VOLUME OF DEALINGS SMALL Values Decline Slightly on Rumor OMAHA June 15, 1898.

Moderate rains were general during the last twenty-four hours in Nebraska, Kansas and the mountain district and continue in the inter this morning. It is raining in the essiern and New England states and rains have fallen throughout the southern slates since the preceding report. Conditions continue decidedly unsettled in the western portion and the outlook is favorable for further showers in this vicinity tonight and Tuesday, with slowly rising temperature. of Adverse Crop Conditions, but Loss is Regnined-Bonds Are Heavy.

NEW YORK, June 15.—With the delegates assembled at Chicago for the opening to-morrow of the republican national convention, attention today centered largely on political matters. The chief effect was to make operators disinclined to enter on market committeents at this time. Much of the discussion in Wall street turned on the prospective form of the platform and such planks as may have to do with questions directly affecting capital and labor. Some attention was given to suggestions of possible surprises in the results of the convention. night and Tuesday, with slowly rising temperature.

Some attention was given to suggestions of possible surprises in the results of the convention.

The total of the day's sales shows a lapse again into something like the duliness that prevailed early last week. The vast importance attached to the outcome of the year's crops is conspicuously seen in the weekly interviews with the railroad officials. This week's views on the subject from that source were hopeful, with the notable exception of chairman of the Great Northern board, who promulgated from Washington the view that the crop prospects held out small hope of bringing into service the freight cars now lying idle in the United States. Traffic officials generally, while speaking confidently of the crop, promise no improvement to report in the tonnage movement and gave no prediction of immediate change in this respect. Confidence in the crop out-turn did not seem to be impaired by reports of need of warmth and sunshine in the southwest where flood damage to property also was mentioned.

where flood damage to property also was mentioned.

Money continued to work easy in New York in response to the addition to reserves shown by Saturday's bank statement, the cossation of gold outflow and continued gain of cash by the banks on sub-treasury operations. Notwithstanding the further accumulations in bank reserves the investment demand for bonds is reported less and the bond market is showing the effect of the large additions to supply through recent new issues. The sentimental effect of other issues yet to come also is felt. Discount rates receded again in London, but were inclined to harden at continental money centers. Paris again took all the weekly gold supply available in London in soite of a volume of gold holdings by the Bank of France at present which has passed all previous records for that institution and which has reached the largest amount of any single accumulation of gold in the world. Banking and financial centers are giving growing conjecture to the policy which methods and in allies. LONDON, June lh.—American securities opened steady today. Price changes during the early trading were irregular, ranging from a decline of $\frac{1}{2}$ in Pennsylvania to an advance of $\frac{1}{2}$ in Pennsylvania to an advance of $\frac{1}{2}$ in Union Pacific.

The movement of stock prices was almost a repetition of that of Saturday. Declines of the first hour were slowly recovered and the day's changes were brivial.

Bonds were heavy. Total sales, par value, $11,75,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Number of sales and quotations on stocks were as follows:

LONDON, June 15.—Money was pientiful on the market today and discounts were steady. The continental demand for gold continues. Paris securing the bulk of the $3,250,090 offered in the open market. On the Stock exchange the leading departments manifested a firmer tone, the rally in Wall street inspiring a more hopeful feeling, but dealings were restricted. Later an easier tendency set in. Gilt edged shares were maintained, consols hardened and foreigners were quiet. American securities received support early in the day helping to create a beneficial influence on the market. A reaction occurred hier on the receipts of New York opening quotations and the market finished above the worst prices of the day.

Cows and heifers were also in very good demand, the trade being active, with prices generally lie higher than last week. The offerings were pretty much all taken in good season in the morning.

The few stockers and feeders on sale brought prices that looked just about steady with last week.

tion is not supported by the pleadings. 18701. Speece against Shores. Appeal, Custer. Affirined. Duffle, C. Division No. I.

Moses Shores first lived and cohabited with Fannie Shores, and there was born to them Jeremiah Shores, the appellant herein. He next cohabited with Hannah Webb: she also departed this life in 1855, and to them was born Josiah Webb, whose estate is in controversy herein, and Moses Speece, now deceased. After the death of Hannah Webb, Moses Shores cohabited with Patsy Davis, and there was born to them John Wesley Shores, Mary Hauser and Elizabeth Stimpson. Patsy Davis departed this life in 1855 or 1866. The above parties were all slaves, living in the state of North Carolina, where Hannah Webb and Patsy Davis died.

In North Carolina slaves could neither legally marry nor own or inherit property. After the close of the civil war Moses Shores and Fannie Shores lived and cohabited together as husband and wife, and afterwards moved to the state of Indiana, where they beth died. Josiah Webb moved to Custer county, in this state, where he died, leaving as his estate the land in controversy herein. Jeremiah Shores claims the estate or an interest therein as a half brother of the deceased, the full brother of the deceased, claim an interest in the estate, and John Wesley Shores. Mary Hauser and

1. Statutes giving fees are to be construed strictly and are not to be extended by implication. Where a compaint is filed against several parsons, the same fees should be charged as if there were but a single defendant until demand is made for separate trials, and then fees should only be charged for such eatyn duties as are necessarily caused by such separation.

1. A police judge sued under the provisions of section 34, chapter 28, Comp. Stat, for taking excessive fees, may not justify the taking of such fees by showing that he acted under the direction of the prosecuting attorney. prosecuting attorney.
18164. Goozee against Grant. Appeal,
Lincoln. Affirmed. Duffle. C. Division

Lincoln. Affirmed. Duffie, C. Division No. 1.

1. Where the owner of two contiguous lots of land conveys one of such lots to A. and subsequently conveys the other lot to B. and a controversy arises between A and B concerning the boundary line between the two lots, A connot, for the purpose of establishing title by adverse possession against B. tack his own possession to that of the common granter.

2. The owner of four lots built a fence around what he supposed was lot 1 and 2; and erected a dwelling house in about the center of the said lots, in which he lived for about twenty years. He then sold and conveyed lots 1 and 1 to the defendant, and afferwards said and conveyed lots 3 and 4 to the plaintiff. The evidence disclosed that the fence built by the former owner included a part of lot 2. Heid, that plaintiff was not estapped to claim so much of lot 3 as was enclosed by the fence, no representation having been made to the defendant when she made her purchase that the fence all not include hand other than lots I and 2.

By using the various departments or The tions.

2. In determining the effect of a pleading this court will give it a liberal construction whenever such pleading is attacked for the first time in this court, or where the parties go to trial in the lower court, without objection upon a pleading thus assailed.

3. The petition shows upon its face that the notes such on were barred by the former owner included a part of lot 2 as was enclosed that the fence built by the former owner included a part of lot 2 as was enclosed by the fence, no representation have alleged the bar of the statute as a defense. In reply the plaintiff alleges matters in avoid ance of the defense pleaded. Hold, in this state of the pleadings appellant cannot at small expense.
