The city is in mourning for the recent deaths from the typhoid fever epidemic, and is watching with suspense the outcome of the several critical cases resulting from the disease. The epidemic was due to a banquet served by the men of the Methodist church on the evening of April 14. Sixty-three people sat down to the meal, and of the total number fifty-seven were stricken with typhoid fever. Five deaths have already occurred, and there are now four or five others who are lying at death's door.

Seven per cent on sums of $100 and over

This company owns one hundred grain elevators in Iowa and Nebraska, and large terminal elevators in Omaha, Mc-Cook and Missouri Valley. It owns and controls the Updike Lumber and Coal Co., the Updike Milling Co. and the Updike Commission Co., of Omaha, also valuable real estate and other property. Its assets and resources at the end of its last fiscal year amounted to $1,686,061.88.

The Updike Grain company of Omaha, offers $200,000 of its oumulative preferred stock, bearing seven per cent interest in shares of $100 each, to the people of Omaha and Nebraska. This stock is secured by the entire assets of the company, its hundred grain elevators and the land on which they stand; its great terminal elevators in Omaha, McCook and Missouri Valley, and the valuable land on which they stand, side tracks, etc., its lumber and coal yards and stock on hand, and large flour mill plant, all in the city of Omaha; its grain in elevators and in transit, and other personal and real property valued at more than

One and one-half million dollars

The interest on this preferred stock must be paid before any dividends can be declared or paid on any of the common stock. This $200,000 of preferred stock is offered first to the people of Omaha and Nebraska for two reasons. A large sum of ready cash is needed each year to move the crops of these two states. The west has plenty of money, much of it idle in banks, drawing no interest. The Updike Grain Co. prefers to borrow western money to move the crops of the west. Its second reason for offering stock to home people is that it wants to establish closer relations with them. A common interest will prove profitable to all concerned. Write for further information.
