

Mother's Milk Carries the Laxative With It

No need to give Cascarets direct to the baby. If the mother takes them, baby gets the benefit.

This vegetable laxative conveys its full effect to the mother's milk.

So one candy tablet, taken when needed, keeps both mother and baby well.

No other laxative is gentle enough for a baby. No other acts so naturally. Use Cascarets alone.

Any person living largely on milk must have the help of a laxative. Milk fails to supply the laxative effects that other foods supply.

So nursing mothers all need Cascarets

—to make the baby's food gently laxative.

Cascarets have the same effect as laxative foods would have. They are as harmless as food.

That is not true of any other laxative that the world has yet produced.

Cascarets are candy tablets. They are sold by all druggists, but never in bulk. Be sure to get the genuine, with C.C.C. on every tablet. The box is marked like this:

NOTES ON OMAHA SOCIETY

Ladies' Day at Clubs Will Be Popular This Week.

MANY OMAHANS GOING ABROAD

Several Will Sail from New York This Week—Sunday Night Suppers Well Patronized at the Clubs.

The old time popularity of the luncheon parties at the clubs is being revived, the Field club having about all the reservations that can be taken care of, for Tuesday, the first ladies' day of the week. The largest luncheon Tuesday will be given by Mrs. Charles L. Sherman, who will have about fifty guests. Among the other hostesses for Tuesday will be Miss Howland and Mrs. Boyer, Mrs. G. T. Glacimont and Mrs. G. J. Ingwerson.

Mrs. F. R. Hochstetler will be hostess at luncheon Wednesday at the Country club for Mrs. Roy Douglas of Pittsburgh, who is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Moorhead.

Mrs. Edgar Scott will be one of the hostesses at luncheon Wednesday at the Country club.

For Mr. and Mrs. Eastman.
Mr. and Mrs. Ward Burgess gave a dinner party Monday evening at the Country club in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Eastman of Evanston, Ill., who are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Kountze. The table was decorated with garden flowers and covers were laid for eighteen guests.

Mrs. Eastman will again be honor guest Friday afternoon when Mrs. Samuel Burns Jr., will entertain at bridge.

At the Country Club.
Among those who entertained at Sunday night luncheon at the Country club were Mr. O. C. Redick, who had four guests; Mr. E. S. Westbrook, four; Mr. E. T. Swobe, six; Mr. Colpeter, two; Mr. W. A. Redick, three; G. W. Van Brunt, two; W. A. Paxton, two; Farnam Smith, seven; A. P. Guilo, two; C. E. Spens, six and William Waller, six.

Week-End Gatherings.

Miss Lois Francisco was hostess at an informal luncheon at her home, 108 North Twenty-second street, South Omaha, Saturday afternoon, the guests being members of the Humaway club. Miss Cora Barclay and Miss Stella Butler won prizes. Photographs were taken of the club members and will be kept as souvenirs.

Burt Miner gave a dinner and sailing party Sunday evening at the Boat club at Lake Manawa in honor of Miss Venus O'Neill and Mr. Will Bowles, whose wedding will take place Wednesday. In the party were: Miss Venus O'Neill, Miss Edna Hunter, Miss Mabel Ward, Clinton, Ia., Mr. Will Bowles, Mr. Jack Palmer and Mr. Burt Miner.

Mrs. Ed P. Berryman entertained at an informal afternoon Kensington Monday at her home, 137 South Twenty-eighth street. A decoration of garden flowers was used and the afternoon spent with needle work.

Come and Go Gossip.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Blackwell left Monday for Chicago, from where Mrs. Blackwell will go on to New York City to meet her mother, Mrs. Whitcomb, who will return June 27 on the Campania from London, Eng., where she has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Blackwell will spend three or four weeks in New York City before returning home.

Miss Mabel Debridge of St. Louis, who has been visiting friends in Omaha and Council Bluffs for several weeks, will leave Saturday for her home.

Informal Affairs.

Miss Gertrude Moorhead entertained informally Monday at an afternoon tea for her sister, Mrs. Roy Douglas of Pittsburgh, Penn., who, with her two children, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Moorhead.

BEST PRICE FOR TRADE BEEF

Trainload Brings Nearly $20,000 at South Omaha.

HUNDRED AND FIFTY-ONE HEAD

Local Market is Paying Higher Prices Than Any Other Market in the Entire West.

The most remarkable sale of beef cattle ever recorded on the South Omaha market was Monday morning.

Out of a whole trainload of cattle, 151 head, nine cars aggregating 121 head, sold at $4 straight. The other twenty sold for $3.80.

James H. Hughes of Fairbury, sold the cattle through the firm of Alma Jackson & Son to the Cudahy Packing company.

The 151 head weighed 1,200, and the other twenty, 1,150. The bunch of big ones weighed all told 210,770 pounds, and they brought $18,852.32. The other twenty weighed 27,000 pounds and yielded $4,000.

"This sale is the record sale for a whole bunch of cattle," said W. B. Cheen. "Not one steer was separated from the herd and the shipment was made direct to the market, seeking no favors. The only time when the price was exceeded was in 1902, during the Christmas holiday season. Then a load of prize winners from the stock show of that year sold for $3.15. They were sought for advertising purposes, largely."

Always is Successful.

Mr. Hughes has been feeding cattle at Fairbury for the last ten years and has been uniformly successful. He started in with a small capital and little land. Now he has plenty of both. With the sale made Monday morning he will be able to buy another farm if he wishes.

