This is to prevent persons from storing large quantities for future use or for the purpose of speculation.

Word from Aspen, east of Evanston, in of men is being worked by the Aspen Coal company. The property is being operated without machinery and the output is small.

The coal miners at Crosby, in Big Horn county, struck on September 1. The coal company is working a small force of nonunion men, and a few days ago the union men attempted to prevent the strikebreakers from working. The authorities took a hand and a serious fight was narrowly averted. The output of this mine is also very small.

Word from Kemmerer states that the Frontier Coal company a few days ago lost several contracts for supplying Utah and Colorado mines, and should the strike settled at once these mines will be unable to employ more than one-hulf the old force.
