

THE OMAHA DAILY BEE.

FOUNDED BY EDWARD ROSEWATER.

VICTOR ROSEWATER, EDITOR.

Entered at Omaha Postoffice as second-class matter.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:
Daily Bee (without Sunday), one year, $4.00
Daily Bee and Sunday, one year, $5.00
Sunday Bee, one year, $2.50
Saturday Bee, one year, $1.50
DELIVERED BY CARRIER
Daily Bee (including Sunday), per week, 15c
Daily Bee (without Sunday), per week, 10c
Evening Bee (without Sunday), per week, 5c
Evening Bee (with Sunday), per week, 10c
Address all complaints of irregularities in delivery to City Circulation Department.

OFFICES:
Omaha—The Bee Building,
South Omaha—City Hall Building,
Council Bluffs—10 Scott Street,
Lincoln—106 Marquette Building,
New York—Room 3112, No. 51 West
Thirtieth Street,
Washington—14 Fourteenth Street N. W.

CORRESPONDENCE:
Communications relating to news and editorial matter should be addressed: Omaha Bee, Editorial Department.

REMITTANCES:
Remit by draft, express or postal order payable to The Bee Publishing Company, 15 1/2-cent stamps received in payment of all accounts. Personal checks, except on Omaha or eastern exchanges, not accepted.

STATEMENT OF CIRCULATION:
Of Nebraska, Douglas County, as shown by the report of the publisher, George E. Tschuck, sworn to before me this 29th day of June, 1908, and the actual number of full and complete copies of the Omaha Daily Bee published during the month of May, 1908, was as follows:
1. Total number of copies, 36,520
2. Paid for circulation, 17,000
3. Free of charge, 19,520
4. Paid for circulation, 17,000
5. Free of charge, 19,520
6. Paid for circulation, 17,000
7. Free of charge, 19,520
8. Paid for circulation, 17,000
9. Free of charge, 19,520
10. Paid for circulation, 17,000
11. Free of charge, 19,520
12. Paid for circulation, 17,000
13. Free of charge, 19,520
14. Paid for circulation, 17,000
15. Free of charge, 19,520
Totals, 36,520
Less unsold and returned copies, 9,800
Net total, 26,720
Daily average, 863.33
Solely owned and controlled by GEORGE E. TSCHUCK, Treasurer.

Subscribed in my presence and sworn to before me this 29th day of June, 1908.
M. P. WALKER,
Notary Public.

WHEN OUT OF TOWN.

Subscribers leaving the city temporarily should have The Bee mailed to them. Address will be changed as often as requested.

The Nebraska winds enjoy making fun of the Merry Widow hat.

A Kansas railroad is reported to be under water. In Kansas or Wall street?

Congressman Hull announces that he is again afloat on the political sea in Iowa.

No hint has come of a plank in the Denver platform renouncing 16 to 1 free silver.

One Wisconsin family promises to cast thirty votes for Taft. That means "23" for Bryan.

Charge d'Affaires Sleeper was not living up to his name at Caracas when Castro got saucy.

Speaking of the length of dreams, Castro is still deluding himself that he can bluff the United States.

Mr. Bryan evidently has not capitalized his earning capacity for the benefit of the tax roll in Lancaster county.

The British Admiralty predicts that the next war will be on the Pacific. Certainly, between Tacoma and Seattle.

The convention hall at Denver is in a dry ward, but the state has no law against the importation of original packages.

Mr. Taft is remarkably cool, all circumstances considered. He is going to spend his summer vacation at Hot Springs, Va.

A ship has landed a cargo of 9,000,000 lemons at San Francisco. The share looked for Denver consumption next week is not stated.

"If Bryan is defeated in 1908, who will be the democratic nominee for president in 1912?" asks the Charleston News and Courier. Bryan.

"The Russian army is faithful," says the czar. Particularly in the matter of conducting assassination plans emanating from the czar's advisers.

