Course Lies Over Irregular and Rutted

Ronds. RANGELEY, Me., July 22.-A trying day's run was hald out for the participants in to-day's, the last but one, in the Gildden au-tomobile tour, the course lying over 130 miles of irregular roads through the Range-ley lakes and White mourtains regions, with the little town of Bethlehem, N. H., as the destination of the day's touring. The deeply ruited roads which made yea-terday's run the most uncomfortable of the tour, were again among the difficulties to be encountered. Th running time of six hours and thirty minutes which had been allowed, necessitated a speed of twenty miles an hour or more, so that there might be spare time to draw upon in the event of accidents, such as cost the Bay State team its standing among the leaders yea-terday.
