

Rates of storage were announced by the Omaha Wool and Storage company, Wednesday, and comparison with the rates in any other wool market shows that the Omaha rates are the lowest in the United States.

The first proposition was to make a flat rate of 5 cents per 100 pounds per month, which is the average rate charged in other warehouses, but some of the eastern markets, which are anticipating a decline as a result of the establishment of wool houses at Omaha, gave notice of a sliding scale of rates. The matter was taken up at once with the Omaha company and they decided to make the lowest schedule of rates in the United States.

The following are the rates announced:

Table with 2 columns: Rate, Lbs. Storage, first month or fraction, 3c; Storage, succeeding months, 2c; Unloading, 10c; Weighing and certifying, 10c.

Arrangements were also completed Wednesday for insuring the wool placed in the Omaha warehouse at the exceptionally low rate of 20 cents per ton.

Facilities Most Favorable. The terms offered by the Omaha company and the inducements extended by the Omaha banks are the most liberal of any in the United States. While the commission houses of Boston have been advancing from 25 to 50 per cent of the value of the wool in cash and charging interest until settlement is made, the Omaha Wool and Storage company, in a letter to the growers of the west, makes the following announcement:

Secure certificates of weight will be furnished, making same negotiable for loans. Arrangements are being perfected to negotiate loans on the basis of 50 per cent of the value of your wool, at a rate of 5 per cent per annum and 1 per cent commission.

It has also been announced that the warehouse company will pay the freight on all consignments. If desired, thus saving the grower from advancing a cent and enabling him to place the wool in storage at Omaha, simply delivering it at the railroad station nearest him and mailing the bill of lading to the warehouse company.

This makes it possible for growers to come to Omaha when the manufacturers come here to buy, and each grower may attend to his sales and see that the best possible price is obtained.

MORE CARS ON ALL LINES

Bridges Wants Better Service Throughout Entire City on the Omaha Trolley System.

"My intention was to have an ordinance providing for quicker street car service on all lines in the city, but I am, assistant city attorney, who drew up the ordinance for me, specified merely the park line because he lives there.

This is the explanation given by Lee Bridges, councilman, for but one street car line being mentioned in his ordinance presented to the council Tuesday night requiring cars to be run at intervals of every three minutes during the busiest hours of the day, and at intervals of every six minutes at other times, even up to the hour of 1 o'clock in the morning. The councilman says he will have the ordinance radically amended, providing it is seen in the meeting of the committee of the whole next Monday afternoon that the provision is liable to pass.

If but one line was to have been picked out I would have specified the South Sherman avenue or the Fourteenth street line, as that would benefit me personally," says Bridges, who lives in the Second ward.

"Better service on the Park line won't do me any good. If better service is to be installed on one line install it on all lines, I say."

Dunn excuses himself for picking out the one line on the ground that he is not conversant with the conditions elsewhere. He says that the Park cars run about every fifteen minutes, and that is altogether too far apart. He goes on the theory that a test better be made of one line before bringing the whole system under the provisions of the new ordinance.

The majority of the councilmen knew nothing of the proposed ordinance prior to its being introduced, but from comment among the members of the aldermanic board it is believed that the ordinance will pass, state members of the council.

SUIT FOR HUSBAND'S DRINK

Wife Sues Saloon Keeper and His Bandmates to Pay Thirty-Nine Thousand Dollars.

Damages to the amount of $39,000 are demanded by Mrs. Susie Taylor from John Blainck, a saloon keeper; William Britt and the Title Guaranty and Security company, his bondsmen, for the alleged debauching of her husband, William F. Taylor. She says her husband spends all his time drinking in Blainck's two saloons at 3419 Dodge street and Thirteenth and Davenport streets, and has become unable to earn any wages. Besides she says he has squandered $3,000 she inherited from her father shortly after they were married.

She says he was a plumber and could earn $1,500 a year or $1,000 above their expenses. As his expectancy of life is 28 years, she says she has been damaged to the amount of $36,000, beside the $3,000 of hers he has spent.

OFFICER WANTS NEW NUMBER

Policeman Still Says "13" Hoodoo Him and He Must Have Change.

"I'm hoodooed, chief, that's all there is about it, and I can't carry the burden any longer."

This spoke Policeman Stull in the office of Chief of Police Donahue Wednesday morning. The officer held in his hand his badge, No. 13.

The officer came to the force about four months ago. He had his misgivings when he was given badge No. 13. But he took it, thereby proving that he possessed the courage which is required in a policeman.

But what is human courage against a hoodoo? Answer, Nothing.

The policeman found that in spite of his best intentions misunderstandings occurred; in spite of his greatest care, accidents happened; in spite of his supremest efforts to do his duty he was misunderstood.

"I know I reported on time every day, but I was marked late seven times," he said to the chief. "And there's been a lot of other things gone wrong. There's no telling what will happen unless I get rid of this badge. I can't go on this way."

The officer was very much in earnest and as his record on the force is excellent Chief Donahue did not consider it right that he should be burdened with a hoodoo. Therefore he relieved him of the badge.

"I'll take it, myself," said the chief. "I'm not superstitious and I don't think this hoodoo will do me any harm."

The chief's number is now 13.

After the officer had left the chief's office light-hearted because he had a number free from hoodoo Art Shields, secretary to the chief, looked at the calendar on the wall. A close observer with a large amount of imagination might have seen him start suddenly, tremble and turn pale.

Whether he did this or not, it is certain that he remarked:

"This is the thirteenth of the month."

POSTOFFICE CLOCK NOT STRUCK

Just Getting Set and is Not Hit by Tornado.

Men who were deluged into setting their watches by the postoffice clock Wednesday morning came very near going daft. Inside of an hour or two the old clock indicated any kind of time from 12 around to 12 again. Then it would go back and give time backward from 1 to 1. Things began to look serious and there was an impression that the tornado had something to do with it. The trouble was finally settled when it was discovered that the clock was undergoing repairs at the hands of Mashinsky & Ryan. The clock is all right now.
