Rection 3 After January 1, 1913, it shall be unlawful for any person to use on the public highways of this state a wagon or vehicle highways of this state a wagon or vehicle having tires less than four inches in width to convey loads which, exclusive of the vehicle, weigh more than one (1,000) pounds, and any person who, after January 1, 1913, uses on the public highways of this state a vehicle having tires less than four inches in width to convey loads which, exclusive of the vehicle, weigh more than one (1,000) thousand pounds, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than five (35) dollars, nor more than one hundred ($100) dollars.

Section 4. The employment of a sled having a runner, the face of which is less than four inches in width, but used only when the reads are covered with snow or ice, shall not be deemed a violation of this act or prevent the payment of the rebate,

Joint Drainage Bill.

The supervisors of Harrison and Pottawattamic counties, in session in this decided to grant the petition for the estublishment of a subdrafnage district to the main drainage district known as the Harrison-Pottawattamie drainage district

The proposed new ditch will commence where the Boyer cut-off No. 2 taps the Boyen river and will extend to a point beyond Daveland. The estimated cost of the construction of the ditch, which will drain a large territory not reached by the ditches now nearing completion, will be slightly over $40,000.

Brother in Bluffs. J. E. P. McGee, formerly of this city, died Sunday afternoon at Bartelsville, Okl., about forty miles from his home at Independence, Kan. Notice of his death, which was quite sudden, was received late Sunday night by his brother, Harry G. McGee, Who left at once for Independence. It is expected that he will bring the body back to Council Bluffs for burial. No particulars are known here, beyond that death followed an Illness of about one hour.

Mr. McGee visited relatives in this city a few weeks ago. Although he had not seen in robust health for several years, he declared when he first arrived here that ne was feeling better than he had for a long time. During his visit, however, his health broke down and he was far from well when he returned to his home in Kansas.

Since leaving Council Bluffs a few years ago, Mr. McGee had been engaged in the oll business. While his home was in Independence. Kan., his office and business were in Bartelsville, Okl., the center of one of the large oil fields of that state. J. E. F. McGee was born in Fedeman W. Va., December 23, 1861. His parents removed to Council Bluffs, but subsequently returned to West Virginia. Some years after his father's death, his motheer returned to Council Bluffs, bringing her three children, H. G. McGee, J. E. F. McGee and a daughter, Anna, now Mrs. W. S. Cooper of this city.

Mr. McGee was educated in the public schools of Pennsylvania and Council Blufts and at Cornell university. He studied law first with Leonard Everett and later with the late Colonel D. B. Dalley. He was admitted to the bar in 1886, and for several years was associated with Hon. Walter I. Smith, now congressman from the Ninth services.

Benjamin Douglas Loses Contest Over Pottawattamie Land.

Judge O. D. Wheeler of the district court handed down his decision yesterday in the suit of Benjamin Douglass, ir., of New York against F. C. and E. H. Lougee of this city dismissing the petition of the plaintiff and the cross petition of the defendant and taxing the costs to the plaintiff.

The suit was begun in 1908 and was tried about a year ago, since when Judge ure in filling the vacancy. Governor Cum-Wheeler has had it under advisement. It is recog nized that unless the thing is done in a legal manner it would give grounds for ap peals to the United States supreme court in attacks on the validity of the court's deisions and would thus afford means for endless delays in court proceedings by those disposed to prolong litigation by appeals to technicalities.

Tell Another Woman

We do you a kindness when we urge you to try Van Camp's. So, when we succeed, and you begin to enjoy this dish, please pass the favor on. Tell some other woman what she misses, just as we told you.

A business like this isn't purely commercial. It renders enduring service.

We have spent 47 years in learning to perfect one dish. The result is that beans-which are 84% nutriment-have been given a new deliciousness.

Millions of homes now enjoy these beans. Millions of dollars are saved by them. For Van Camp's Beans, to a large extent, are taking the place of meat.

So we ask you to help this good work along, when you learn how good beans can be.

We may tell you our story over and over before we induce you to buy. But, when you get the first can, you are surprised and delighted. Then let others know.

We depend for at least one-half of our trade on one woman telling another.

Please remember that millions of women still bake their beans in the old way. They spend hours in the process, yet the dish that results is not very inviting.

They bake in dry heat because they lack the live steam. The result is, the top beans are crisped, while the beans in the center are not even half baked.

The beans are mushy and soggy because the skins have been broken. The heat of the oven is insufficient, so the beans, in large part, are indigestible. They ferment and

The result is a heavy food, hard to digest. So they serve it, usually, only once a week.

Please let them know how we bake.

We bake in live steam, so no beans are crisped, no skins are broken. They are baked until they are mealy, yet they are nutty because they are whole.

Our ovens are heated to 245 degrees, and we bake in small parcels so the full heat goes through. We apply to every bean about twice the heat that gets to the center of your baking dish.

Thus the particles are separated so the digestive juices can get to them. The beans are all nourishment; they don't ferment and form gas.

Then we bake the beans, the tomato sauce and the pork all together, and get our delicious blend.

Tell your friends how different the result is from the beans they bake at home.

Van (amp's PORK AND BEANS

About once a day in summer you ought to serve Van Camp's. You'll find that people don't tire of beans when served in the Van Camp way. And think what it means, in hot weather, to have meals ready-cooked.

Don't think, when you learn how good are Van Camp's, that other ready-baked beans are like them.

In the first place, there is a vast difference in beans. We use only the choicest Michigan beans. They are picked over by hand to give us only the whitest, the plumpest, the fullest-grown.

We frequently pay, for such beans as these, seven and eight times what common beans would cost.

We spend five times as much to make our tomato sauce as common sauce costs ready-made. We use whole tomatoes ripened on the vines-not tomatoes picked greennot scraps from a canning factory.

That's why our sauce has that sparkling zest which Nature alone can give. It pays to get the best beans, for the best are cheap enough. Give your people beans so good that they'll want them often, for beans are far cheaper than meat. If somebody says "My beans are as good as Van Camp's," buy a can and see. Serve both brands together and let your people decide. We are willing to
