but After That War Sanders Holds Them

Omaha. 2; Sloux City, L. One inning sufficed for Omaha to make nough runs to win from Sloux City Wednesday afternoon by the store of 3 to It was another case where the gambler would have won on the proposition "that the winning team would make more runs in one inning than the loser would make n the entire game."

Ducky Holmes and his rejuvenated Sloux came to Omaha on a rain cloud and confidently whispered it around that they intended to keep up the winning streak they had started on the Grisslies at Sloux City. They said they were no respecters of leaders or percentage tables, but intended to put Omaha back a few holes. Their totention was good, but their execution was

Pa Rourke heard of these dire threats which had been made around the Merchants notel, where the Sieux stopped, and after a consultation with Captain Franck decided to send the veteran War Sanders to the hilltop to stop the rush of the Sloux. Sanders took his point of vantage and headed off every rush they made. Ducky started the first rush in the first round by making a hit. One was out and Weed hit the ball to Franck, who had a splendid chance to make a double play. but instead he muffed the grounder and both were safe. That gave Jack Henry much encouragement, so he soaked a hard one through Sanders, letting Ducky trot home. That was all Bloux City made in that inning or in any lening, a fast double play ending the game. It was just the sort of double Franck had a chance to start earlier in the inning before a run was

For all the weather man admits it has rained about thirty days out of the last month the rain has interfered with but one game on the home grounds during that Wednesday the grounds were in the worst shape they have been this year. This did not stop the fans who ventured out in the good games of the season. Sanders held the Sioux to four hits and did not issue a pass or hit a man. McKsy did about as well for six innings, but in the seventh he was bumped for four hits, two which might have been prevented if the ground had been dry. Two were bunts Niehoff, 3b over the infielder's head. Weich ran up an Belden's bunt, which went safe just over his hend, the long third-sacker being unable

Omaha made all its runs in the seventh inning, the lucky seventh. It had begun to Bomer look as though Sanders was to lose another I to 8 game, as McKay was working strong and had a lead of one run. Franck opened the inning with a clean sonk and Belden. pulled off that freak bunt over Welch's Waldron, of head, Gonding advanced them each a base Reiden. Autrey had made three hits during 1.800 the same and none had counted in the run getting. He now had a chance to drive from McKay to Severeid.
