AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

City to Be in Sore Straits for Funds Before Close of Fiscal Year.

CLOSE SAILING FOR NEXT YEAR

Last Administration Used Up Balance Turned Over to It and Left a Deficit in Most Funds as a Legacy.

The republican administration is confronted with a serious financial problem both for the balance of this fiscal year, ending July 3, and for next year. The monthly statement of the city clerk, issued yesterday, showed that all the funds except the fire fund, water fund and the interest fund, would be completely exhausted by July 1. These three funds will have a small balance left. The charter makes it a serious offense to create a deficit in any fund, and subjects the offenders to full liability for all such deficits. The judgment of the administration is forced to assume the results of the reckless expenditures of its predecessor at a time so late in the year that in many funds there was no chance for retrenchment. The light fund will be $5,000 short. The general fund will be $2,500 short at the least. The judgment fund has been entirely exhausted, with many unpaid judgments hanging over the city. Last year the city had a balance of $49,864 at the end of the year and during the year $170,567.51 has been collected, so the city has had $226,431.51 available. Up to the present date the expenditures have been $183,832.42, an average of $18,383.24 per month. Owing to the fact that certain accounts are paid semi-annually the actual average will be above $20,000 per month. At the end of the present year, therefore, practically nothing will be left as a balance. The sewerage collections, which have been used during several years to boost the city funds, have now been exhausted. This means that the city will have not more than $100,000 available from all sources to run the city next year. The levy is soon to be made, but the city charter limits the money which may be raised in this manner to about $125,000. This will be covered by general collections to about $100,000. The present year's expense will be about $230,000 in comparison. This means that next year must be one of strictest economy in every department.

The city attorney announced his policy yesterday of preventing the boosting of the city funds and Mayor Koutsky declared that from all appearances there was no money at hand with which to boost the funds.

Much confusion has existed in the public mind as to the power of the city council to levy city taxes. It has been repeatedly charged, lately, that the republican administration would raise the valuation of the city property and also increase 1/2% levy. This is impossible under the charter limitations. The tax commissioner may raise the assessment easily, but just in proportion as the valuation is raised the levy will be lowered. The result will be the greatest amount of money which may be levied in a city of the same class as South Omaha is $125,000. This has been regularly levied for the last four years. The difference in the levy has depended entirely on the valuation which one tax commissioner or another saw fit to place on the city property.

Two Residences Robbed.

The residence of Frank E. Bliss, Twenty-seventh and E, and that of John Sullivan, Twenty-fifth and F streets, were entered by burglars Thursday night. Both were entered in a similar manner, through a window. The burglar in the Sullivan residence ransacked in each case, but fortunately nothing of great value was missed. The man had entered through a rear window and had lighted his way by striking matches. These were found scattered all over the floors. Morgan Heafey, who lives next door to Sullivan's residence, found by a lens of a dark lantern in his yard early yesterday morning. It had evidently been torn off the lantern in some manner. During the night three police officers were on duty in that neighborhood and in some manner the burglar eluded them all.

Boy Injured Near Viaduct.

It is reported that a boy named Edward Walsh, living near Millard, was injured while on his way home yesterday morning at Forty-fourth and Q streets. He and a neighbor boy were riding in an open buggy and just as they came to the West Q viaduct a farmer named Joseph Marcelline was driving a large bunch of cattle over the viaduct. They were considerably frightened and crowded badly in the road at the east approach, where the boys were waiting. When the cattle arrived opposite they pushed the light buggy off the grade in a sort of stampede and upset it. The Walsh boy received several scalp wounds and three ribs were broken where he was stepped on by one of the steers. The other boy was not seriously hurt. The farmer secured the right of way where he could get medical assistance and in the afternoon drove him to his home. The accident occurred about 10 a. m.

Sunday Services.

The Young Men's Christian association will hold its second street meeting Sunday evening at the corner of Twenty-fourth and M streets at 7:30. One hundred men attended the street meeting last Sunday. The meeting was under the direction of Mr. Andreasen. Rev. George Van Winkle will conduct the meeting Sunday evening. After the street meeting the association will give a sacred concert at the same place. Everyone is welcome to attend these services.

Boys Break Into School.

John Becker, John Kudna and John Matka, three boys of about 11 years of age, have been taken in charge by the juvenile authorities for having broken into the Brown Park school building Friday evening. They ransacked the building and secured a lot of pencils and lighter school supplies. They were surprised by the janitor, who succeeded in catching Becker. Becker confessed and implicated the other two boys. The parents of the latter sent them to jail Saturday morning, where the juvenile authorities took them in charge. One of the boys has been arrested for similar work twice before and another once. It is likely they may have to serve a term in the state reformatory.

