Arnold Massage Vibrator Reaches the Seat of Disease by External Application.

Works so simple a child can operate it and give as good massage as Wrinkles, Crowsfeet, Pimples and all irregularities

The thousands of people who are interested in massage and its beneficial results will be pleased to know that permanent headquarters for the Arnold Vibrator, the new electrical woonder, have been established in Monheit's Hair Store, 1411 Farnam Street, where everybody is cordially welcome.

SCIENCE OF TODAY Few people realize the tremendous strides science has made in the last few years. We read, but fall to appreciate the advantages to be derived by an application of inventions and discoveries—cither ignoring completely, or forgetting things that might benefit us materially, perhaps not today, but tomorrow, next week or next month. Enormous institutions have been built, physicians, surgeons, specialists and quacks have become wealthy upon this failing of people to take advantage of the inventions of the age, this carriessness as to their physical health by people living in this century—this strenuous age—this carriess age it might better be called. We neglect the trifles which might be easily remedied, many years of suffering obviated, to say nothing of the many thousand dollars which might otherwise have been diverted into our own pockets before these trifles ripen into some permanent disease.

which might otherwise have been diverted into our own pockent before these trifles ripen into some permanent disease.

BELATION OF THE NERVES TO THE BODILY AILMENTS.

Science tells us that nine-tenths of all physical aliments are caused directly or indirectly by the nerves. Even those who pay little heed to physiology know the important part their nerves play in that harmonious condition of the body and mind. The nerves control the supply of blood to the tissues and when the herves become weakened or inactive, the blood stops its building-up process and the tissues decay. Here, then, is the fundamental principle of health. With a proper supply of blood the constantly wearing out tissues are built up as fast as they become useless; the blood performing the double function of bringing the necessary "building" material and carrying away the refuse.

NOW SHALL WE KEEP THE BLOOD WORKING?

Easy enough in theory—by careful, systemic exercise, exercising each muscle which necessitates the exercise of the nerves; the nerves would then without any help from us supply the proper amount of blood to every part of the body. The idea of continual exercise is all right in theory, but the present generation are too busy to incorporate it in their daily life, hence all the ills and pain to which mankind is heir.

Science has again come to our aid, and done the next best thing—supplied a remedy for our unnatural condition—nervous disorders and disease. In the olden days, man with his slight knowledge of anatomy and nerves, discovered that certain ins were susceptible to the laying on of the hands and annointing with oll watch later became known as "massage." Today physicians, scientists and most of the laymen recognize the wonderful benefits of this manipulation of the nerves, and today the clumsy method of hand massage has been replaced by the more sure and quicker "mechanical massage." The ARNOLD MASSAGE VIBRATOR—a small instrument, almost a toy in size, the latest scientific method of giving hand massage by mechanical means. Giving the same movements as the hands, and the soft, velvety applicators, the same tensity of the fingers. The whole instrument, motor and all, only weighing but 26 ounces; and yet the ARNOLD MASSAGE VIBRATOR, small as it is, can give as powerful a massage as the strongest masseur with a great deal more efficiency, in one-tenth of the time at a cost of only 5 cents.

Cures Weak and Lame Back, Lumbago,

Massage for the Face, Neck and Bust.

The ARNOLD MASSAGE VISRATOR is attached either to an ordinary electric light socket or to a set of dry batteries when no current is at hand. A small but powerful electric motor causes an arm to vibrate the soft rubber applicators at the rate of 20,000 vibrations a minute and yet as light and gentie in its touch as the caressing stroke of a fond mother's hand. The regulation is accomplished while the machine is in operation and enables the operator to apply the treatment mild or atrong, as the case may roquire, regulating the stroke instantly. Call or write and we will explain in an impartial way the comparatice value of the various machines offered. Write for a free 80 page book on vibration to H K Harthun. Gen. Between Omaha and Chicago the executive committee of the National Wool choose the location for the big association storage houses after a visit to a number of western cities. This is the belief of J. M. Guild, commissioner of the Commercial club, who returned Saturday morning from Salt Lake City with other members of the Omaha delegation who attended a meeting of the Wool Growers' association for the purpose of bidding for the big warehouse. Other nembers of the delegation were Charles H. King, James L. Paxton, jr.; A. J. Love. J. A. Stryker, J. A. Hake, Fred Huber, W.

