At the annual convention the fraternity in Chicago recently a bureau of publicity was created and a committe appointed to secure co-operation of all other fraternities in promoting a safe and moral unity of high school and college fraternities. Resolutions were adopted prothiting the use of liquors at public gather ngs and providing for club rooms in scho

Under the rule adopted by the Board school fraternity. If already a member the dgner must agree to discontinue membersuspension and dismissal from the school. The rule is drastic, but is a necessary disciplinary measure, and the right to enforce such a measure has been affirmed by the supreme court of the state.

In Indiana the outlawed fraternities arsecure a repeal of the state law of 1907, which provides:

"It shall be unlawful for the pupils schools; and the Board of School Commissloners, or board of trustees of any school own or city, and the trustees of any school or any of them."

Commenting on the movement the Indianapolis News says: "We regard it as a righteous and wholesome law and clearly within the province of the legislature to cease existence, but it has made them resocieties which, besides being undemo whole theory of the public schools, can be used to organize opposition to a law which present law should be strictly enforced."

Compensation of Leader

Higher Education. The Carnegie pension fund has gathered acts from 100 colleges and universities and finds that the pay of a full professor varies from $1,350 to $4,500 a year, the average "beng somewhere near $2,500." This is now, but it shows an advance in fifteen years. Education of Chicago, effective September President Harper of Chicago university next, every student entering the high gathered facts from 124 institutions in 1865, schools will be required to sign individ- and be concluded that "the average pay of ually or by parent or guardian a paper professors was $1,470,50." Violation of the agreement works delphia Press, with the same field and their where he might find work if he could do results show a decided rise in the pay of professors. This advance is, however, nostly in the larger institutions. Harvard, Yale, Columbia and Princeton have raised large funds which have been employed to ncrease professors' salaries in the last seeking to influence public sentiment and five years. President Harper by his administration of Chicago university left as his the monument an advance in the range tory schools; the other to train mechanics of professors' salaries, and the smaller colof the elementary or high schools of leges in New England have in some cases this state to form secret societies, fraterni- been forced to raise sainties to keep good tles or other similar organizations in such men. This In Germany, France, England and Scotland furnishes additional reason why the present the successful professor gets more than the our schools extremely well, not only the cratic in their nature and opposed to the Germany who is doing mediocre or subordinate work.

But this is the American rule and practice large majority of educators deem fully in the army and navy, relative to other justified by circumstances. > Wentworth Military Academy. Wentworth Military academy at Lexington, Mo., enjoyed the past year the largest attendance, as usual, of all military schools west of the Mississippi, having an enroll ment of nearly 200 students. Active prepar ations are now being made for a still larger school this year. Among the new features introduced last year was the seperate department for small boys which proved a great benefit to the cadets. The avairy feature will be introduced the coming season. Special attention to backward students will be given this year. Assurance from the War department that Major Hickman will continue another year as commandant of cadets has caused general rejoicing, as much of the success and phenomenal growth of the academy has been largely due to his excellent work, as well as the wise management of Colonel W. M. Hoge, the superintendent.

Volunteer Education.

Plans were made at the recent meeting in Seveland of the National Educational association for the organization of a national association for volunteer education to be associated with it. The movement was autherized at the national convention at Los Angeles last year, and a temporary organization was effected at the meeting of the Superintendent's association in Washington in February. This is principally a woman's movement in its present shape, but the president, Miss Laura Drake Gill, of Washington, who is arranging for a meeting, is of the opinion that men will become interested in the movement.

> IMPORTANCE OF WORK SCHOOLS Significant Views of New York's Com missioner of Education. According to Dr. Andrew S. Draper, com missioner of education for the state of New York, there is something very like : revolution impending in our public educa-"When but one-third of the children remain to the end of the elementary course," he tells us, "in a country where education is such a passion, there is something the matter with the schools." What the matter is, he thinks, is a lack of "sufficient articulation between the educational and the industrial systems of the country."

"Our elementary schools train for no in dustrial employments. They lead to nothing but the secondary school, which in turn leads to the college, the university, and the professional school, and so very exclusively to professional occupations. One who goes out of the school system at the end of the elementary school is not only unprepared for any vocation which will be open to him, but too commonly he is without that intellectual training which should make him eager for opportunity and incite him to the utmost effort to do just as well as he can whatever may open to him. He goes without respect for the manual industries

Dr. Draper thinks that it is time t organize a wholly new form of schools as a part of the public system, involving two classes, "one to train all-around mechanics for work in factories, where each is a part of an organization, and where much ma hinery is used-these to be known as fac to work independently, mainly with their own tools, and without much machinerythese to be known as trade schools."

"These schools are not primarily to quicken mentality nor to develop culture; those things wil come, as far as is well in the regular order. They are not to train mechanical or electrical engineers the literary and technical schools are doing that very amply. They are not even to develop foremen; these will develop them seives, for they will forge ahead of their fellows by reason of their own ability assidutty, and force. The schools are t contain nothing which naturally leads away from the shop. They are to train workmen to do better work that they may ear:

more bread and butter." "This is a significant statement for a expert in the position of Dr. Draper," comments the New York Times. "He is a man of wide and long experience. He knows law instead of being repealed should be best men are paid here. The average man city schools, but those of rural districts strictly enforced. The state cannot afford in a professor's chair here, or the in- and of other states, as well as the colleges to permit in any of the public schools secret structor or assistant professor, gets from and uiversities. It will be noted that his riticism is not directed to the high school chiefly, though it applies to them, but to the elementary schools in which pupils below 13 usually are trained. He finds in the elementary schools as great a percentage of falling out before finishing the course as in high schools, so it is the general rule that hardly more than 10 per cent of the children entering the elementary schools reach farther up the ladder is not relatively so the close of the high school course.
