

BALDWIN DEFENDS CALLAHAN

Judge Says Cemetery Superintendent Was Convicted on a Lie.

IMPACHES CLARK TESTIMONY

President of Prospect Hill Denies that Graves Were Opened and Bones Removed Without Proper Authority.

"Dan Callahan, superintendent of the Prospect Hill cemetery, was convicted of grave desecration on the testimony of James Clark, but Clark said he knows he lied when he said graves were opened and bones removed without proper authority."

His aged form shaking with pent-up emotion and wrath against his accusers, Judge C. A. Baldwin, president of the Prospect Hill Cemetery association, who is held by the court as the principal in the desecration of graves in the cemetery, thus denounced the leading witness in the recent trial of the superintendent of the old burial ground in Omaha. The judge made his statement before the city council in special session, Dan Callahan and his wife being present. His talk was long and rambling, but respectful attention was paid by his auditors.

At the outset the judge said he wished to go before the council in preference to the court, as he believed the court had not treated him fair.

"I asked Judge Sears to hear me and the judge appointed 9 o'clock this morning, a half hour before court convenes as the hour for me to appear, when no one would be there," said Judge Baldwin. "The court told me that I must not refer to anything but the trial of Callahan and that I must not refer to anything in relation to what I had said or done in the matter, and that he would not whitewash anyone."

Wants No Whitewash. "Good God, I don't want to be whitewashed; I just want a chance to tell the truth, but my good friend, the judge, would not let me. I did not go to court this morning and I never will go before that court again."

"The record of my life in connection with Prospect Hill cemetery is an open book and can be read by all. Prospect Hill cemetery is the dearest spot on earth to me. I would not swap Prospect Hill cemetery for all of Omaha. What has been done there, the improvements that have been made, have been made by Dan Callahan and myself."

"I have been president of the cemetery association for eighteen years and no grave has been opened in that time except by written order of the secretary, and the secretary acted under my orders. Dan never opened a grave without authority being given him and I have repeatedly ordered him to shoot anyone who attempted to open a grave."

The judge then branched off into a long dissertation on the laws governing burials and explaining them as he read them. He quoted interpretations of the law to show that graves are only such in ground as to make a burial place and that a body buried in a place not dedicated as a cemetery is not buried in a grave. He therefore holds that the removal of the bones of Indians or of early day travelers across the plains is not grave desecration. According to the judge the Indians used the hill as a burial ground and the white man invaded this country and that pioneers brought to the gold lands of California buried their dead on the hill.

Forty-Three Years Old. Prospect Hill cemetery was surveyed in 1865 and clear title to the land given Byron Reed. Mr. Reed then notified the friends and relatives of those recently buried there that they could secure title to the lots, but, according to Judge Baldwin, few availed themselves of the privilege.

"The law says that a grave cannot be opened and the body moved unless consent first be obtained from the relatives of the deceased. How in God's name can consent be obtained from the relatives of some Indian buried 100 years ago?" asked Judge Baldwin. "Bones that have been removed have been the bones of Indians. I can prove this to you by showing tomahawks and scalping knives we have found with these bones."

Prior to the convening of the council Judge Baldwin said he wished the ordinance governing cemeteries and burials amended to allow the removal of bones of unknown persons instead of being compelled to fill up a grave in case bones were found. He made no reference to this in his address and no action was taken by the council.

OPIUM FISHING THE LATEST

Pastime Engages Three Youthful Prisoners Until Sheriff Bratley Discovers It.

Fishing for opium through a hole in the window screen is a pastime enjoyed by three youthful prisoners at the county jail. Sheriff Bratley now has possession of the rope, two tobacco sacks and a knife which made up the tackle outfit of the boys. One of the tobacco sacks was half full of opium.

The anglers were Louis Zimmer, Clyde Zink and James Mann, all of them just over 18 years of age. They were convicted of robbing a Greek boarding car on the Union Pacific. At the request of Judge Sears they were placed by themselves, the east solitary being placed at their disposal. Friday clerk in the office of the district clerk saw a rope dangling from a hole in the screen and Monday they reported it to the jail authorities. A search of the cell disclosed that the boys had made the rope from strips of blanket cut with a knife they had secured in some mysterious way. They punched a hole through the heavy screen and tied their tobacco sacks on the end of the rope. Someone on the outside had evidently filled the sacks with opium. When found one of the sacks was half full of the drug.

Judge Sears gave the boys a light sentence of thirty days about a week ago and requested that they be isolated from the hardened criminals.

HOMELESS CHILDREN PLEAD

Motherless and with Drunken Father, They Ask Court for Succor. Left motherless last December when her mother committed suicide by drowning and practically fatherless, Margaret and Gertrude Wheeler made a pitiful appearance in juvenile court Monday. They have been living with their father at the home of Mrs. Mary Herbst in South Omaha, but Mrs. Herbst objects to the drinking habits of their father and refused to have him around any longer. After hearing the case, Judge Estelle returned the children to Mrs. Herbst and the father was told to find a lodging place elsewhere.

Harry Royce had trouble Saturday night with his father who, it is asserted, had been drinking and his father turned him over to the police who in turn transferred him to the juvenile authorities. No complaint was filed against him and Judge Estelle allowed him to go home. One complaint his father made was that the boy swore.

"Do you ever swear, Harry?" as Judge Estelle. "I did swear once, Judge," the boy replied. Judge Estelle gave him a talk, advising him to be lenient with the weakness of his father.