Magie City Gossip.

Mr. John Hedges sent the P. E. O. society at his country residence this afternoon. The threatening weather last night reduced the attendance at the South Omaha Country club dance. The South Omaha Country club base ball team will play the Barker's team this afternoon at the club grounds. The Independent Order of Odd Fellows "Preston" lodge will give a cream social last night after the choir rehearsal. Paul McDonald of the Omaha Packing company has gone on a business trip of three weeks through the eastern states. Alice, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Haney, died Thursday. The burial was yesterday afternoon at Bellevue. The following births were reported recently:

IT'S ALL IN YOUR EYE

How the Sun Has Fascinated Astronomers Which None of Them Has Ever Seen.

The great ball of fire which we call the sun is not really the sun. No one has ever seen the sun. A series of concentric shells envelope a nucleus of which we know absolutely nothing except that it must be almost infinitely hotter than the fiercest furnace, and that it must amount to more than nine-tenths of the solar mass. That nucleus is the real sun, forever hidden from us. The outermost of the enveloping shells is about five thousand miles thick, and is called the "chromosphere." It is a gaseous flood, tinted with the scarlet glare of hydrogen, and so furiously active that it spurts up great tongues of glowing gas ("prominences") to a height of thousands of miles. Time was when this agitated sea of crimson fire could be seen to advance only during an eclipse; now special instruments are used which enable astronomers to study it in the full glare of the sun. Beyond the chromosphere, far beyond the prominences even, lies the nebulous pallid "corona," visible only during the vanishing moments of a total eclipse aggregating not more than seven days in a century. No one has ever satisfactorily explained how the highly attenuated matter composing both the prominences and the corona is supported without falling back into the sun under the pull of solar gravitation. Now that Archimedes has comically applied the effects of light-pressure a solution is presented.

How difficult it is to account for such delicate streamers as the "prominences" on the sun is better comprehended when we fully understand how intensely powerful is the grip of solar gravitation. If the sun were a habitable globe and you would transport yourself to its surface, you would find yourself pulled down so forcibly by gravitation that you would weigh two tons, assuming that you are an ordinary human being. Your clothing alone would weigh more than one hundred pounds. Baseball could be played in a solar drawing-room; for there would be some difficulty in throwing a ball more than thirty feet. Tennis would be degraded to a form of outdoor ping-pong. From these considerations it is plain that gravitation on the sun would tend to prevent the formation of any lambent streamers and to pull down to its surface masses of any size.—Waldemar Kaempfert, in Harper's Magazine for June.

MAKING SALAD DRESSINGS

Two Tested Recipes, with Full Directions for Putting Them Together.

No matter how perfect the ingredients used in making a salad may be unless the accompanying dressing is well made and one that combines agreeably the result will inevitably prove disappointing. The variations modern tastes and ingenuity have wrought upon the old-fashioned dressing may safely be called legion, yet the most of these are decidedly more pleasant to read about than to eat, and the woman unversed in the making of salad dressings will wisely restrict her first efforts to the simplest of recipes. There are many excellent manufactured salad dressings upon the market, but the best of these falls far short of a perfect dressing made at home that it is well worth while for the home chef to become adept in making them and especially so when such knowledge is easily acquired.

Some very pleasing and tested recipes are the following:

Boiled Dressing No. 1—Mix together one teaspoonful each of salt, sugar and celery salt, a tablespoonful each of sugar and olive oil or butter and three eggs. Beat all together until perfectly smooth, then pour in gradually, continuing to beat, a cupful of sour milk or cream. Set this over a perfect boiling water on a small double boiler and beat in rapidly half a cupful of hot vinegar. Stir and cook until as thick as custard, but do not allow it to boil. Remove from the fire and when cold pour into small sealers, cover tightly and keep in a cold place.

Boiled Dressing No. 2—Mix together one teaspoonful each of salt, sugar and pepper and half a teaspoonful of mustard, add the yolks of two eggs and beat hard until they are light, then pour in gradually one cupful of sweet milk and place over a kettle of boiling water. Beat rapidly and add the yolks of two eggs and beat hard until they are light, then pour in gradually one cupful of sweet milk and place over a kettle of boiling water. Beat rapidly and add the yolks of two eggs and beat hard until they are light, then pour in gradually one cupful of sweet milk and place over a kettle of boiling water.

