Pennace.

He kissed me-end I know twis wring. For he was neither kith nor kin. Need one do penance very long For such a tiny little sin?

He pressed my hand—that wasn't right.
Why will men have such wicked ways?
If wasn't for a minute quite,
But in it there were days and days.

There's mischief in the moon, I know; I'm positive I saw her wink When I requested him to go; I meant it, too, I almost think.

But, after all, I'm not to blame.

He took the kiss I do think even

Are quite without the sense of shame... I wonder when he'll come again.

The clubs, the Country and the Automobile, all contribute to society's celebration of the Fourth. Of course the Country clubs attracted the largest crowds, but there were many picnic parties of from onto four or five automobiles of congenial spirits that started early in the morning spending the day at quiet spots in the country and returning in time for a dance or two at some of the clubs. Everybody had something on. The little folks received unusual attention and several backelor uncles and aunties, who are very much in demand, gave up the whole afternoon to "shooting off" fire crackers or torpedoes for small nephews and nieces, brothers or sisters. Special features were provided at all the clubs and all were well attended.

The general breaking up that always follows the Fourth has siready commenced and another fortnight will find society scattered for the summer. A half dozen prominent families left last week and as many more will depart this week for summer places or resorts in the mountains, at the lakes or the seashore. Fully a score of houses in the west end have been closed until autumn, while as many country places in the vicinity of Omaha have been opened for the summer occupancy of families that prefer remaining nearer home. Another fortnight and it will be practically impossible to get any one set together. Even the bridge clubs are not meeting regularly and stitutes" for the summer-outnumbered the members present.

An out-of-door fair for the benefit of the Visiting Nurses' association is one of the most promising diversions to which society has to look forward. While the date has not yet been definitely fixed, many of the details have been arranged and the affair is altogether the most pleasing prospect of the near future. It is to be held in the spacious grounds of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Caldwell, on South Twentieth street, and all sorts of amusement will be provided. There will be a brass band, a barn dance in the barn, a vandeville performance and other equally attractive things for the grown-ups, and ponies and a fish pond for the children. Home-made takes and candles and other goodles will be for sale, and the whole affair will be under the direction of some of Omaha's most prominent society women, assisted by a bevy of younger women.

One of the most enjoyable of the weekend parties given in celebration of the Fourth included Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hull. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Guiou, Mr. W. R. McKeen and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cumcars for Sandberg, Neb. They will return Sunday. During their stay a private car and chef were at their disposal on a sidetrack at Sandberg.

WHAT CLUB WOMEN ARE DOING

General Federation May Begin Anti-Divorce Legislation Agitation.

The resolutions on divorce presented by the outlook committee of the General Fed eration of Women's clubs to the Boston blennial promise to afford a definite work ing basis for the women on this much agitated reform. The plan as presented Mr. and Mrs. Glenn D. Lyman have left register their intentions at least a year before they are allowed to marry. Women in the Professions.

The National Academy of Medicine has elected Dr. Helen C. Putnam tresident. Her election is said to have been the result of faithful work and not of wire pulling. At the recent meeting of the American Medical association in Chicago Dr. Juettner of Cincinnati read a paper in which he made the assertion that "a woman has no right to enter any occupation excepting domestic service, nursing, teaching and kindred vocations. Matrimony is the better paid and the easiest occupation. Marriage is simply blocked by the employment of young girls." Dr. Putnam replied by declaring that "every woman has the right to develop her best faculties, to become educated and to enter the business field, where she meets many men, where she can select intelligently the father for her children. Women who have had experience in business have learned that the making of a home requires something more than instinct." It is said that the impression made by this speech has much to do with the election of Dr. Putnam as president of the National Academy of Medicine. W. C. T. U. Announcements. Frances Willard Women's Christian Temperance union will hold a picule for Hanscom park. The women will meet at the pavilion at 2 o'clock.

EXCHANGE

Yankee's "Guessing" Gets the Better of a Southerner's "Reckoning."

It is satisfying to the soul occasionally o return a favor in the same coin. In the following incident, told by Mr. Putnam in his "History of the Twenty-Fifth Massachusetts Regiment," such an exchange took slace, the Yankee's "guessing" getting the etter of the southerner's "reckoning:" Private Anderson was a tall Yankee reruit. On one occasion he was taken prismer in a thick fog. It was his habit to carry a small hatchet in his belt, and one of the first things his captors said to him

"Well. Yank, I reckon we'll take that natchet."

"I suppose you will. Johnny," said Anderson, giving up the weapon. As Anderson was being marched off in order to join the captors' company he noticed that they had completely lost their way in the fog.

"Look here, Johnnies," he remarked, polly. "I was over this ground this very norning; I know where we are and where your men are. I'll show you. Come on!" and he led off.

The confederates followed, and in less than two minutes Anderson had led them into the hands of the federals. They saw the joke, but did not enjoy it. "Now, Johnny," said Anderson, "I guess

I'll take the hatchet." A Life Seutence