The prices in general at the Omaha market are better than at any of the western towns. The cattle market is high on account of the scarcity of good beef cattle. This condition probably will hold until the grass-fed cattle arrive in latter July. Mr. Hughes says it has been his plan to buy in the middle of the feeder season when the prices are apt to be most favorable to the purchaser and feed his cattle carefully, but on pretty rough fare until early spring, when the warm weather begins. Then he puts them on corn and finishes them off in sixty to ninety days for the later period of corn-fed stock, when they are growing scarce on the market.

Appearances Were Deceitful.

"One day down in Texas," said a civil engineer, "I was sitting on the porch of my hotel with a fresh youngster from the north. On his right sat a plain old man smoking a cob pipe with the kernels left on it."

"Ya gods," said my friend, "what do you think of that for nerve. Sitting right up against a gentleman and puffing his old dogs right in my face. Here, you, clear out with that pipe. Move clear over on the other side so the smoke won't blow this way. You are making a nuisance of yourself."

"All right," said the old man meekly. "I'll move."

"He did so," John, said, "do you know what that old gentleman is you talked to like that?"

"None, don't know and don't care."

"That is the governor of Texas." It really was.—New York Times.

Home Comforts for Girls Who Live Alone

There is no need of your living alone and missing all those little things that make up the sum of a woman's happiness and comfort. It's all wrong for a girl to live that way, and there's no occasion for it. Plenty of nice people would be glad to have you live with them—folks who have real homes where you can feel as though you "belong" and are "one of the family."

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Council Will Have the Jail Problem to Wrestle with Tonight.

CONTRACTORS FIGURE ON WORK

Situation is Becoming Acute, as Police Judge Will Sentence No More Prisoners to the Old Jail.

Among the items of importance outside of finances the city council will have to grapple again with the city jail problem. Bids are to be received tonight for the repair of the jail. It is understood that a number of companies are bidding for the work. The Paxon & Veiling iron works a week ago had an informal bid. C. L. Carpenter, a local contractor, is also in the field. It will cost between $90 and $100 to put the jail in shape. The police department is becoming more insistent in its demand that better and more sanitary quarters be provided at once. The old jail has such a weak wall that any prisoner of ingenuity could easily break it in an hour unless locked in the steel cage. Various attempts have been made recently and lacked little of being successful.

The police judge has given notice that he will sentence no more prisoners to the present jail, but if the case demands attention he will sentence the prisoners to the county jail. Ordinary drunks probably will be uniformly dismissed. This state of affairs will be impressed on the city council, but it is well known that the administration and all the councilmen are doing everything they can to advance the work and complete the repairs.

In respect to finances, the city council will have to arrange for the payment of the assessors and deputies of the tax commissioner. Their work is now completed.

Children's Day Services.

Three South Omaha churches, at least, gave services yesterday in special observance of children's day. The Presbyterian and Baptist churches held their services Sunday evening. Both houses were crowded in spite of the lowering weather. The children presented all of the program in each place, with the usual short pastoral address. At the Presbyterian church, under the direction of Mrs. David G. Sturrock, the children presented a flower cantata, "Hearts of Gold." This was appreciated by the audience. The United Presbyterian church had its observance Sunday morning.

Magic City Gossip.

Words that Break Spell of Painful Tension in Police Court.

GRAVE RESULT IN BALANCE

Over Possession of One Soap Box Grim Faces, Tense Nerves and Silent Tongues Await Mighty Decree.

The police court was again converted into an international arbitration board and Carnegie temple of peace Monday morning when the fierce contention which rages between Mrs. Mary Johnson and Mrs. Emma Felke was taken up.

Mrs. Johnson lives at Nineteenth street and Fowler avenue, while Mrs. Felke resides with her husband and children a block away at Nineteenth street and Grand avenue, north of which places are on the bottom north of Ames avenue.

Mrs. Felke, a small woman with a baby in her arms, shrilly inveighed against Mrs. Johnson, who stood with large and stolid German avoirdupois and listened unmoved.

The Johnson-Felke vendetta has smoldered many weeks, but it burst into flames last Friday, when Mrs. Johnson came to the house of Mrs. Felke and accused her of stealing one of soap boxes, the said soap box being the property of Mrs. Johnson.

Mrs. Johnson alleged in court that she came home in her buggy and saw the Felke woman take the box from her property. The box, she said, was accustomed to use as a seat while engaged in milking her cow. When she received the box Mrs. Felke had already crushed it into kindling wood, she said, and never again could it be used as a seat.

Mrs. Felke denied these allegations with scorn. She said she found the soap box on her own lot already in a crushed condition. She said she hadn't set foot on Mrs. Johnson's lot for many months. She wouldn't set foot on it. She didn't want nothing to do with her.

It was a weighty moment in police court when all the testimony was in, such a moment as prevailed in the French assembly when the vote was being taken whether to depose Louis XVI. The pen of the court scratched. What would be the decision? A hundred hearts thumped madly, a hundred heads seemed to burst with the pounding of the blood in 200 temples, strong men gritted their teeth, women clenched their hands until the nails bit into the palms. Would the judge never speak? Would the anxious crowd never know to whom the soap box was to be given?

The pen ceased to scratch. The judge presses a blotter over the words which he has written upon the complaint, those words so portentous. He raises his face, haggard with the depth of his thought. His dry lips part as he speaks.

"Fine 'er B and costs."

Asking Too Much.

At last one of the ushers spoke to her. "Pardon me, madam," he said, "but I must ask you to comply with our rules. Everybody back of you is complaining of your hat. Will you kindly remove it?"

"I'll remove it, sir," she snapped, as she took out the hatpin, lifted the gorgeous creation from her head and laid it in her lap; "but I want you to understand, sir, I don't do it kindly! Not on your life!"

"Thank you, sir," fervently ejaculated the usher, as he bowed and retreated, as the curtain went up.—Chicago Tribune.
