

FIRST WOOL CLIP RECEIVED

Ak-Sar-Ben Goat's Wool Stored by King in Warehouse.

GOVERNORS SEND GREETING

Hope Muck-a-Muck May Become Mascot for New Enterprise Which Means Much to Omaha and the West.

Enough warehouse capacity of the Omaha Wool and Storage company had to be arranged early Monday morning to accommodate the first consignment of wool, forwarded by Charles H. Pickens for the board of Ak-Sar-Ben governors.

This clip was from the goat of the king, which was sheared in the royal goat pens at Mack street and half way between Sunday and Monday, when the clock struck twelve and then stopped with a boom like the gathering of the thirteenth sound within the bell. The keen knives began to cut through the wool, there was a "bah-bah" from Muck-a-Muck, and the coat slipped off like one garment, finer than the wool from the sheep of Lock Elvire or the secured fleeces from Melbourne.

With the wool of Muck-a-Muck, came the following letter from Mr. Pickens:

Friend King: Enclosed find the first consignment for storage in your new warehouse which is a clip from the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben goat, and we trust the same will prove a mascot to the enterprise which you are so much interested, not only personally, but financially. Faithfully yours, CHARLES H. PICKENS.

Warehouse certificates were immediately issued by Mr. King, and the wool "bottled in bond." In a letter replying to Mr. Pickens, concerning the great clip from Muck-a-Muck, President King informed the governors, that should the money be needed, any Omaha bank would be glad to loan an amount up to 50 per cent of the value of the wool, accepting the certified warehouse certificate as collateral. But Samson showed a book account which proved that no money would have to be borrowed on the fleece of the Ak-Sar-Ben goat. The certificate will be framed in hand-tooled, unfinished, poplar wood, flched from a bill board from which Muck-a-Muck secured the paper which produced the fine bark removed from his fat and well-proportioned body.

PLAN TO HOLD IS NOW GENERAL

Movement Started by Wyoming Growers and Omaha Capitalists Spreads.

Reports from the eastern wool markets show that the movement started by Wyoming wool growers and Omaha capitalists to hold the 1908 clip for better prices is becoming general throughout the country and is expected to last during the week ending May 15 were about half what they were during a corresponding week last year.

Wool growers believe the small shipments are entirely due to the low prices offered by buyers and the determination of producers to store their wool in warehouses and wait for fairer prices.

Shipments to Boston so far this year aggregate 51,751,888 pounds, as against 106,462,306 pounds during the same period last year.

For the week ending May 15 the shipments to Boston were 896,710 pounds less than during the corresponding week last year.

An authoritative statement received by the Omaha storage company says that "buying of the new clip of the west is said to have entirely stopped. From Wyoming about 750,000 pounds have been consigned to Boston and 350,000 pounds to Philadelphia on advances of from 7 to 8 cents per pound."

Sales for the week ending Tuesday, May 12, as reported amounted to 2,366,000 pounds of domestic and 575,000 pounds of foreign wool, as against 4,000,000 for the corresponding week a year ago.

The week's business as estimated by the New York Commercial, with prices, follows: Pounds. Cents. 50,000 territories 125.19 20,000 pulled 202.50 20,000 4-blood 212.23 175,000 secured 209.58 75,000 Ohio fine unwashed 20.20 20,000 Fall Texas 149.15 35,000 Ohio XX 20.41 5,000 Ohio unwashed delaine 25

SCHOOL TEACHER GENEROUS Offers to Give Boy Who Finds Her Purse All of Its Contents.

Miss Clara Cooper, school teacher, lost a handbag containing $4 in bills and 10 cents, together with some other articles valuable to her. William Nielson, a newboy, found the handbag and returned it to the police. "Do you think," inquired the young woman of Desk Sergeant Patsy Havey, "that it will be enough if I give the boy the $4 for his honesty?"

Mr. Havey expressed his opinion that the $4 would be more than enough. "Which shows the difference between a woman who works for a salary and some rich men," says Sergeant Havey, who is considerable of a philosopher. "Lots of 'em would have given the boy the 10 cents, that's what they'd have done."

MONEY BAG IS EXHAUSTED That is the Talk One Fellow Puts Up and Police Judge Discharges Him.

"I had $25.00 when I got into town a week ago from Kansas, but it has been exhausted," James Burns told Police Judge Crawford Monday morning in answering a charge of vagrancy. "It has been what?" demanded the court. "Exhausted," repeated Burns. A light broke over the face of the judge and of the spectators who had heard the word.

"Exhausted, eh?" murmured Judge Crawford as he slowly wrote the word "discharged" on the complaint. "Well, well, so that's what happens to money? I often wondered what happened to mine. I see now; it's exhausted."

BROOKS FOR OMAHA ON WOOL

Wyoming Governor Says City is Destined to Be Great Market.

CO-OPERATES WITH MOVE HERE Assers Eastern Buyers Are Imposing on Western Growers by the Prices They Are Holding Out.

Bryant B. Brooks, governor of Wyoming, spent several hours in Omaha Monday, en route to Cheyenne from Washington where he attended the White House conference of governors and captains of industry and commerce, to discuss the conservation of natural resources.

The governor of Wyoming, owner of the great Brooks ranch east of Casper, went almost directly to the office of Charles H. King, president of the Omaha Wool and Warehouse company, to inquire about the progress of the storage plant, rates of storage, loans and advances on wool.

"There is no doubt in my mind but the eastern buyers are taking advantage of the wool growers of the west and the situation which exists this year by offering 12 to 14 cents per pound for wool when it is worth from 20 to 30 cents secured today," was the significant statement of Governor Brooks.

"But the wool growers of the west must have money on their clip. Most of them are 'hard-up,' as we say out there. The small banks and stores and the stores are carrying the wool men and have been for some little time. They want their money and the banks and stores would rather see the growers sell for a few cents less and realize on it than to carry them through the long period necessary when the wool is shipped to eastern houses on consignment. Many of the growers are in debt, because they bought many sheep last year. Everything looked beautiful and they went in debt at the banks for enlarging their flocks.

What Omaha Must Do. "Now what Omaha must do is to arrange to determine the worth of the wool and show the growers just what they can get on it from the banks in Omaha to relieve the small banks and stores in Wyoming."

The governor was much gratified to learn that it would be possible to secure a loan of $1,000,000 or $2,000,000 from the banks of Omaha on wool certificates, as soon as it was in the warehouse and the insurance issued.
