clency as a result of the government's investigations. These tests of the coal where they can buy coal that is best suited to their purpose.

The government has found still BTHother way of conserving the fuel recources in the briquetting of coal. The investigations show that in the near future the great quantities of waste contseen about every mine and the low grade coal that is now being left in the mines will be utilized in the generating of power and for locomotive power and domestic heating. Successful tests of briquettes were recently made on two railroads. The briquettes, which were made from the slack of high grade bituminous coal, showed an economy of 20 per cent over the same lump coal, not taking into consideration the cost of making the briquettes.

At the government fuel testing plant at Denver investigations into the washing and coking of coal have been carried for a year with much success. In the washery plant it has been shown that coals were greatly improved by washing at the nominal cost of from 3 to 10 cents In recent experiments the experts have succeeded in making coke out of several coals that have been regarded as noncoking. Of thirty-seven samples tested from the Rocky mountain region all but three produced good coke, though a number of these were considered noncoking coals. When the metallurgical interests of the west are noted, the importance of these investigations will be

Storm Spoils Commencement.

ASHLAND, Neb., May 31,-(Special.)-The graduating exercises of the high school Friday evening were interrupted by a threatening storm. Immediately after the exercises had begun heavy black clouds appeared and the wind began to blow badly. Visions of the Louisville tornade disturbed the audience and it was finally deemed best by the Board of Education to dismiss the crowd. Hon. H. H. It was a great disappointment of the graduates, numbering sixteen. The class day exercises Thursday at day by services conducted by the Grand the high school were highly successful.

Take the matter of grade, which is the block over which the operating official the Gould management as well as nearly of a railroad most often stumbles. Low all others since it was set in motion by grades have been an ideal toward which George J. Gould has worked in late years with more persistency than toward any need of the car and engine tonnage that other. The original advantage of a grade lower in almost all cases than those of competitors has not, in this particular, produced satisfaction, for great energy has been displayed in establishing as near water level lines as are practicable. The route of the Gould line tonnage from St. Louis to New Orleans and to Galveston. is over a 4-10 per cent grade. This has involved reduction of existing grade anywhere from 25 to 40 per cent, but chiefly the construction of water level cutoffs between points of maximum grade. New construction in late years has been exceedingly expensive as a Gould undertaking chiefly because the demand was made

This high cost is conspicious, rather wherever town or city authorities extravagantly so, on the White river will allow it and to purchase land abutting division of the St. Louis and Iron Mountain, which has already cost mearly $11 .that it will, in time, represent as high 100,000. It is doubtful if the strong and an obvious feature favorable to equipment orders giver in the past two years need have been so large or the cash resources of the purchasing companies strained as they were to meet equipment obligations. Certainly the craze for heavy power and heavy equipment has affected James J. Hill. The fact is that but few lines west of the Mississippi river, have capacity is many years in advance of other railroad conditions in the West and Southwest Surplus and high grade freight equipment on the Gould lines does not find its equal in passenger equipment. Here there is opportunity, in fact, necessity, for advancement if business is to be held. This does not apply, however, to the Texas and Pacific nor to the Denver and Rio

High order of equipment depends on the capacity and up-to-dateness of car shops. In this respect the Missouri Pacific and Iron Mountain are pre-aminent among the Gould lines and, for that Patter among any southwestern systems. This undoubtedly expresses the wisdom and practical knowledge of this aide of railreading, of Vice-President Charles S. Clarke, who began his railroad training as a mechanic's apprentice.