The report that a woman wearing a sheath skirt created a sensation at Atlantic City may be believed by folks who have never visited Atlantic City.

The Denver convention might better its average by nominating Bryan and Parker. Mr. Bryan is just as unpopular in the east as Judge Parker is in the west.

The New York World's query, "What is a democrat?" has been answered by Mr. Taft, who told a Yale class that "Democrat is a mere historical description."

On Monday night Ak-Sar-Ben expects to entertain the military at the Den and, if preparations under way do not miscarry, some of the soldiers will find themselves at sea before the night is over.

Mayor Jim continues at variance with his city council, but this is not especially to be wondered at. One of the characteristics of the democrats is that they never could agree in office or out.

Japan is reported to have bought three Dreadnoughts from Brazil and England to have an option on the rest of the Brazilian navy. Brazil can afford to make enormous appropriations for its navy so long as it can sell its warships at a profit.

THE REVIVING INDUSTRIES.

The midsummer season, usually marked by dullness in all lines of commercial and industrial activity, opens this year with a note of optimism from the big industrial centers which promise a marked revival from the depression which began with last October and has been slow in disappearing. The Carnegie Steel company reports that it has more men at work than at any time since the first of the year and that business is steadily increasing. The Republic Iron and Steel company announces that it will reopen its shops on July 1, with orders enough on hand to keep the full force working for the rest of the year. These two firms have received orders for 240,000 tons of steel bars for the agricultural implement manufacturers. The Frick Coke company has given orders for the construction of 1,000 miners' houses and authorizes the statement that they will all be required for the workmen in its new plants.

Such actual existing facts of business promise within a short time a restoration of normal conditions in all branches of the iron and steel manufacturing industries. The Pennsylvania railroad has ordered all of its freight cars prepared for immediate service because of an increase in freight shipments. The New York Central has put a force at work to get 5,000 freight cars repaired within thirty days and 3,000 men employed in the maintenance department have been put back to work after a lay-off of four months. Other railroad lines in the east are getting ready for heavier business, with a prospect for an exceedingly busy six months during the remainder of the present year.

The most encouraging feature of this revival is its appearance in the summer season of a presidential year. Even the most optimistic prophets have hardly looked for a business uplift before fall. The crop outlook, too, is highly satisfactory and should go far to hastening a fairly full resumption of the currents of production and trade.

VOCATIONAL HIGH SCHOOLS.

With the coming of the new school year an experiment will be tried in New York that will interest boards of education and teachers throughout the country. One of the problems before educators everywhere has been the adoption of some course of study that would result in the larger attendance of pupils in the high schools. Statistics show that something like 70 per cent of our boys and girls end their school work with the graded schools. It is becoming generally accepted that this condition is due to the fact that instruction in most of the high schools is designed to fit pupils for college courses and is not of much practical value to those who must leave schools to earn their own livelihood at an age of from 16 to 18. The need, then, is for some modification of the high school work that will be of special benefit to those who cannot go to college yet who need more preparation for earning a living than the grammar schools afford.

Under the New York plan it is proposed to establish a vocational school with a two years' course as an alternative to the high school. The studies will be selected with a view to enabling the pupils to earn their living. The boys will be taught metal work, carving, mechanical designing and technical work in some of the better paid trades. The girls will be given instruction in elementary household arts, dressmaking and millinery. The new courses will be designed to adapt the teaching to the needs of the pupils. It will have the essential elements of a public trade school. Superintendent Maxwell of the New York schools has been led to undertake this experiment because of the eagerness of many pupils in the New York High schools to attend night schools in which the elements of the trades were taught. Every school of that kind that has been opened has been overcrowded from the first and several such schools in process of construction have already received applications for admissions that will tax their capacity.

Boys and girls who must go to work at 16 or 17 years of age far outnumber those who can afford a college course and the effort to equip this majority with better facilities for their future as wage earners is worthy of encouragement everywhere.

