 Lincoln Minister on "Worries"—Rev. F. S. Stein of Lincoln has accepted an invitation to speak at the First Congregational church Sunday morning. He has announced that the subject of his sermon will be "The Folly and Sin of Worry."
 Woman Loses Her Husband—Leona L. Reasoner says in a petition filed in district court, she does not know where James M. Reasoner is, as she has not heard from him for several years and she wants a divorce. She charges desertion and non-support.
 Mr. Stanhope Fleming received a message Friday that Mr. John A. Hall, president of the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance company of Springfield, Mass., had died in London, England, Thursday. Mr. Hall was recognized as one of the most prominent of the insurance fraternity.
 Sheep and Cattle from West—A. B. Daniels, "chief of police" of Douglas, Wyo., is in Omaha, bringing in nine carloads of sheep and two carloads of cattle. Mr. Daniels is the sheep rancher and capitalist who headed the Douglas reception committee to the tri-state trade excursionists and "arrested" the Omaha delegation in Douglas last spring.
 Canvassing Board Organized—The canvassing board consisting of County Clerk Haverly, M. O. Cunningham and Otto J. Baumann met Friday morning and organized and then adjourned until 2 o'clock, when the work of counting the primary vote will start. It will probably require from five days to a week to complete the count.

 Little Boy is Buried—The funeral of Ladora Reed, the 13-year-old colored boy who was drowned at East Omaha several days ago, was held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the undertaking rooms of the Harry B. Davis company. Rev. G. E. Wright conducted the services. The unfortunate lad lived at 211 North Eleventh street.
 Mrs. Ellison Wants Property—For the second time Mrs. Olive B. Ellison has gone into court to secure possession of goods from her husband, Francis J. Ellison, from whom she is seeking a divorce. Friday she filed a suit in county court to replevin from him two bay horses, some farm implements and household goods, a quantity of wine and half the pigeons and squabs on their poultry farm.
 Morton on Court-Martial Board—Brigadier General Morton, with nearly all the other army officers of equal rank in the United States, has been appointed to sit on a board of court-martial, which will convene at Fort Wayne, Michigan, near Detroit, September 29. The president of the board will be General Grant. The general will leave Omaha probably Saturday for the military tournament at St. Joseph and will go from there to Michigan.
 Says Wife Drives Away Trade—Complaining his wife was in the habit of beating him occasionally and using abusive language frequently, Charles Koffman has applied for a divorce from Lena Koffman. Mr. Koffman also says his wife comes into his restaurant and drives customers away by her actions. He wants the court to restrain her from visiting his restaurant or interfering with his business. Carrie L. Mundin has secured a divorce from George A. Mundin on grounds of extreme cruelty.
 Charge Against Dog Catchers—Asserting that he was badly beaten and kicked by two colored dog catchers because he rode up to the wagon to see if any of his own dogs had been captured, Teddy Moeller, a messenger boy for the Postal Telegraph company, filed complaint in police court charging the dog catchers with assault and battery. Moeller stated that the assault occurred near Thirty-second and Cumming streets Friday morning and that after knocking him down one of the dog catchers placed his foot over Moeller's mouth, while the other canine hunter kicked him in the face.

 Tom Lee's Bull Dog Gone—Detective Steve Maloney is doing a little sleuthing on his own account and is endeavoring to locate the whereabouts of one thoroughbred Boston bull terrier dog before the return of its owner to the city. The dog, which answers to the name of "Blacky," is the property of former city prosecutor Tom Lee, and when that worthy decided to leave the city for a vacation Detective Maloney volunteered to take charge of "Blacky," who has now mysteriously disappeared. As the dog has been the cause of several people going to jail Maloney is anxious to locate him before the return of the owner.
 Democratic Water Board Returns—Exact figures on the primary vote for democratic candidates for membership on the Omaha Water board will not be available until Saturday. The Third precinct of the Second ward was missing in the return sent to the office of the city clerk and the canvassing board will have to count the ballots before the majorities can be determined.
 Five Dollars for His Nap—The search for John Thomas, a negro, Thursday night for a place to go to sleep resulted in his slumbering in the police station. While in an intoxicated condition Thomas was wandering around the vicinity of Nineteenth and Webster and entered several houses and attempted to slumber in the parlor chairs until ejected by the tenants. Numerous telephone calls were received at the police station and an officer was hastened to the scene and arrested Thomas as he was being ejected from one of the houses. He was fined $5 and costs in police court Friday morning.
 Nothing Like Considerate Cnum—According to George L. Near, who rooms at 422 South Eighteenth street, there is nothing that can approach a considerate roommate. Referring to one Charles Ryan as his roommate, Near complained to the police that Ryan had decamped Thursday, taking with him about $50 worth of clothes and trinkets which belonged to Near. Before leaving the city Ryan thoughtfully pawned all the goods and secured about $20 for them. He then placed the pawn ticket in an envelope and considerably mailed it to Near. Most of the goods were recovered in the pawn shop.
 Old Game of Switching Packs—For swindling Leo Perri, a fruit dealer, out of $200 by the old game of switching packages on August 15 Frank Pise and Joe Lahlano were arraigned in police court Friday morning on the charge of grand larceny. After Perri had told his story of how the two men had approached him with a proposition whereby he could easily become the possessor of wealth and how he had trustingly given them $200, which they presumably wrapped up in a handkerchief with considerable more and gave to him to keep and then arrived home to find that he had only a torn newspaper in the handkerchief, the hearing was continued until next Friday.
 Commission Firm Sues Bank—George Burke company, a commission firm of South Omaha, has started suit in county court against the Independent Packing company and the Live Stock National bank for $17,300, the amount of a check it holds and which, it asserts, it cannot cash. According to the petition the check was given by the Independent Packing company for nine cattle bought of the plaintiff. Before the check was presented, however, it asserts the packing company transferred its entire account in the bank to the bank to cover its indebtedness and when the check was presented it came back marked "no funds." It asserts the bank and the packing company both should be held liable for its payment.