F. King and G. V. Newcomb. "It is not because the other cities do not offer some inducements, but because Chicago and Omaha are the two most logical points and, of course, we believe Omaha is the most logical because it gives the growers a better opportunity to attend the sales of their wool and become more intimate with the bankers who will advance money on the clips," said Mr. Guild.

Other Cities Out of It.

"To determine the status of the case, I stopped in Denver and I don't believe the Denver business men are working overtime to secure the wool storage plant, as they are busy on a line which Omaha cannot possibly claim. Sait Lake City is practically out of the ruce. St. Paul and Minneapolis are too far north from a railroad standpoint. Kansan City was not represented at the conference in Salt Lake City, and St. Joseph is too far south-just as much out of line as St. Paul and Minneapolls." So it seems the Wool Growers' association will choose between Omaha and Chicago. The committee will visit Omaha in October and will also visit the other

The presence of Mr. Gulld and Omahans in Salt Lake City undoubtedly prevented the wool growers from stampeding for Chicago, as 'some of the members of the executive committee were convinced that Chicago was the place until they heard what Omaha had to offer. This caused the postponement of a decision, which was all that Omaha wanted.

Omahn Fairly Treated.

"We have been treated unusually fair in this matter," the commissioner said. "The men who compose the executive committee are fair-minded business men and open to arguments and sound business reasoning. We will be prepared to show them when they come to Omaha."

Utah has developed a strong preference for Omaha and the Sait Lake City Tribune. Salt Lake City Herald and the Intermountain Republican openly supported the Omahans and upheld the contentions of Commissioner Guild. The Intermountain Republican tells of the smooth and secret methods of W. H. Manss, industrial commissioner of the Chicago Commercial association. The Intermountain Republi-

That they would do so and that Chicago would be selected as the meeting in this city was the form conviction. ### Just Missed Johnstown Flood.

A director of a western railroad was going east on company business in the spring of 1889, and before leaving his wife had one of those strange warnings which are supposed to give notice of approaching catastrophe. Mrs. Director begged her husband not to go, but, of course, he had to attend to his duties. The night before he left the woman dreamed that her husband's life was endangered by water, the details of the dream, however, occurring on the ocean, and she made him promise not to go near the ocean or on any water while he was in the east.

Her husband promised and fulfilled his his wife read in the paper the first news buy trouble, but a quarter buys Dr. King's before the dam burst.

Every day the dog would watch and when Tommie went dowatown to play pool with the bridge that night the feeling of impending boys the bowwow paid no attention, but as moon as he set out for the railroad the dog trotted after him. The dog had been in the habit of doing this for a long time, when one day he didn't show up as the time came to start for the yards. Tommie worried over his dog's strange desertion, and the more he thought of it the more he wondered and worried. Finally he had come to the conclusion that the dog knew in some atrange way that there was going to be an accident and couldn't bear to see his master leave on what probably would be his last trip. Tommie Takes a Leap.

Then Tommie had it all figured out-not to his satisfaction, however. He began to plan how he might escape the impending danger. He didn't stop to think that if happen to his master why then something certainly had to happen, for if there was a way to escape the danger and Tommie took advantage of that way out of the difficulty, why, of course, the dog ought to have known that also and consequently the canine shouldn't have felt worried.

As the engine dragged its iong line o cars slowly along a newly laid piece of track Tommie had time to think over what he would do when the wreck occurred, for he felt sure there was to be a wreck of some kind. While thinking over this Tommin was slowly shoveling in coal, and just then, deciding that he ought to tell the engineer so that he also would be warned. he straightened up.

There was a blinding flash of a head light in his eyes, a roar of a fast train rushing upon them, and Temmie, without stopping to shout at the engineer, jumped overboard, rolled over and over down the bank and splashed into a pool of water, while the passenger train that had frightened him went by on the other track that

The only way to be comfortable, if fat, in hot weather, is to get thin-that is, reduce. This is paradoxical, but it is true -and they say the truth is bitter.
