Business Men Must Co-operate to Make Fall Show a Success.

Southwestern Iowa Horticulturists to Be Present and Assist in Preparing a Program for the Big Show.

President J. P. Hess and Secretary George W. Reye of the National Horticultural congress are making a strenuous effort to get out a large and representative attendance of the business men of the city, as well as the fruit growers of Council Bluffs and immediate vicinity, at the meeting to be held this evening in the rooms of the Commercial club. Several hundred postal cards calling attention to the meeting have been mailed during the last few days by Secretary Reye, while President Hess has made a personal call upon many of the business

The officers of the National Horticultural congress realize that no further time should be wasted before definite plans and arrangements are made for the big fruit and vegetable display, which it is proposed to hold in Council Bluffs December 14 to 19, the same week as the National Corn exposition

The Southwestern Iowa Horticultural society has decided to hold its annual meeting and exhibit in Council Bluffs and in connection with the National Horticultural congress this in itself will do much to make the National Horticultural congress a success, but the officers of the congress are alive to the fact that the co-operation of the business men of Council Bluffs is absoand it is now up to the business men and the people generally of the city to do their

At the meeting this evening J. M. Bechtel of Hamburg, president of the Southwestern Iowa Horticultural society, and other officers and members of that organisation will be present, with the intention of formulating or at least of outlining the program for their meeting in conjunction with the National Horticultural congress.

Court's Findings to Omnha. The military court which tried Major George and which was reconvened by orders of the War department finished its work in one day and mailed the report to Omaha the purpose of having it correct an error or else to ask it to reconsider its findings. At the conclusion of the first trial things looked favorable for Major George. When the court was reconvened it was thought to look somewhat bad for him. The fact that the court finished its work on reconvening in such a short time makes army men believe that it was either for correcting an error or else the court refused to reconsider its findings. The court will remain at Fort Des Moines till the results of the trial are announced, which will be in a few days.

When a day, although the top of $8.10 was again military court is reconvened it is either for reached by some choice beeves. They were sent to this market by E. T. Graham of Creston, Neb. He had two loads of eighteen, each averaging 1,611 pounds apiece Mr. Graham is one of the big feeders of the state and always has a good line of stock. He fed the cattle over six months to get them in good shape. Hiram Holstein of Dodge, Neb., also had some fine cattle, averaging 1,513 pounds each, which netted him $7.96.

Mr. Graham had a load of hogs which he had raised with his cattle, and these brought the top market of $6.25. The high price of cattle is up to the record for the present year, but the commission men are looking for a breaking of all known records before the close of next week. The high point of the South Omaha market was made in the summer of 1902, when for several days as high as $8.35 was hald for good stock. Several of the commission men have disputed the recently made statement from supposedly good sources, that the record price was made on a load of premium cattle from the stock show of that year, but that those high prices were prevalent.

The Des crawling up though. He took, it is alleged, a lot of copper cents and a revolver, and disappeared. Lately he returned to South Omaha, where he was spotted by Chief Briggs and placed under arrest. The boy is said to be well connected in the city. Joe Cummings was arrested by Officer Hank Elsfelder in Sloux City for appropriating $350 of his mother's money and making his unheralded exit from the city. He was traced to Sioux City, where Elsfelder was sent. Knowing the boy well, he had no difficulty in finding him. He had $300 in his possession, but had spent the $50. He is now in the city jail awaiting trial. It is not known what attitude the parents will take in the case. He is the son of Charles Cummings, a well-known citizen of the city. Cummings has always been prominent in political circles. The Board of Fire and Police Commissioners of South Omaha held the regular monthly session last evening at the coun cil chamber. The chief item was the passing of a motion forbidding exhibition boxing contests in the future. For several weeks the Eagle Athletic association has been arranging matches at the Ancient Order of United Workmen temple. At the last contest the spectators persisted in so much unprofessional conduct and were so unsportsman like that the chief of police was compelled to warn the young men that they would have to mend their ways or he would forbid the entertainments. It seems the fire and police commissioners took the hint and after making inquiry came to the conclusion that the safer plan would be to prohibit such contests altogether. The action will cause considerable disappointment to the lovers of the art of boxing. Fire Chief Garratt was granted leave of absence for twenty-five days to attend the national convention of fire chiefs to b held in August at Columbus, O. Police Chief Briggs in his regular report to the board mentioned the antiquated switch board now in use in the city jall and recommended that an improved system for the reports of patrolmen be installed in the new city jail. RACE FOR DIVORCE COURT

Mrs. Redman Wins and Her Petition Goes on Docket Ahead of Husband's.

While there is a good deal of satisfaction in having the last word in a domestic dispute, there is real advantage in having the first word when that domestic debate gets into the divorce court. Thus thought Benjamin A. Redman, a fireman, and his wife, Laura M. Redman, when they started their respective lawyers for the court house Wednesday, each with a divorce petition in his pocket. Of course the woman won and consequently Mrs. Redman's petition is No. 75 on the docket and Mr. Redman's plea for a divorce is No. 76, and Mrs. Redman will get to tell her side of their marital troubles to the court first.

Mrs. Redman says Benjamin has been cruel husband and she cites several in stances in which she says he knocked her down and otherwise mistreated her, besides calling her names and making false accusations against her. Once, she says, he broke the door of their home down. She wants the custody of their child.

In the recital of his side of the story, Mr. Redman says Laura has not been a good wife to him, but has evinced an ungovernable temper, has used bad language toward him, has slapped him and then went away and said she would never live with him any more. He says she also received a letter signed by one "Henry," and when he reproached her she became very angry and struck him.

Mary H. Garrett wants a divorce from James G. Garrett, asserting he threatened her and has abandoned her. She asks the restoration of her maiden name, Tempest.
