

OMAHA SURE OF WOOL MART

Gate City Will Get the Warehouse, Says J. A. Delfelder. CHICAGO HAS NO CHANCE AT IT To Locate the Depot Elsewhere, He Points Out, Would Be to Defeat the Object of the Wool Producer.

"Without a doubt Omaha will get the warehouse of the National Wool Growers' association when the executive committee meets in Salt Lake City, August 24, to discuss the proposition of locating the warehouse," says J. A. Delfelder, president of the Wyoming Wool Growers' association and vice president of the Omaha and Wool and Storage company.

"If the committee had desired to locate the warehouse in Chicago, it would have been settled at the Cheyenne meeting, said Mr. Delfelder. 'As it is, it appears to me that the matter was postponed to give the question consideration which will end in the warehouse being located at Omaha.' To build the warehouse at any other point on the map would be to defeat the purpose of the wool growers who want their wools marketed in bulk and sold at some such point at Omaha, near to where they are grown. It is already two nights and over a day from Omaha to Sheridan, and some of the points where large amounts of wool are shipped. To build a wool warehouse in Chicago would add another night and part of a day at least and place the wools from 1,000 to 1,500 miles from the growers.

"Now what the wool growers want is to eliminate the middlemen and sell their own wools or have them sold by their own organization direct to the manufacturers. They are willing to divide the amount they will make by cutting out the middlemen's profits with the manufacturers and the result is that the manufacturers favor the western storage houses.

Army of Wool Buyers. "Every year an army of wool buyers goes into the Wyoming, Montana and other western wool country. They live well, hire teams for long drives, spend money on the growers and with the business men in the towns and are generally extravagant. On account of their number, I should say they spend almost $1,000,000 annually buying the crop. They draw it out over as long a period as possible, buying from $0,000 to 125,000 pounds a week. It takes a long time to buy 70,000,000 pounds—the crop of Montana and Wyoming, at that rate.

"The extravagant buyers are paid good salaries and the total of their enormous expenses comes out of the grower. In other words, the western wool growers are paying for the extravagant method of marketing the wool crop. 'But Omaha, not Chicago, will give the wool growers a better method. The Chicagoans have spoken too late. Omaha had the enterprise to start a wool warehouse and the growers have received better prices because of Omaha's enterprise. Some of the members of the executive committee favored Chicago at Cheyenne, but I anticipate that they will change their minds before they reach Salt Lake City. It is certain that the Wyoming growers will stand by Omaha.'

Dr. Ross, Dentist, 418 Barker Bldg. INCREASE IS HEADED OFF Rise in Minimum Carload Weights of Fruit and Dairy Products Prevented.

By earnest work with other commercial clubs and shippers' association it is believed the Commercial club of Omaha has succeeded in preventing an increase in minimum carload weights on fruit and dairy products. The proposed increase meant much to Omaha dealers, as they are among the largest shippers in the United States of fruit and butter.

Commissioner Guild was compelled to leave the meeting of the Western Classification committee before it was adjourned, but he was there long enough—ten days—to see some effective work done in opposition to the increase in minimum weights.

Mr. Guild also believes the new classification will not increase the minimum weight on carloads of farm implements. It was proposed to increase the weight from 20,000 to 24,000 pounds. Mr. Guild said that 150 petitions were heard at the meeting and 400 subjects were on the docket of the committee. One item when subdivided had over 1,000 items on which it was proposed to increase the minimum weight. Mr. Guild also opposed any attempt to mix carloads and several such proposals came before the committee. The mixtures are proposed each year in the hope of some day getting a rule through which will permit eastern houses shipping mixed carloads of merchandise into the west at carload rates.

ASKS TO FILE WITHOUT FEE Socialist Candidate Wants to Protest Payment of Ten Dollars, but He Cannot. When Dr. H. J. Aberly of South Omaha filed Monday morning for secretary of state on the socialist ticket he would like to pay his $10 filing fee under protest.

When Dr. H. J. Aberly of South Omaha filed Monday morning for secretary of state on the socialist ticket he would like to pay his $10 filing fee under protest. The deputy treasurer told him that no protest could be attached to the filing fees of officers and that there remain no strings by which the money can be recovered as in some instances when taxes are paid under protest. The socialist candidate must pay $10, and that the payment must be bona fide, with no protest. The doctor decided to file.

CORN CAPTURES VIRGINIA

King of Nebraska Adds Old Dominion to His Conquest. CROWDS OUT TOBACCO AS CROP

Original State Will Send Its Quota of Cereals to Omaha for the National Corn Exposition.

Virginia has taken to raising corn instead of tobacco and over 200 farmers in the original state are now interested in producing corn for the big exposition to be held in Omaha during December, according to E. C. Bishop, deputy superintendent of public instruction of Nebraska, who has just returned from Virginia. "From all appearances it will be passed to a corn muffin instead of a 'clear Havana,' have a little corn flake instead of a mild Manila and slip me a bowl of corn starch instead of a chew of 'natural leaf' or 'long green,'" said Prof. Bishop when in Omaha Monday. "Virginia farmers are interested in corn raising and the west seems to have inculcated the old eastern states with the idea that corn can be produced on the old soils at a greater profit than tobacco, which has been the crop for a century and a half."

Prof. Bishop has been attending the meeting of the National Educational association at Cleveland, where he had charge of the division of agriculture in the public schools. He also spent several weeks in Virginia and addressed summer normals on the subject of agriculture in the schools. Tobacco is Uncertain.

The Nebraska educator found corn claiming the attention of Virginia farmers to a remarkable extent. The uncertainty of the tobacco market and the unsettled condition of the trade, together with the troubles of the growers' and buyers' organizations have all had an influence in bringing about the revolution in Virginia farming, and the result is that the tobacco plant, which has always been produced to supply a product of luxury, is being crowded by the corn plant which produces probably at the present time the most valuable of foods to feed the people of the United States and the hungry world outside.

The school teachers of Virginia are particularly desirous of being represented at the National Corn exposition and will offer many exhibits for the industrial department. N. L. Merritt, industrial agent of the Norfolk & Southern Railroad company, has notified the management of the corn show that he has 20 farmers interested in producing corn for the National Corn exhibit.

With the reservation made for the Virginia exhibits, there is a line of states from the Atlantic to the Pacific which will make exhibits at the exposition in Omaha next December.