THE LIVE STOCK COMMISSION MEN.

The convention of the National Live Stock exchange, which has just concluded its sessions at South Omaha, has furnished an excellent illustration of the concrete power of organized business. An outgrowth of the development of the live stock industry, the association is an example of the modern idea in commerce. It has proved its worth many times by the steps it has taken to prevent abuses and to regulate matters within its own scope, so that both the buyer and seller of live stock will be assured of an absolutely square deal.

The men who make up this association are in no sense producers, but they have become a very necessary factor in production. As the live stock and packing industries are now carried on it is almost a physical impossibility for the owner of the animals to handle them personally up to the time they are turned over to the packer. This function is performed by the commission man. It is a business that is carried on almost exclusively "on honor," and the commission man's word is as good as his bond. The local and national organizations have made this so. Whatever else may be true, the rules adopted by the live stock exchanges at the big markets of the country are primarily intended to secure uniform honesty and fair dealing and are rigidly enforced so that both parties to the bargain know that the sale is being made with absolute honesty. The convention just held at Omaha debated a number of matters of great importance to the packing industry of the United States, and while no radical action was taken, the result of these debates will be found in the betterment of conditions. The live stock commission men are in the front rank when it comes to advocacy of improvements in conditions surrounding the food supply of the country. Whether the middleman is soon to be eliminated matters not, but as long as he is a factor in our commerce it is well that he should be of the type represented by the National Live Stock exchange.

TARIFF AND BUSINESS.

Secretary of State Root has taken special pains to make it plain that the American commission recently appointed to go to Paris to consider tariff relations between the United States and the government of France is a commercial and not a political body. It will have nothing to do with the political phases of the tariff dispute, but will direct itself wholly to the obstacles in the way of better trade relations between the two nations. No hint is offered of the use to be made of the report of the commission, but the inference is plain that it will be presented to the new congress to be called immediately after March 4, 1909, to consider revision of the tariff.

Mr. Root evidently has in mind the attitude of congress toward reciprocity treaties negotiated between this country and other nations, under section 3 of the Dingley act, which allows the president to make reciprocal agreements with other countries. Several such agreements have been negotiated, but to secure all the data obtainable to leave them alone until the final adjustment of tariff schedules. The German treaty has been held up in the senate and the French treaty, in way of negotiation, is still pending. The State department has accordingly decided to negotiate no more treaties, but to secure all the data obtainable for use of the new congress at its tariff session.

The tariff plank adopted at Chicago, calling for the adoption of maximum and minimum schedules, opens the way for reciprocity treaties. The maximum and minimum plan is a reciprocal proposition by which a maximum rate is to be assessed against imports from a country that places a high tariff on American products, while the lowest rates are to be imposed on imports from countries that make concessions to the products of American fields and factories. The French have maintained a practical embargo on American meats, while they have been persistent in asking a lower duty on their canned goods, wines and delicatessen products destined for American consumption.

Regardless of the campaign excitement, the French tariff commission and other agencies of the government will be busily employed in the next six or seven months in the collection of data sure to be of much value to the congress of 1909, which will be convened for the sole purpose of considering the subject of tariff revision.

Mr. Bryan's record as a retreatist is now rising up to greet him. One after another of the abandoned positions from free silver to government ownership are being reviewed by the public not to the special advantage of the Peersless. One of the most prominent and attractive features of his review is the comparison between his demand for publicity of campaign contributions and the silence he maintains concerning the slush fund sent into Nebraska four years ago. Consistency may be a jewel, but it was not set in the Bryan diadem.

The ruling of the supreme court on the matter of the state's claim against the pensions of inmates of soldiers' homes is following the precedent established in other states and generally recognized as being just. It was not intended to work any hardship on the pensioners or their families, but, on the contrary, has proven to be of actual benefit to the old soldiers. The effort to make political capital out of this episode will fall when the facts are understood.