SMART, BUT FREAKISH COATS

Lace and Lingerie in Vogue for Those Who Can Afford Them.

Empire coat effects with long coat tails reaching almost to the ground are seen in some of the imported models, the frock sketched in the cut, with its elaborate arrangement of heavily embroidered grosgrain, being a case in point.

Along with these freakish short coats comes every imaginable variety of long, draped coat, paletot and directoire cut-away.

Lace coats and coats of lingerie and lace are as smart as ever for those who can afford handsome things of the kind, and there are occasionally transparent coats of net which achieve distinction without great elaboration. Such a net coat as that of the picture in heavy, coarse, but soft net of emerald green, finished with green fringe at the bottom and with an openwork strap arrangement of green satin and satin buttons on the front, would be charming over sheer white, and the same model might be carried out in any coloring.

Such coats in green, blue, chameleon, rose, etc., covered with self-tone soutache, are particularly fancied in Paris, with skirts of neutral tone, soft gray or biscuit or white and black, but this idea has not so far been exploited here, being reserved, no doubt, for the real summer season.

Cherry Salad.

Purchase a can of large, sweet cherries, remove the stones (using a new wire hair-pin, insert in the cavity, hasten it up or Siberia). Serve on lettuce leaves, with shredded oranges and dressing made with lemon juice in the place of vinegar. A can will serve eight people.

SEMINARY HAS NEW COURSE

Omaha Institution Will Train Lay Members for Christian Work.

FIRST TO MAKE THE MOVE. New Policy Contemplates Ultimate Enlargement in Faculty and Establishment of Large Adjunct to Seminary.

A change in the course of study destined to establish an important bible work institution in Omaha was planned by the committee on curriculum of the Omaha Theological seminary at its meeting yesterday. The seminary will make available its courses and facilities for lay evangelists, Young Men's Christian association secretaries, Sunday school teachers and others eager for full bible training for effectual christian work.

This contemplates ultimately an enlargement in the faculty and facilities of the seminary which will result in the establishment of a large and important bible work school in connection with the seminary. For one year the present faculty, it is believed, will be able to care for this additional work, though it will impose heavy burdens upon each member.

This action represents an innovation, as no other Presbyterian seminary of the country has yet taken up such work in exactly this form. President Lowrie and his associates in the faculty believe the change will produce the most beneficial results and vastly increase the usefulness of the seminary.

Rev. Charles A. Mitchell of the curriculum committee made this statement of the new policy: Our idea is to bring the lines of study up to the practical needs of the age. The new work will be placed in operation as speedily as the faculty can devise ways and means, and will be carried into execution with every facility possible. It would not be correct to say the new course is to be supplementary for that reason that the lay students will be given as full training in certain branches as are given to the regular students. Of course we shall have to confine the new courses to the English lines, but in history and other studies, we shall give as complete attention to the lay students as to those who are preparing for the ministry. And then we shall add Christian sociology and some other branches that will be of practical advantage to anyone who wants training for useful Christian service."

OBJECTION TO DAHLMAN BAND

Union Musicians File Protest on Its Being Taken to Democratic Convention.

Some time ago the local musicians' union entered a protest with Mayor Dahlman against the playing of the Dahlman Democracy nonunion band at the Denver democratic convention, in competition with the union musicians of Denver, almost all of whom will participate. At the meeting of the Central Labor union Friday night a member of the Dahlman club was present and asked the acquiescence of the central body in the band's participation. Concluding that it had no jurisdiction in the matter at present, the central body referred the matter to the local musicians' union for an opinion of the union musicians of the city, which will be given at the next meeting of the Central Labor union.

A heated discussion was had by several of the members in reference to an article appearing some time ago in one of Omaha's evening papers, purporting to be a statement made by one of the members of the Central Labor union, Louis V. Gure, who claimed that the recent organization of the Railway Employees' Protective association would ask for the co-operation of the Central Labor union, the hall rent for the meetings of which, it charged, was paid for by the railroad companies and that the members of the new organization were coerced by railway officials. Several members of the Central Labor union are members of the Railway Employees' Protective association and all took exception to the articles and the charges contained therein, asserting they were not true, and stating that the new organization among the railway employees was for political purposes only to better the conditions of the railway employees. "Tony" Donabus, president of the machanicists' union led the fight for the new organization, while Louis Gure, D. J. Keenan and others claimed that they could substantiate the charges.
