Many Buyers, Not Waiting for Rates, Arrive at Wholczale Houses.

TRADERS TO MEET NEXT WEEK

Special Railroad Rates Will Bring Hundreds, Who Will Buy Liberally, According to Size-Up of Situation.

Though the "merchants' meetings" do not begin until Saturday, jobbers and wholesalers have opened the new week with a better store trade and very fair assortments of store orders from various sections of the country. Many buyers have arrived in the city early, regardless of the fact that rates are offered as a special inducement next week.

The sales of last week helped to increase the turnoyer of goods in this market, while at the same time jobbers were able to book more orders than has been the case at any time since the season opened.

It is rapidly getting near the time when petailers must make their purchases to cover their fall needs. While much looking around has been done, buyers are beginning to realize that the fall season in their own establishment will shortly open.

Specialties Are Offered. Wholesalers are busy placing many specigities for the first fall merchants' meeting. Aiready special offerings are being made in the wholesale dry goods houses, hospital, where he was attended by police The stocks carried in each department are larger than ever before and comprise goods seriously bruised about the head and on which have been carefully selected in both the body. the domestic and foreign markets.

To take a general view of the situation at clase range Joe Kelley, sales manager of The automobile of Mr. Allen was going in M. E. Smith & Co., wholesale dry goods the same direction, but at Twenty-fourth dealers, took a flying trip over the territory in western Nebraska and eastern Colorado. Mr. Kelley said on his return Twenty-fourth street and to speed up a this week:

While I have traveled in the territory more or less for years and am somewhat acquainted with its resources and buying power, I do not believe I ever saw such a possibility for trade as there is at present. Oats in Western Nebraska.

MERCHANTS COME TO OMAHA realized from stock and hay I heard men say to each other: 'Plant oats this year? Yes, a few.' 'How many acres?' 'Oh, !

don't know exactly, 160 or 200 acres.' "And then they gave the astonishing information that the oats were threshing out well and running from thirty to thirty-two pounds to the bushel. This out where vervone thinks oats cannot be grown. From all indications western Nebraska will have a surplus oats crop, beside all of the grain which they can use on the ranches.

"I found our best buyers getting ready to buy more than usual this year and everything looks well for an enormous trade.