District Court Clerk Smith has been upheld in his demand that fees must be paid in full before decrees are made part of the records. This is merely the application of business principles to public business and no litigation should complain. It will also relieve the clerk of a large amount of financial responsibility, which has proven extremely burdensome at times to some of his predecessors.

"Jerry" Sullivan of Iowa announces that Mr. Bryan has put him on "the list of eligibles" for the vice presidential nomination at Denver. That must be a mistake. Mr. Bryan is much opposed to one man running a national convention.

Champ Clark, who is to succeed John Sharp Williams as the leader of the minority in the house of congress, is a much larger man than his predecessor. The word "larger" is used in the physical mood.

Governor Hoke Smith says he is about half-glad he was defeated for re-election in Georgia. His successful opponent will supply the other half of the gladness.

Navy authorities are surprised at the number of deserters from the Pacific fleet since it started on its voyage around the world. Perhaps the men fear their inability to stand the long stage of dinners and receptions.

Richard Croker, writes that he will not return to America because he enjoys life on his stock farm in Ireland. The majority of Americans will hope that he may continue to enjoy life—on his stock farm in Ireland.

Mr. Rockefeller is said to be writing the story of his life. There is no suspicion that he is taking any of the material from the story of his life written by Miss Ida Tarbell.

That chair at the cabinet table that was specially built for Secretary Taft may be set aside until next March and then moved to the head of the table.

Forsaking an Old Friend.

Chicago Tribune.
Times are not what they used to be. Not a week ago the country was so far as we have been able to ascertain, has informed a waiting world this year that "Beyond the Alps lies Italy."

The Annual "Before Taking." Cleveland Leader.
The effort to denature the Fourth of July betrays no signs of weakening, though there is nothing to show that it will be any more successful this year than it was the year after powder was adopted as the favorite disintegration.

Wouldn't This Jar You? Indianapolis News.
While all the discussion concerning the injunction plank is going on, it will be noted that a labor union at Detroit has obtained an injunction against the police. What effect does that have on the political situation?

Dog Day Signals. Louisville Courier Journal.
A barking dog awakened a family in Montegut, Ky., and saved them from death in the flames. But it is a 1,000,000 to 1 shot that when your watchdog is barking as if the house were on fire he is merely calling the dog on the adjoining farm a malefactor.

Useful Hints for Parents. Philadelphia Record.
Those parents who are lucky enough to have unmutated and undisfigured offspring should take joy of beholding them for the next ten days. The Fourth of July is approaching. After the Fourth will follow the usual season of linnets, lockjaw and general dislocation of limbs and lineaments. Very discreet parents will have their children photographed in advance. They will perhaps like to know in the future how babies looked July 5, 1908.

Time Banishes Enmities. New York Sun.
In other days the ideas of Mr. Cleveland and those of the newspaper with regard to many things were notoriously not in accord. This circumstance possibly makes it proper to say now what it will always be pleasant for us to remember, namely, that the personal bicker ceased to exist years ago, and that the Sun has long numbered Grover Cleveland among its constant readers and faithful friends. Peace to the ashes of the good man and great leader, and may the generations hold his name and the memory of his deeds in just and high esteem.

THOROUGHLY ENJOYED HIMSELF President Roosevelt heartily rejoices in his strength. San Francisco Chronicle.
When a friend congratulated the president on his coming vacation on the ground that he must need a rest and had certainly earned it, the president replied that no sympathy need be wasted on him for he had enjoyed every moment of his official life and, in fact, had had "a corking good time."

And he meant every word of it. Few men are physically or intellectually so powerful as the president, and to the strong man nothing is so agreeable as the exercise of his strength. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines to be fearfulness, he calls in some champion boxer and has a bout with him. It is not only his physical strength, and especially his exercise in combat, it is his mental strength, his ability to fight. They prefer that men should not agree with them for the joy they find in hard hitting. If at any time the president has sensations which he imagines